Girl or Boy—Choose.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THIS COUNTRY annoys Japan with criticism unjustified, concerning matters not our business.

We irritate Russia, refusing to recognize one of the most strongly established governments on earth, presumptuously telling the Russians what kind of government they must not have.

The result may be to force an alliance of Russia and Japan against this and other western countries, perhaps a concentration of the two on this particular country.

WHY NOT LET Japan attend to her business in Asia, and let Russia have what government she chooses? We have the government we choose, and Heaven knows it is not perfect.

There is no proof that the Lord made this country to instruct Japan or Russia in moral truth.

We have enough business here undone, and plenty of incompetency. Why not try to attend to them?

TOMORROW THOUSANDS will travel to New Hampshire to watch our little moon as it passes between us and the giant sun, shutting out its light. The event is no more important than a child passing between you and the lamp by which you are reading.

The sun is 93,000,000 miles away, the moon only 238,000 miles away. Hold a half dollar close to your eye and it will shut out the biggest mountain. Place the half dollar on the mountain and you can't see it.

If the moon were 50,000,000 miles instead of 238,000 miles away, there would be no eclipse, the moon would not be visible from the earth at a fraction of that distance and could cast no shadow. In fact, the law of gravitation would draw it to the sun, where it would melt and vanish in less than a second.

THE ECLIPSE is important only because it proves that men are gradually overcoming ignorant superstitions and fears. Once such an eclipse would have put half the world on its knees, praying that the sun might not be destroyed. Now it only sends people looking for a piece of smoked glass, or a simple book on astronomy.

Knowledge makes everything simple. What was once considered a terrible mystery is merely a small particle of matter passing between us and the sun. Other mysteries of the universe will be simplified some day, as our intelligence and knowledge increase.

TOMORROW WILL be sold $6,000,000 bonds, first of $35,000,000 to be spent on a magnificent bridge across San Francisco's Golden Gate. The bridge will carry the ocean front highway from the Mexican border all the way to Seattle and beyond.

It will be the most magnificent bridge in the world, six thousand four hundred feet long, reaching from side to side of the Golden Gate, through which ships sail in from the Pacific to San Francisco's harbor.

That must be the greatest harbor in the world when the Pacific becomes, as it will become, the world's greatest ocean, in commerce as well as in size.

SCIENTIFIC IMPORTANT news of today, inaccurate let us hope, announces that the use of lactic acid by the mother will cause a girl baby to appear, whereas bicarbonate of soda will produce a heavy plurality of boys. Dr. Jacob Sanders, of Rotterdam, Holland, tells the International Congress of Genetics that seventy-eight mothers using bicarbonate of soda gave birth to seventy-seven boys.

Farmers will be interested to learn that the use of lactic acid on six cows produced six female calves.

That would help farming, but it would be a misfortune if the sex of human beings could be controlled. The vanity of fathers and the affection of mothers would soon make girls scarce.

SOMEONE, THINKING to utter a great protest, scribbled in red upon Grant's Tomb in New York these words:

"The good but starve, the order of the day
"Is prey on others or become a prey."

The verses might have been written by Pope, or some other writer of his period. Perhaps you can identify them. They suggest lines repeatedly attached in Paris to the Column Vendome:

"If all the blood that you have spilled could be gathered in this place, thou wouldst drink it without lowering thy head."

OTHER, MORE offensive, verses have appeared occasionally in Paris concerning the imitation Napoleon III. For instance:

"La France, en un jour de malheur, D'un cochon fit un empereur."

"France, in an unfortunate day, of a swine made an emperor."

The next two lines, referring to the empress whose stupidity brought upon France the war of 1870, are not to be printed.

IT APPEARS that newspaper publishers have some value, in hard times. The University of Southern California discovers

N. Y. MAYOR SERIOUSLY STRICKEN

Walker Suffers Heart Attack; Collapses Under Strain

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Mayor James J. Walker is seriously ill from heart trouble and his friends are gravely concerned by his condition, it was learned today.

The Mayor has been confined in bed in his apartment at the Mayfair since yesterday.

Dr. William H. Schroeder, his personal physician, is attending him and he is being allowed to receive few or no visitors.

MAY HALT HEARING

His secretary, George S. Collins, said it was uncertain whether the Mayor would be able to return to Albany for the resumption of the hearing Friday afternoon. He added:

"Whether Mayor Walker may ask the Governor for a postponement will all depend on his condition."

The body of the Mayor's brother, George F. Walker, who died at Saranac Lake, N. Y., was being brought here today. Funeral services will be held at St. Patrick's Cathedral Thursday, and

RUDY TO LET WIFE GET DIVORCE

'Still Love Fay, Her Wishes Are Mine,' Crooner Says

International News Service.

BUZZARDS BAY, Mass., Aug. 30.—America's "Vagabond Lover" wore a "trouper's smile" today, but off guard Rudy Vallee was downcast, a rift in his married life with his "ideal" having been revealed in New York.

The radio crooning idol said he still loves his bride, the former Fay Webb, of the motion pictures, but will not stand in her way if she seeks a Reno divorce. The curly-haired Rudy said:

"Any action that is started will come from Fay. I saw my wife last Thursday. We had a long talk. What is on her mind I cannot disclose. That information must come from her.

DENIES SEEKING DIVORCE

"If she seeks a divorce I'll not oppose her wishes. I still love her and her wishes are mine. I have no intention of starting any action against her. There is no truth to statements that I have sought or will seek a divorce. I will see my lawyer when I return to New York on Thursday. I am filling an engagement with my orchestra here.

Sand-Tow Steamer Ordered 'Evicted'

THE STEAMER R. F. WINTON AND HER TWO BARGES WHARFED IN THE ALLEGHENY RIVER

LANG ORDERS EVICTION OF BARGES

Contractor Douglas' Use of Wharf Opposed

Police today were ordered to aid, if necessary, in eviction of a steamer and two barges which John Douglas, Jr., had anchored in the Allegheny River at the foot of Sixth street in his alleged effort to obtain sand and gravel business for Pittsburgh's new $8,000,000 postoffice, now tied up by a strike.

Edward G. Lang, director of public works, gave the eviction order after he learned that the steamer R. F. Winton and two barges were occupying wharf frontage which had been re-leased only yesterday to the Iron City Sand Company.

The captain of the Winton today denied that Douglas had bought his craft. He said he towed in the barges for Douglas, but had no other interest in the case.

LANG'S STAND

Lang said:

"I have notified the Department of Public Safety to assist, if necessary, in having the boat and barges removed at once."

Douglas wants to supply sand and gravel through employment of union hoisting engineers to lift the materials from barges to shore.

Employment of non-union men in that capacity resulted in the calling off of union hoisting engineers on the new postoffice building, blocking all construction.

George S. Vang, president of the Iron City Sand Company, and Douglas held a confab in the former's automobile in Duquesne way this morning, presumably to discuss Douglas' alleged "squatting." At the conclusion both were asked if Douglas had agreed to remove the boat and barges.

Vang replied:

"Just you wait and see."

Douglas declared:

"No."

DOUGLAS SILENT

Douglas would not discuss on what ground he held the wharf frontage.

The Iron City Sand Company had permitted its lease to lapse but suddenly entered into a new lease yesterday, it was learned. Director Lang today announced that the site had been re-leased.

Peter Dagnall, business agent of the hoisting engineers' union, has given his approval to the Douglas organization, known as the Union Sand Company, and to two producing companies at Kittanning which have agreed to supply sand and gravel.

DAVIS PLEADS 'NOT GUILTY'

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(INS.)—United States Senator James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania, pleaded not guilty on two counts today before Judge Robert P. Patterson in Federal Court. Bail was set at $1,000 and September 19 made the tentative date of the trial.

Davis, former director general of the Loyal Order of Moose, is charged with operating a lottery, which was conducted under Moose auspices, for the announced purpose of furthering the Order's charitable work.

He was represented in court today by Charles H. Tuttle, one-time candidate for Governor in New York, and Charles J. Margiotti, of Pittsburgh. Tuttle asked for a speedy trial, and suggested September 19 be set.

Pleas of not guilty also were entered by Theodore G. Miller, publicity man of the Moose, and by Bernard McGuire and Raymond Walsh, said to have handled the actual operation of the lottery.

Tuttle issued a statement on behalf of Senator Davis in which he said:

"It can be speedily demonstrated that Senator Davis is absolutely innocent of these charges, that he had no part in the plan under which the charity balls were held and that he neither made nor kept a cent of the proceeds."

Raid Illegal, Club Gets Furniture Back

Federal Judge R. M. Gibson today held that the search warrant on which a club at 318 South St. Clair street, East End, had been raided was illegal and ordered all furnishings returned. Charges against Charles Uphoff were dropped.

During the hearing four prohibition agents denied the defense charge that during an earlier raid the club's slot machines had been tampered with.

Three Boys Arrested In Theft of Canary

Accused of the theft of a pet canary of Mrs. E. J. Gibson, of 3504 Fifth avenue, Stanley Tricki, 16, of 436 Darragh street, and two other youths were being held by Oakland police today. The youth, police said, took the bird and put it in his pocket, causing it's death. Police said they hoped to clear up a number of petty thefts in the arrest of the trio.

BUS SERVICE CUTS ORDERED

Service will be reduced on seven of the 15 bus lines of the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, beginning Thursday, because of economic conditions, Fred R. Cogswell, director of traffic promotion of the company, announced today.

Peak hour service will be maintained on all lines, Cogswell said, most of the reduction coming at midday and evenings. Street car service is not affected. These bus cuts have been ordered:

Wilkinsburg, no service after 7 p. m.; Shadyside, no service between 10 a. m. and 4 p. m.; Bellevue, no service between 10 a. m. and 4 p. m.; Mt. Lebanon, buses to run hourly after 7 p. m. instead of half-hourly; Frankstown road, service hourly instead of half-hourly after 7 p. m.; Charleroi, trips cut from 9 to 3 per day, no midday service; McKeesport, four trips daily instead of two-hour service.

Machine Gun Gang Rob Bank Messenger

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Two robbers armed with a machine gun took $11,000 from a Badger State Bank messenger on a busy downtown street today.

The messenger, Kenneth Miller, and a guard, Paul Rother, were held up after their automobile had been crowded to a curb by the robbers' car and the machine gunner aimed his weapon at pedestrians.

FAIL TO AGREE ON MILK PRICE

Two hundred dairymen, supplying milk to distributors of Pittsburgh, this morning failed to agree on a price demand to be presented this afternoon. An increase will be demanded, it was said.

Meeting in the Mayfair Hotel, the dairymen were expected to set a price which their Dairymen's Co-Operative Sales Association was to demand.

P. S. Brenneman opening the meeting said:

"We want no horse trade. We want what we ought to have."

Secretary H. B. Steele read market reports showing a 15 per cent decrease in sales of Class A milk until last December, when the price was cut, and a 12 to 15 per cent increase since then.

One of the farmers said:

"We get eight cents a gallon for our milk. The distributors get from eight to 15 cents a quart. Something must be done."

Mellon, Mills Meet; Debt Pact Hinted

Norman, Secretary Of Treasury to Confer

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(INS.)—The presence of Andrew W. Mellon, Ambassador to England, and Ogden L. Mills, who succeeded him as Secretary of the Treasury, in New York city together, today revived reports that a banking arrangement on international war debts was in the making.

Ambassador Mellon arrived quietly in the city and was visited in his hotel suite by Secretary of the Treasury Mills.

Later in the day both were reported to have made visits in the financial section.

Montagu Norman, Governor of the Bank of England, recently conferred with Governor Harrison, of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. Norman, whose official position places him high in the councils of the British government, has been traveling incognito.

NORMAN TO MEET MILLS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—(Universal.)—Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, will "see or communicate with" Ogden L. Mills, Secretary of the Treasury, before returning to England.

An official admission of that fact was obtained today.

Thus was ended the pretense, maintained here for several days, that the mysterious visit by the British financial and political leader, traveling under the alias of "Prof. Clarence Skinner" was purely a "holiday" and that it was not expected he would take up any important financial or political questions.

FOLLOWS EXPOSURE

The official admission of the forthcoming exchanges between Secretary Mills and Mr. Norman came only after revelation by the Hearst newspapers that the British leader was in this country for something besides his health. Previously, administration leaders

FORBES FIELD, Aug. 30.—An umpire's decision was reversed and Manager Bill McKechnie, of the Braves, was chased from the diamond as the Pittsburgh Pirates and Boston Braves clashed in the first game of a double-header here this afternoon.

The play in question occurred in the second inning when Bill Klem, umpire-in-chief, changed the ruling made by his partner, Cy Pfirman, who called foul a ball hit by Thevenow. McKechnie was ordered from the field for disputing Klem's reversal of the decision.

Meine started for the Pirates and Brown for the Braves.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Alfredo Codona, trapeze artist and husband of the late Lillian Leitzel, aerial queen of the circus who was injured fatally during a performance in Copenhagen a year and a half ago, has announced that he will marry Vera Bruce, a somersaulting performer in his troupe, and who was a protege of Miss Leitzel.

BULLETS FLY AS ARMORY BURNS

BALTIMORE, Aug. 30.—(INS.)—Flying bullets endangered firemen today when flames swept through the spacious Fifth Regiment Armory, in which President Wilson was nominated at the Democratic convention in 1912.

The blaze started in a storeroom occupied by the Maryland National Guard and caused bullets in the ammunition vaults to explode.

Sixteen firemen were overcome by smoke and 50 engine companies responded to the 10-alarm fire.

The fire burned stubbornly, exploding about 1,000 rounds of small ammunition before it was brought under control.

Mercury at 87 In Hottest Morning

The hottest morning of August was recorded today at the Weather Bureau when the mercury climbed to 87 degrees. Prior to today the high forenoon temperature was 84 for this month, according to Weather Bureau figures. The heat was made more intensive because of the unusually high humidity percentage, it was explained.

Bread Truck Stolen By Hungry Robber

Hunger, the police believe, motivated the robber who drove away with a bread truck of the Seven Baker Brothers early today in Soho. The truck, filled with bread, had been parked at Locust and Van Braam streets while the driver, William Kelly, made a delivery.

Writ to Free Pair In Poison Case Fails

Women May Determine Presidency, Poll Shows

By COLE E. MORGAN
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Four years ago the woman vote of the country was credited by many political analists as largely responsible for the landslide popular vote that swept President Hoover into the White House.

This year the woman vote as a class group again may prove the determining factor as to who will be President.

In any event a study by sex groups of the returns now pouring in in the nation-wide Presidential poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States leads to some interesting conclusions.

Thus far there has been tabulated a total of 109,165 postcard ballots in this poll. Apportioned by sexes, 74,753 are from men and 34,412 from women. Apportioned on a percentage basis the division is 68-32. The mailing list for this poll is apportioned on a basis of 67 per cent men and 33 per cent women, so that the returns show

30,000 Needy to Attend School in Barefeet

Thirty thousand needy children in the City and County will trudge off to school next week barefooted, relief leaders estimated today.

Their prospects of obtaining shoes and stockings are considered slim.

On the lists of the Family Welfare Association alone are 24,000 families in each of which there is at least one shoeless child, Miss Eleanor Hanson, secretary, estimated. The Allegheny County Emergency Association reports 3,000 additional cases.

On top of this, the Family Welfare Association has almost exhausted its funds for supplying milk to school children. It is doubtful whether the association will be able to carry on this work after September 8.

HITLER'S AIDE ELECTED AS PRESIDENT OF REICHSTAG

NAZI LEADER GETS HOLD ON PARLIAMENT

Dissolution Decree May Invalidate Victory

By EDWARD L. DEUSS
International News Service.

BERLIN, Aug. 30.—Scoring a victory that may be invalidated at any moment by a parliamentary dissolution decree signed by President Von Hindenburg, Adolf Hitler's National Socialists today secured the election of Capt. Ernest Goering as president of the Reichstag.

Goering's election was made possible by a coalition between the Nazi, Nationalist and Centrist deputies, the three parties casting 367 votes for the Hitlerite candidate.

Goering's election gave Hitler a firmer hold upon the Reichstag than at any time in his career.

Earlier in the day, however, President von Hindenburg had signed a dissolution decree aimed at forcing passage of the tax remittance reconstruction program formulated by Chancellor Franz von Papen.

PARLIAMENT CONTROL

The vote polled for Goering showed the ability of Hitler's 230 Reichstag deputies to control Parliament with the aid of the Centrists and Nationalists, who hold the balance of power. If he is able to keep the Centrists in line, Hitler will be in a position to control the Reichstag until such a time as Von Papen invokes the dissolution decree.

In exchange for the Centrist support of Goering, the Nazi deputies nominated Thomas Esser, prominent Centrist, for the post of Vice President.

IMPEACHMENTS ASKED . . . .

The session had opened with an address by Clara Zetkin, 75-year-old Communist deputy. Acting as president pro tem in her capacity as senior member, she demanded that parliament institute supreme court impeachment proceedings against President von Hindenburg and Chancellor von Papen on the grounds they had violated the constitution by recent decrees.

Fighting broke out in the center of Berlin this afternoon as the Reichstag cast its ballots.

One hundred and fifty uniformed Fascists, marching three abreast, attempted to capture the famous Brandenburg Gate. The police formed a defense line and charged. The Fascists fled, but several of them were so severely clubbed they were sent to hospitals.

MAYOR WALKER COLLAPSES

interment will be in Calvary Cemetery.

COURT FIGHT FAILS

In Albany yesterday, Supreme Court Justice Ellis J. Staley decided that he has no power to restrain Gov. Roosevelt from removing Mayor Walker, but in the same opinion he criticised the manner in which the trial of the Mayor is being conducted.

John J. Curtin, the Mayor's chief counsel, in commenting on Justice Staley's decision, made this significant assertion:

"We will not appeal until we learn the manner in which the Governor will comply with the order of the petition."

TO DEMAND CHANGE

In other words, it is assumed that Curtin will demand next Friday that the Governor change the method of procedure to conform with the law as laid down by Justice Staley.

Justice Staley in his ruling said he not only was powerless to restrain the Governor from removing Mayor Walker, but he could not command him how to proceed. At the same time he denied the Mayor's application for a writ of prohibition.

FARMERS LOSE FOOD BLOCKADE

DES MOINES, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Farm produce was brought unhindered into Des Moines today with the collapse of the last strong farmers' holiday picket line.

Shortly before noon Sheriff Charles F. Keeling, a force of deputies, and truck drivers, all armed with clubs, massed on highway 65 north of the city and forced their way through members of the Farmers' Holiday Association, who seek to force higher agricultural prices by keeping produce from the markets.

The "big push" against the blockade, after starting at a point five miles from Ames, resulted in the free movement of produce into this capital city.

Sheriff Keeling and his deputies continue ditheir surveillance of most highways into Des Moines, for pickets remained at Camps North, East and southeast of the city.

'Third Degree' Case Officer May Resign

MINEOLA, N. Y., Aug. 30.—(INS.)—With uncertainty prevailing today regarding a retrial for three members of the police force whose first trial in the "third degree murder" of Hyman Stark resulted in a jury disagreement, reports persisted Deputy Chief Frank J. Tappen would resign.

Tappen was accused of boasting that he "rocked" Stark, a prisoner, by putting his feet on Stark's neck and stomach.

'Ukulele Ike' Flying To Marry Actress

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 29.—(AP.)—Cliff Edwards, known in the entertainment world as "Ukulele Ike," announced that he and Nancy Dover, motion picture player, will be married today at Las Vegas, Nev.

They will fly to Las Vegas and will return to Los Angeles immediately in a chartered airplane, Edwards said.

M'ADOO BATTLE MARKS VOTE

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—The political fortunes of William G. McAdoo, general of the Democratic Roosevelt-Garner ticket on the western front, and of Senator Samuel Shortridge, Republican and friend of the administration, were at stake along with many others in California's state primary election today.

Echoes of the rivalry in the Democratic national convention sounded within the Democratic ranks, with McAdoo and Justin S. Wardell, both candidates for the Democratic senatorial nomination, heading the factions.

A last minute report, said by Wardell managers to have been brought from New York by David F. Supple, local Smith supporter in the California presidential primary, quoting Alfred E. Smith as having suggested that Democrats who supported the Happy Warrior in the presidential preference balloting, support Wardell, was denied in New York by Smith.

ROADS TO STUDY WAGE SCALE

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—The eastern railroad's presidents' conference, at a meeting today, appointed a committee to cooperate with similar committees representing western and southwestern roads, to give consideration to railway wages.

A statement issued by F. W. Leamy, secretary of the eastern conference, explained that the committee was appointed to consider the matter of wages after experiation of the present 10 per cent reduction February 1.

The committee is composed of John G. Walber, vice president in charge of personnel of the New York Central Lines; C. W. Galloway, vice president in charge of operations of the Baltimore and Ohio, and H. A. Enochs, acting chief of personnel for the Pennsylvania Railroad.

No Pillows for Vets At National Meeting

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—There will be no bags of water dumped on spectators, no feather pillows ripped open and emptied from hotel windows above American Legion national convention parades here next month. At least that is the optimistic promise of the executive committee.

All feather pillows will be removed from hotel rooms on parade days and the hotels' paper laundry bags will be cut so they won't hold water.

FLIERS TO BEGIN SPEED MARK CONTESTS

CLEVELAND, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—The challenge of super-speed, and with it, perhaps, the world's airplane record, today faced the 1932 National Air Races.

With a new trans-nation race king crowned yesterday, in the person of James H. Haizlip, of Ferguson, Mo., who brought the Atlantic and Pacific within 10 hours and 19 minutes of each other, the classic's main goal was to find a successor to the landplane speed record of 278.480 miles an hour, occupied since 1924 by France.

The flight which Haizlip paced across the country, yesterday, followed by J. R. Wedell, Patterson, La.; Col. Roscoe Turner, Los Angeles, and Lee Gehlbach, Mt. Clemens, Mich., added four of the fastest planes of the races to those already on hand which are destined to find their measure in the straightaway dashes.

Maj. James H. Doolittle, deposed transnation record-holder, has a thick, well-streamlined racer which Russell Boardman, trans-Atlantic flier, injured in a flight test, had planned to fly.

It was to be flown today in a test hop while another Doolittle ship, the rebuilt craft of 1931's transnation dash, was being worked on night and day in Wichita, Kan., for possible entry in the lists.

Haizlip, who speeded at 275 miles an hour over parts of the transcontinental route, may be expected to boost this gait for the shorter dash after his plane has been groomed, while Wedell and Turner both planned to measure their craft over the abbreviated course as soon as mechanical checking has been completed.

The color background of today's program, designated as Army day, was the massed tactical maneuvering of three squadrons of pursuit ships from Selfridge Field, Mich.

STORM HEADS FOR GULF

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—The tropical disturbance that blew in from the Atlantic last night, bringing heavy rain and brisk winds to the Lower East Coast, swept westward today across sparsely inhabited swamps of the Everglades toward the Gulf of Mexico.

Richard W. Gray, government meteorologist here, said the storm was central this morning between Fort Myers and Key West and would pass into the Gulf if it continued its present course. Fort Myers reported a 24 to 30-mile east wind and Key West a southwest wind of 32 miles an hour. Heavy rains are falling.

Property damage along the East Coast was reported confined to shrubbery, awnings and crops.

Strong winds and heavy rains battered the Palm Beaches through the night. Streets in Palm Beach were littered with palm fronds and cocoanuts.

Pittsburgh Bound Plane Noses Over

ELLICOTTVILLE, N. Y., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Forced down by motor trouble while en route to Pittsburgh from the Cleveland air races, a plane piloted by Jack Herman, of Hollister, Cal., nosed over last night while landing and was disabled. Herman and his two companions, whose names were not learned, were not injured.

Mrs. Von Sternberg Drops Dietrich Suit

Papers Signifying Agreement Filed

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(INS.)—The $500,000 stolen love suit against Marlene Dietrich, siren of the cinema, was discontinued yesterday on behalf of Mrs. Riza Von Sternberg, wife of the famous Hollywood director, Joseph Von Sternberg.

Papers signifying the action were filed in Supreme Court by Nathan Burkan, counsel for Miss Dietrich. The reason for withdrawal was not revealed, but at Burkan's office it was said an amicable agreement had been reached on the Coast, although no monetary settlement was indicated.

A second suit, based on statements allegedly made to a Budapest editor by the actress, but which the editor has since admitted were fabrications, also was discontinued. In it Mrs. Von Sternberg had asked for $100,000.

doubled to right, scoring P. Waner. Suh fanned. One run. One hit.

SECOND INNING

BOSTON—Maranville popped to Thevenow. Spohrer singled to center. Brown grounded into a double play, Meine to Thevenow to Suhr. One hit.

PITTSBURGH—Piet fanned. Thevenow hit a little fly behind first, the ball falling almost on the line. When Umpire Pfirman declared it foul, a small riot ensued. Three or four Pirates ran from the bullpen to guard the mark they said the ball made on the inside of the line. Manager Gibson appealed to Umpire Klem to reverse the decision. Klem went to the spot where the ball landed, but Walter Maranville, in the middle of the crowd at the scene, tried to erase it as he walked casually over it. Klem apparently saw the impression of the ball in the soft ground and reversed his assistant. Manager McKechnie and Klem pushed each other around and said some hot things to each other. Manager Gibson and Maranville also pushed each other, but cooler heads prevailed after McKechnie was chased off the field by Umpire Klem. Order finally was restored without any real blows being struck. Thevenow went back to second base on his double. Grace flied to Berger. Meine was thrown out by Brown. One hit.

THIRD INNING

COUNTY PROBE EXPECTED TO END TODAY

Bowser Again to Face Grand Jury; Dozen Indictments Loom

Watson Bowser, Kittanning contractor, waited today for his turn to go before the grand jury again as the last witness to be called by District Attorney Andrew T. Park in the three months' investigation of county affairs and the wholesale delivery of tax receipts to political factions.

Bowser appeared in the witnesses' room this morning, but was not called to testify immediately.

The grand jury is expected to complete its investigation today, devote tomorrow to framing presentments and on Thursday will present its findings to the court. Two presentments will be made, one dealing with the tax receipt investigation and the other with the investigation into county affairs. About a dozen indictments are expected, observers say.

ZIEFEL STILL MISSING

District Attorney Park today said he would wind up the investigation without the testimony of William Ziefel, former secretary of the Board of County Commissioners. Ziefel has been sought since the investigation got under way in June, but has been absent from the city. Park said that if Ziefel were located, even after the presentment has been made, he could be brought before the grand jury for questioning.

With the end of the probe in sight, attaches of the District Attorney's office are breathing sighs of relief. Since early in June, at intervals, there has been a stream of witnesses appearing before the grand jury. In the investigation of the wholesale issue of tax receipts alone there were more than 1,000 called.

BANK PROBE FAILS

Yesterday's witnesses were Roy F. Walters, secretary to the late County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong; Gilbert Cloonan, former head of the Bureau of Elections; C. B. Shaffer, sales engineer, and P. L. Griffiths, vice president, respectively, of the Koppers Products Company, and C. M. Conick, chief auditor for Main & Company, examining the county books.

Cloonan was questioned, it is reported, concerning contracts for printing county election ballots. Shaffer and Griffiths were dismissed after being in the grand jury room only a few minutes. District Attorney Park said they had been called only to help check a rumor which proved to have no foundation. Conick, who had examined the bank accounts of Armstrong, reported, Park said, that his search did not reveal an item which the probers had expected to find.

SON FOILS PLOT TO BURN 7

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Aug. 30.—After setting fire to her home in an attempt to cremate her six sons and daughters, Mrs. Agnes Debo, 47, fired a straw stack and crawled beneath it await death.

John Debo, 20, awakened by smoke in his home, aroused his five brothers and sisters and all escaped. They found their mother gasping beneath the burning straw stack. Dragging her out they tied her to a fence post.

Later taken to Belmont County Jail for a lunacy hearing, Mrs. Debo said:

"I have nothing to live for. The children would be better off out of this horrid world."

Blonde, Brunette Hunted In Counterfeit Ring

Two women, a blonde and a brunette, were sought today by police and federal authorities as members of a counterfeiting ring operating in the city and county.

The brunette, the police said, tendered a fake $10 bill to an errand boy of the Sam Chaban pharmacy, 1937 Murray avenue, for two decks of playing cards. She telephoned the drug store, asking that the cards and the change for a $10 bill be delivered to a Beacon street address. When the boy arrived she gave him the spurious bill, took the cards and change and walked away. She was not known at the address.

In Bellevue, a blonde woman was reported to have attempted to pass a bogus half dollar on a gasoline station attendant. He detected the counterfeit and the girl apologized, producing a genuine coin.

A few minutes before a man had given another attendant a worthless half dollar, police reported.

GAVE FORTUNE TO DAUGHTER OF JOHN D.

Architect Rewarded For Aiding Chicago's 'First Lady'

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—Because of his unselfish sacrifice for the sake of a "beautiful friendship," Edwin D. Krenn fell heir to five-twelfths of the estate of the late Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, it was disclosed today.

Unfolding a story of deep devotion and utmost faith that existed between Chicago's "first lady" and the youthful Swiss architect, former Judge Charles S. Cutting, who drew up Mrs. McCormick's will, revealed that Krenn turned over to the late society queen $1,260,000 worth of securities "in an emergency a year ago."

WELCOME TO ALL

Judge Cutting related:

"He said it was all he had, but that Mrs. McCormick was welcome to anything he possessed if he could help. He stated that he felt that she was his best friend and that he would do anything for her."

Analysis of Mrs. McCormick's last testament, filed for probate yesterday afternoon, indicated the possibility that the executor of the estate may have the power to nullify the agreement between Krenn and his former partner, Edward A. Dato, under which the architect surrendered his portion of the inheritance in return for a lifetime annuity of $24,000.

CHILDREN SHARE

The architect is the residuary legatee, seven-twelfths of the fortune going to Mrs. McCormick's children. Under terms of the will, her elder daughter, Mrs. Muriel Hubbard, receives four-twelfths of the estate; her younger daughter, Mrs. Mathilde Oser, two-twelfths, and her son, Fowler McCormick, one-twelfth.

The will explains the bequest to Krenn as follows:

"I make this provision because I am indebted to the said Edward Krenn for large sums of money and securities loaned by him to me at my request and the amount hereby given him will fully compensate him for the loss which he has and will sustain by reason of such debts."

The will provides that should any legatee contest the document "the legacy or the interest of such person shall thereupon be forfeited" and the legacy included in the residue bequeathed to Krenn.

MURDER TRIAL NEAR END IN WASHINGTON

Insanity Plea Attacked In Wife Slaying; Doctors Testify

WASHINGTON, Pa., Aug. 30.—The trial of Harry Clark, charged with killing his 23-year-old wife, Laura Virginia, neared the jury today as the State aimed a final blow at his insanity defense.

Rebuttal testimony of prosecution witnesses and the closing arguments of Russell Stahlman, chief of defense counsel, were heard this morning. The jury is expected to get the case late today after District Attorney Warren S. Burchinal sums up for the state and Judge Erwin Cummins delivers his charge.

Four physicians testified they believed Clark was sane. Physicians for the defense yesterday said they considered him a paranoic, and Clark testified he did not know he had killed his wife until he saw the blood from her wounds.

To refute Clark's testimony, the prosecution called Chief of Police Joseph Verderber and Patrolman James Armour, who said there was no blood on the man's hands nor clothing when they arrested him.

MA INCREASES LEAD TO 1,297

DALLAS, Tex., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Mrs. Miriam A. (Ma) Ferguson's lead over Gov. R. S. Sterling in the Democratic gubernatorial race was increased to 1,297 votes on the second compilation of votes made today by the Texas Election Bureau.

Returns from all 254 counties, 224 complete, gave: Ferguson, 474,530; Sterling, 473,233.

The latest tabulation gave Mrs. Ferguson, the only woman who ever served as Governor of Texas, her greatest lead since early in the counting of ballots in last Saturday's primary election.

She regained the lead late last night after trailing from more than 3,000 votes to a few hundred. The correcting of returns from two counties caused Sterling's lead to fade away.

The photographs will be made for the Sproul Observatory of Swarthmore College, Swarthmore, Pa., under the direction of Dr. John A. Miller, head of the observatory.

Husband Too Attentive, Wife Gets Divorce

DETROIT, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Because her husband paid too much attention to her after they were married, and eventually caused her to lose her job, she charged, Mrs. Vena M. Miller has been granted a divorce.

Mrs. Miller told Circuit Judge Homer Ferguson that her husband, against her protest, sent her flowers every day at the office where she was employed. She said her employers informed her they could no longer employ a woman whose husband could afford to send flowers every day.

As soon as she lost her job, she said, her husband lost interest in her, and even gave up his job as a railroad engineer.

Miller's attorney protested that Miller did not give up his job, but was fired because he stopped a passenger train to go to a farmhouse near the railroad and buy a pound of butter to take to his wife.

POLITE RAIDERS SEIZE CLUB

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(INS.)—A high water mark in politeness for federal agents raiding a fashionable night club was recorded today.

While a throng of smartly dressed men and women dined last night at the New Stork Club, within the shadow of St. Patrick's Cathedral, a voice came through the loud speaker used to transmit music from an upper floor. It said:

"Ladies and gentlemen, the place is raided. Please finish your dinners at leisure and then go home. We wish to cause no one any inconvenience."

The agents waited two hours before the last diner decided the thrill of eating under police supervision was worn off. Then they confiscated $50,000 in equipment, including a huge mahogany and silver bar and large quantities of supposed liquor. Five men were arrested on liquor violation charges.

Federal Restoration Plans Held Faulty

JONSONBURG, N. J., Aug. 30.—(INS.)—Means adopted by the Federal government in efforts to combat the depression are harmful rather than beneficial because they attempt to restore the conditions of 1929 instead of aiming at establishment of genuine industrial soundness, H. Parker Willis, professor of banking at Columbia University, told the economic conference for engineers. He characterized methods so far used as "hasty and partial," and urged restoration of the balance between industries.

Nudist Eludes Police In All-Night Hunt

FRANKLIN, Pa., Aug. 30.—An all-night search by police failed to find trace of a nude man, reported to be frightening women by suddenly appearing from behind trees in the residential section.

CHAPLIN SUIT TO GO ON

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—When the hearing of Charles Chaplin's protest of his two sons' being allowed to take up film careers is continued Friday, it will be as an amendment to the Chaplins' divorce decree.

An Appellate Court order has restrained Superior Judge H. P. Wood from continuing the hearing of Chaplin's suit in which the comedian sought to prohibit the employment of the two boys, Charles, Jr., 7, and Sidney, 6, in the films as proposed by their mother, Mrs. Lita Grey Chaplin, divorced wife of the comedian.

Chaplin, however, has received the Appellate Court's permission to continue his argument on an amendment to the Chaplin's divorce decree under which the Superior court has power to act at any time for the welfare of the children. The actor claims film careers for his sons would be injurious to their "spiritual welfare."

State Police Captain At Greensburg Quits

GREENSBURG, Pa., Aug. 30.—Terminating a colorful career, Capt. Albert Carlson is retiring as commander of Troop A, state police, at the age of 53, after 26 years of service. He is the sixth oldest member in point of service, joining the constabulary soon after it was organized.

Since he came to Greensburg, March 7, 1930, he has dealt with two major coal strikes, has taken prominent part in the search for and prosecution of Irene Schrader and Walter Glenn Dague for killing of a highway patrolman, and investigating and prosecuting numerous other cases.

Capt. Carlson rose from the ranks as a trooper in Troop D at Wyoming, Pa. Before coming here, he was in charge of a school for troopers at Hershey, Pa., and commander of Troops E and C.

Announcement of his retirement was made shortly after he had directed the state police rodeo. Capt. Carlson said:

"Although I had in mind retirement for some time, I wanted to get the rodeo off first."

Capt. Carlson is to be succeeded by Capt. Jacob Mauk, now in command of Butler barracks.

SCIENTISTS SET FOR STUDY OF ECLIPSE

Associated Press.

The solar system's free show is about to begin and the giant "midway of the total eclipse" that runs across New England is crowded with scientists and laymen.

The scientific instruments of 43 expeditions are in place and last-minute adjustments have been made.

It's the weatherman who is worrying the astronomers. He predicted "Wednesday, partly cloudy" for Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont—states where the majority of scientific camps are located. For Massachusetts, a corner of which lies in the path of the total eclipse, the prediction is "fair and warmer" for eclipse day.

Thirty aviators stood by at points along the 100-mile-wide belt of the eclipse, ready to carry scientists to heights above the clouds if a haze or rain should interfere.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars have been expended over a period of weeks to provide the scientific setting for the 90-second spectacle.

While each expedition has its own particular purpose in making its study, all alike await the shadow's arrival at 4:30 p. m. (Pittsburgh time), tomorrow for an answer to the question:

"What does an eclipse mean?"

The "meaning" sought is more information about what's going on in the sun, the source of human health and food, and, indirectly, the source of all physical life on earth.

OHIO OFFICIALS BATTLE OVER COX VISIT

Ravenna Chief Backs Priest, but County Refuses Welcome

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 30.—Father James R. Cox, pastor of Old St. Patrick's Church, Pittsburgh, and presidential nominee carrying the campaign of the Jobless party to "Main streets" of the nation, will swing into Ravenna, Portage County seat, late this afternoon.

The town promises to extend him the glad hand. But the county has hauled its "welcome" doormat from the courthouse steps.

CHIEF BACKS PRIEST

Chief of Police J. C. Goodnough, spokesman of the town in the absence of its vacationing Mayor, said:

"Sure Father Cox can speak here. Everyone has the right to talk. And a good place for the Jobless party candidate to speak from is the Courthouse steps. But the County Commissioners said no. Their unanimous opinion was that they had never heard of such a thing—making a political speech from the Courthouse steps."

Commissioner Elmer Gordon exclaimed:

"That county property!"

Commissioner D. O. Norton added:

Besides, it's the town's job to play the host."

And Commissioner Ensign Jones nodded a vigorous assent to both of them.

Chief Goodnought declared:

YOUNGSTOWN SPEECH

And while local political seas boiled in Ravenna last night, Father Cox came into Youngstown and addressed 3,000 persons assembled in Idora Park. He declared Henry Ford freed the horses, but it took Herbert Hoover to free the workingman and leave him without bread.

Prior to his appearance in Youngstown, Father Cox spoke in East Liverpool, Lisbon and Salem. At East Liverpool hundreds of persons stood in the rain to hear his address.

This afternoon he is scheduled to speak in Warren. From there he goes to Ravenna, thence to Akron, where he will make an evening appearance at Glendale Park in the heart of the business district.

Tomorrow morning he will continue westward on his long trek to the west.

The wedding, which authorities here said had been opposed by the girl's parents, took place while they thought she was on the way home with her 10-year-old sister, Ruth, who accompanied her east five weeks ago.

FRANCE FEARS NORMAN DEAL ON WAR DEBT

By GEORGE W. HINMAN, JR.
Universal Service.

PARIS, Aug. 30.—Fear that the visit to the United States of Montagu Norman, president of the Bank of England, is a prelude to independent British action in reopening war debts negotiations with Washington was manifested here today.

Anxiety is frankly expressed lest Norman's mysterious visit serve to break the supposedly solid front of European debtors formed at Lausanne.

SEPARATE DEAL BANNER

The so-called Lausanne gentlemen's agreement stipulated that Britain was not to enter debt negotiations with the United States alone, but that negotiations should be carried on between the United States and the solid bloc of her European debtors.

Paris hopes that the meeting between Premier Herriot and British Home Secretary Samuel on the Isle of Jersey, or the later Cherbourg meeting of Herriot and British Chancellor of the Exchequer Chamberlain will allay France's fears.

Official circles remain discreetly silent, but the Nationalists are outspoken in their concern over Norman's visit. They point out that events are likely to parallel those preceding the original Anglo-American debt agreement.

ACTION DENIED ALLIES

The Journal des Debats states:

"This question is particularly of interest to us: Is England hurrying to negotiate separately with America? Similar initiative is denied Allies defending a joint cause.

"Attempts are made to reassure us by saying that, thanks to the accord of confidence concluded with England, we are certain of her active co-operation.

"The famous accord lost all its Anglo-French value when it was countersigned by a most miscellaneous assortment of governments.

"If now England negotiates with America without consulting France, the worthlessness of the accord will appear most clearly.

"Meanwhile, Montagu Norman is in the United States and he has not crossed the Atlantic on a joy ride."

Norman Reported to Have Already Seen Mellon

By WILLIAM HILLMAN
Universal Service.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—An official conspiracy of silence today cloaked the purpose of the visit to the United States of Montagu Norman, president of the Bank of England.

All government departments either refused to discuss or professed complete ignorance of the whereabouts and plans of the man in whose wake England has come to expect financial decisions of world-wide import.

Efforts to obtain official or semi-official comment on the various reports connected with Norman's mysterious journey under the assumed name of Prof. Clarence Skinner came up against a stone wall.

MELLON LINKED

The report that Norman has already seen United States Ambassador Mellon, former Secretary of the Treasury, who was today in Washington, originated in in Acceptance House circles today, but could not be confirmed in any quarter.

At the Bank of England, officials clung to their stubborn insistence that Norman's visit to America was a purely personal trip.

Not a single banker of politician could be found to make any public comment, though many privately criticized the air of mystery that surrounds Norman's trip.

NEWS STORY CANCELLED

Even more mysterious was the sudden apology and retraction sent out by a British news agency to its clients who carried an agency dispatch from New York recounting Norman's supposed arrival in New York and his conference "with American financial leaders."

The news agency later informed its clients:

"The Norman story should be cancelled. We are informed by the highest London authority that it is entirely inaccurate. We greatly regret having given it publicity."

High banking circles stated this maneuver was the result of a hint given the news agency from highest government sources.

'MERCY' KILLER GIVEN LIFE

YORK, Pa., Aug. 30.—(INS.)—Edward Spencer Hall, 75-year-old New York inventor and manufacturer, was adjudged guilty of first degree murder yesterday for slaying his wife and was sentenced to life imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary by Judge Ray P. Sherwood.

The aged inventor entered a plea of guilty and Judge Sherwood took testimony to determine the degree of the crime. Attorney Robert Kinsey, Hall's counsel, entered a plea of leniency for his client, declaring the act was one of "mercy."

The attorney declared the aged inventor for years had given his wife all the comforts and luxuries of life, but had recently been reduced to pauperism by financial reverses.

He told the court Hall shot his wife in despondency because he could not bear to see her endure the pangs of hunger and the mental suffering of their destitution, and pointed out that Hall sought to end his own life.

Paralysis in Phila. May Delay Schools

PARLEY DENIED BY HARRISON

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(Universal.)—George L. Harrison, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, today emphatically denied he had discussed either war debts or a big international loan with Montague C. Norman, governor of the Bank of England, who was his week-end guest.

He denied also that any conference of bankers with the governor of the New York Reserve Bank and the governor of the Bank of England took place during the latter's visit to New York.

These statements were made by Harrison in an interview because of the world-wide discussion of the visit to American of the British banker.

After Norman's arrival in Maine, Gov. Harrison said, he was invited by the New York Federal Reserve governor to make a personal visit to New York.

Mr. Norman arrived in New York Saturday morning, spent most of the day at the Federal Reserve Bank and the rest of his week-end with Gov. Harrison at the latter's apartment in New York until his departure Sunday afternoon for Maine, according to this version.

Knister, Novelist, Drowned in Lake

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Raymond Knister, 32, short story writer and novelist, was drowned yesterday near Stony Point in Lake St. Clair, it was learned today. He suffered a heart attack in the water, apparently.

NORMAN HELD MEDDLER IN U. S. POLITICS

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Although Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, has been on numerous secret missions to the United States, never before, so far as can be learned, has he found it necessary to use a fictitious name such as "Prof. Clarence Skinner," under which he appeared on the steamship passenger list when he arrived in Boston on August 20.

Even when on such a momentous mission as that in 1931, when his conferences with the international bankers in New York and officials in Washington were quickly followed by the Hoover moratorium, the governor of the "Old Lady of Threadneedle Street" was content to travel under his own name.

MEDDLING SEEN

The extraordinary precautions taken to conceal his identity on his present visit justify the belief that Mr. Norman is here, as has been reported, to meddle in American politics, which have an immediate bearing upon war debts to the United States in which his government is vitally interested.

Should Mr. Hoover be re-elected, the foreign governments feel sure they will have little difficulty securing an additional three years' moratorium with possible revision or cancellation thereafter if the complexion of the new Congress is such that it can be induced to go along.

My mind is a perfect vacuum."

This was the only public statement Mr. Norman would make when he visited the United States in 1926.

SILENT IN '31

His visit in 1931 was attended by a silence almost as complete, so far as the public was concerned.

Mr. Norman arrived in New York on March 27 of that year aboard the Berengaria. He was accompanied by Prof. Oliver H. Sprague, American adviser to the Bank of England.

Gov. George L. Harrison, of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, was at the pier. They spent the first afternoon at the Federal Reserve Bank, where they received several visitors. Among them was Col. Leonard P. Ayres, vice president of the Cleveland Trust Company, a foremost American analyst.

WORLD BANK DISCUSSED

The report was permitted to become current that Mr. Norman favored the establishment of an international bank to finance trade with the new markets, particularly Soviet Russia.

England's gold position, long term credits and adjustment of the discount rate between the United States and Great Britain were other subjects in which Norman was reported to be especially interested. Not a public word was spoken about a moratorium.

In Washington, Messrs. Norman and Sprague conferred with President Hoover, Secretary Mellon, Secretary Stimson, Eugene Meyer, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank, and others.

DENIES SPECIFIC AIM

He returned to New York April 8, 1931, preserving his usual reticence. Prof. Sprague acted as his spokesman. In view of subsequent events, the comments by Prof. Sprague are illuminating. He said:

"The purpose of our visit to Washington was general rather than specific. I know it may be rather hard for people to believe, but we went to Washington just to exchange general views and to compare notes on matters of common interest. We talked with a variety of people upon a variety of subjects. It was all quite academic, involving no particular project of any kind."

The announcement by President Hoover of the moratorium came on June 20, 1931, a little more than two months later.

Far from being "quite academic" the President's announcement began:

"The American government proposes the postponement during one year of all payments on the inter-governmental debts, reparations and relief debts, both principal and interest."

Glass of Beer Costs Cermak Paris Greeting

PARIS, Aug. 30.—INS.)—Because he stopped for a glass of beer at a railway station bar, Mayor Anton J. Cermak, of Chicago, arrived in Paris several hours late.

The incident occurred at Basel, Switzerland. Cermak stepped off the train for a "quick one" and when he returned to the platform found the vehicle had rumbled off without him.

Consequently, no one was on hand to greet him when the next train arrived in Paris, the local reception committee departing when they failed to find the Mayor aboard his scheduled train.

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

MELLON, MILLS CONFER IN NEW YORK

In spite of any inspired statement to the contrary, it is definitely established that the main object of Mr. Norman's visit is to discuss war debts.

Decision to let it be known publicly that Mills and Norman would be in negotiations followed information obtained by the Hearst newspapers, that the Bank of England chief had conferred secretly at Bar Harbor, Me., with Thomas W. Lamont, most active negotiator of political-financial matters for J. P. Morgan & Company, fiscal agents of the British government and power behind the throne of the Hoover administration, and that Norman had also secretly conferred with Eliot Wadsworth, former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in charge of foreign loans and one-time secretary of the United States World War Debt Funding Commission, and George W. Norris, governor of the Philadelphia Federal Reserve Bank.

N. Y. PARLEY REVEALED

There was the further disclosure that Mr. Norman had slipped quietly out of his Bar Harbor retreat to break his "holiday" by conferring secretly in New York with George Leslie Harrison, governor of the New York Federal Reserve Bank.

As is customary in these conferences with Norman, involving administration policy in financial matters running into billions of public funds, no public statement could be secured as to the object of the Mills-Norman meetings. All is mystery and secrecy and a fixed determination to keep all facts from the public, whose money is at stake.

Secretary Mills admitted he had received a report from Harrison on the conversation yesterday with Norman. The session lasted an hour. Mills would reveal nothing of its nature beyond that it related to international finance questions and an "exchange of information."

DENIES ENGAGEMENT

Mills contended he had no engagement to see Norman in Washington and fell back on the statement that the Bank of England head was "on holiday." The Treasury head denied Harrison was a "go-between" for Norman and the administration.

Mills displayed some irritation over "the mystery which is being made of Norman's visit."

It was stated, however, in one responsible quarter that the question of Britain returning immediately to the gold standard would not be the major topic, as British official opinion is opposed to such a move at this time.

In competent circles it was declared the chief purpose of the Mills-Norman exchanges would be:

FIRST. Ascertainment of the private purposes of the Hoover administration relative to a two-year or three-year extension of the World War debt moratorium of 1931.

SECOND. An elaboration of President Hoover's acceptance speech declaration as to what trade benefits he would require as a basis for reopening the war debt settlements for reductions or cancellation.

In relation to the first topic there was this explanation.

PAYMENT DUE DEC. 15

Unless the administration gives some commitment, privately or otherwise, as to what it intends doing about extension of the moratorium, Great Britain, as a political unit, and the Bank of England must begin consideration of a payment of $65,970,000 due on December 15.

The Bank of England cannot wait until after the presidential elections of November 8 to learn what the administration intends doing. Some outline of policy is held to be of the highest necessity irrespective of whether political expediency might oppose any public announcement until after the elections.

In spite of assertions to the contrary, it is believed widely that the question of debt concellation cannot be kept out of the forthcoming International Economic Conference, to be held probably in London. Norman seeks the private sentiment of the administration as to the cancellation agreement reached at Lausanne.

The whole matter is submerged in disturbing and discreditable secrecy and has the atmosphere of a criminal detective story. The previous record of the international bankers in plundering the American public and of the Hoover administration in supporting debt cancellation, proposing moratoriums, indorsing swindling bond issues, and furthering the plans of the big financiers, no matter how nefarious, adds public doubt and distrust to an already sinister situation.

One thing stands out as obvious and uncontrovertible, and that is that the Hoover administration has completely surrendered its fate and submitted its public policies to the determination of the international bankers.

U. S. PUBLIC TO PAY

The bankers who are making the Hoover campaign expect due compensation. The misfortune is that the pound of flesh which they will exact will be taken from the already lean ribs of the long suffering American public.

This whole Norman affair threatens a scandal greater even than the perversion of federal funds by the administration to recompense supporters and to subserve private political ends.

The threat is greater because it involves not merely the surrender of the public interest to a privileged class but the possible betrayal of the rights and welfare of the whole American people for the benefit of foreign nations.

If there is any honesty in the Norman activity, any Americanism in the Hoover administration, let us have an end of discreditable secrecy.

Mills Leaves for N. Y.; Chance to See Norman

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Insistence by Secretary of the Treasury Mills that he had "no engagement to see Mr. Norman in Washington" was viewed in a new light last night when it was learned that Mills left at midnight for New York.

The announced purpose of his trip to New York was to witness his horse "Blenheim" start in a stake race at Saratoga later in the week. It was understood Secretary Mills will absent himself until after Labor Day.

In the week that intervenes, Mr. Mills will have ample opportunity for a conference with Mr. Norman elsewhere than in Washington.

Senator King Demands Hoover Unmask Norman

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Senator King, of Utah, Democratic member of the Senate Finance Committee, which handles all such matters as war debts, declared today it was incumbent on the Hoover administration to reveal at once just what the secret conferences of Montagu Norman in this country are all about. King said:

"Montagu Norman, on his previous secret and open visits to the United States, always has consulted with high officials of this government and the international bankers of Wall Street on matters involving billions of dollars of the American taxpayers' money. So, naturally, one is led to the conclusion that he is here for such a purpose now.

SHOULD ACT IN OPEN

"If Norman is over here to pave the way for a new debt settlement, which would cost the American taxpayers billions of dollars, it is the manifest duty that any negotiations be conducted in the open and not in the secrecy at a Maine summer resort. The administration should say immediately what the purpose of these numerous conferences with Montagu Norman are about. Our people are entitled to know.

"In view of the statements made in the Hearst papers that Norman is discussing debts and would like to help the Republicans and fight the Democrats because we have declared against cancellation, Norman should issue a denial if this is not true. Instead, we have nothing but silence from him."

'SKINNER' GOOD NAME

Senator Brookhart, Republican, of Iowa, declaring that any suggestion Norman and other international bankers were attempting to "meddle" in the domestic politics of the United States would demand inquiry by the Senate, Brookhart added:

"Naturally, Mr. Norman does not consult plain Americans like me, but I have no doubt he has been in touch with some of the internationally minded officials of the government, as well as the international bankers down in Wall street. No good for the United States ever came from that gang. Prof. Skinner is a good name for M. Norman, as we have learned to our sorrow.

"I can only surmise the purpose of his errand here, and that is to dip a little deeper into the treasury. Whatever international transaction affecting the Treasury and the taxpayers of the country is now in the making should be open and aboveboard and not cloaked in secrecy.

EFFECT ON CAMPAIGN

"As to our national politics, that is none of their business. If Mr. Norman or any other international banker meddles in our national election affairs and it becomes known, it will be a powerful factor in the campaign. The American people will brook no such interference.

"Just now there is a gigantic effort to boom stocks and we ought to know whether the Wall street gamblers are putting up the market to raise a campaign fund for Hoover, which will be taken out of the suckers later. That matter will be investigated by the Banking and Currency Committee and the Howell Committee on Campaign Expenditures."

U. S., FRANCE NEAR PACT

By ARNO DOSCH-FLEUROT

International News Service.

PARIS, Aug. 30.—Negotiations for a commercial treaty between the United States and France entered a decisive stage today, with increasing indication that some new war debt agreement is in the offing.

Premier Edouard Herriot returned to Paris from the Island of Jersey, where by coincidence or design he met Sir Herbert Samuel, British Home Secretary.

Herriot's conversations with Sir Herbert, held in the hotel which was once the home of Victor Hugo, afforded an opportunity to establish Franco-British understandings with regard to the "gentlemen's agreement" reached at Lausanne.

This meeting, coupled with the American visit of Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, was interpreted as meaning that some new lineup on the war debt question would develop shortly.

GIRL ENDS LIFE OVER FILM BAN

PARIS, Aug. 30.—(INS.)—A 17-year-old girl, who threw herself from the six-story window of her parents' home because she was forbidden to become a film actress, died today.

The girl, Raquel Ben Yager, sister of a screen star, had lived all her life almost in the shadows of the Folies Bergere and was fascinated by everything theatrical.

She leaped from the building following a quarrel over her screen ambitions. She already had chosen for herself the screen name "Josy."

can't believe people are interested."

Rumors afloat for weeks that Rudy and his bride had suffered a clash of temperaments and were soon to part were confirmed in New York by Hyman Bushel, attorney for Vallee.

This was the crooner's second marriage. Mrs. Leonie Cauchois McCoy, the coffee heiress, obtained an annulment only three weeks after she married Vallee.

NO 'TRIANGLES'

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—A sour note sounded today in the matrimonial music of Rudy Vallee.

A statement by Hyman Bushel, attorney, who said he represented both the orchestra singer-leader and Mrs. Vallee, said:

"Yes, there is a rift. It seems they just can't get along together, but there is no other woman and no other man in the case."

Mrs. Vallee is at the Vallee apartment with her father and mother.

The Maine Yankee who sang and saxophoned his way to stage and radio high places, met Miss Webb in 1930 when she was making a talking picture. They were married July 6, the following year, in West Orange, N. J.

At the time of the marriage Vallee was quoted as saying:

"Fay is the one woman who can make me happy and whom I can make happy."

SONGS OF ROMANCE

Seven months ago, when reports of an imminent estrangement were circulated, Vallee said:

"My love for my wife has grown stronger every day until she has come to mean more to me than my life. I say this unashamedly."

Vallee, one-time soda clerk in a Maine village, later a saxophone player in various orchestras and finally the head of his own band and widely-known for his songs through the megaphone and microphone, is especially well-known for ballad and love song numbers. "A Little Kiss Each Morning" and "This is the Missus" are two numbers especially associated with his public appearances since his marriage.

POWER CASE UP TO HIGH COURT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—A case which may determine the authority of the Federal Power Commission to pass on the cost of licensed hydroelectric power projects at completion, reached the Supreme Court today from Pennsylvania.

The Clarion River Power Company, of Johnstown, Pa., asked the court to determine whether the commission has the right at this time to hold hearings to determine the value of the Piney project on the Clarion River.

The company, under a 50-year federal license for development of the project, completed it, and in April, 1930, filed with the commission a statement fixing the cost at approximately $11,000,000.

The commission's accounting division recommended elimination of over $6,000,000. The commission then set the matter for hearing, but the company protested.

East End Man Dies From Taking Poison

The Coroner was informed that he had been ill and apparently swallowed the poison with suicidal intent.

Jail 'Cure' Need Supplies Warden With Tinner

As Warden John McNeil walked around the county jail last night pondering the need of a tinner to repair a roof at the county farm, he was approached by a man. Said the stranger:

"Put me in jail for 30 days. I've been drinking and need a good month's work to straighten me out."

Questioning brought out the fact that the stranger was a tinner. He gave his name as James F. Dailey, 35, jobless and homeless. He'll be given a hearing today by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg.

FORMER VOLPE HELPER FREED

Following every possible lead in their investigation of the Volpe massacre, city detectives haled George Gordon, 38, of 1323 Locust street, a former employe of the slain racketeers, before Magistrate Leo Rothenberg today. He was discharged after City Detective Walter Monahan testified he was convinced the man had nothing to do with the killings.

Gordon, now a coal miner, said he was employed by the Volpes—John, Jimmy and Arthur—while they were engaged in racketeering activities in Wilmerding and for a time after they invaded Pittsburgh—the move that is believed to have brought death to them. He said he severed his connection with the brothers about six months ago.

NO BEER FOUND IN BREWERY RAID

Memories of pre-prohibition Pittsburgh, when many a collar was blown off Bauerlein beer, were revived today when prohibition agents visited the former Bauerlein plant in Evergreen road.

But they found nothing—that is, they found no beer, no whisky. They did find William A. Glenn, 45, and they arrested him. They said Glenn had sold them a five-gallon can of malt there a few days ago and instructed them how to make beer.

Phila. Cuts Payroll Of Police $2,000,000

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Mayor J. Hampton Moore, after a four-hour budget conference with Public Safety Director Kern Dodge, last night reduced by nearly $2,000,000 the amount requested for 1933 police payrolls.

POLICE ACCUSED OF SLAYING PRISONER

DETROIT, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Backed by the verdict of a coroner's jury that included a Protestant minister and a rabbi, Prosecutor Harry S. Toy was preparing today to ask for warrants charging two policemen with manslaughter for the death of a prisoner who was wounded while in their custody.

The charges, Prosecutor Toy said, will be preferred against Detective Vincent Hoesel, who police said fired the shot that struck David Cantor, burglar suspect, and Patrolman Cash Ryan, who was with him when the shot was fired.

Police said Cantor snatched at the pistol holster of Ryan and attempted to escape as they were taking him to the scene of a recent burglary in an effort to elicit a confession.

Other testimony, including a dying statement from Cantor, was to the effect that the prisoner was beaten both before and after he was shot and that one blow caused a brain concussion.

The jury's verdict, returned late last night, was that Cantor came to his death from "wounds inflicted by an officer of the law who in exercise of his legal duty resorted to unnecessary violence."

'BLONDIE' FILM SETS RECORD

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—The management of Loew's Palace Theater announced today that "Blondie of the Follies," starring Marion Davies, established a new box office record at its premier showing here last week.

The new record is $19,800, or $2,200 greater than the previous mark set by Greta Garbo in "As You Desire Me."

Police Pension Fund Hearing Postponed

Attorney Ralph H. Smith, representing the pensioners, told the court they had not been able to complete an audit of the pension fund, but expected to do so within 48 hours.

WOMEN FACTOR, POLL SHOWS

that the women are responding in almost exactly the same proportion as the men in relation to the total number interrogated. The poll, therefore, be regarded as nearly accurate in reflection the woman voters' sentiment as it does that of the men voters.

Of the 74,753 men recorded, Gov. Roosevelt has the backing of 63 per cent and the President 37 per cent. The 34,412 women on record, on the other hand, are divided 58 per cent for Roosevelt and 42 per cent for Hoover. The conclusion to be drawn from these figures is that the swing of 1928 supporters away from Hoover is greater in the ranks of men than of women voters.

Furthermore, the returns show that as the poll has progressed Hoover has increased his strength on the woman side. The initial tabulation of some 25,000 returns, the results of which were published August 14, showed 44 per cent of the replies were from women with Hoover drawing 40 per cent of the women group. With approximately 65,000 votes tabulated up to August 21, Hoover still had exactly 40 per cent of the women, though they represented only 34 per cent of the total replies received.

It was during the last week, with the tabulation of close to 45,000 additional ballots, that Hoover's percentage of the women rose two points. These returns in the main were mailed by the voters after his acceptance speech of August 11.

Window 'Dummy' Alive; Caught With Loot

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—A model in a dress shop window was so much dressed up that Policeman William Fuller was puzzled. What puzzled him more than anything else was the fact that the model held a bag in one hand. He ordered:

"Come out!"

Out stepped James Kane, 26, a Negro.

In the bag, said the officer, there were six dresses and they didn't belong to Kane. He was arrested.

SOUTH RETURNS TO DEMOCRATS

By COLE E. MORGAN
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—The bloc of states of the central south that four years ago left the Democratic party and cast their electoral votes for President Hoover are swinging just as strongly in the opposite direction this year. This is indicated in the nation-wide poll being taken by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States.

Kentucky, more often than otherwise regarded as a doubtful state, is showing up in the poll with 82 per cent vote for Roosevelt and 28 for Hoover. A total of 4,719 ballots have been tabulated from that state.

West Virginia, likewise generally regarded as doubtful and which went overwhelmingly Republican in 1928, is showing a 63 per cent Roosevelt to 37 per cent Hoover vote with 2,987 ballots tabulated.

Tennessee, which went Republican for President in 1920 and again in 1928, today stands 70 per cent Roosevelt and 30 per cent Hoover with 1,762 poll ballots on record.

Virginia, which gave Hoover a 24,000 majority four years ago in defiance of all tradition since reconstruction days, is now safely back in the Democratic fold, the poll shows. Roosevelt has 76 per cent and Hoover 24 per cent of the 1,707 ballots from that state.

North Carolina, where conditions were comparable to those in Virginia four years ago, is swinging even farther Democraticward this year. The poll shows an 80 per cent vote for Roosevelt to 20 per cent for Hoover with 3,483 ballots tabulated.

BOSTON CENSOR TO RETIRE

BOSTON, Aug. 30.—(INS.)—After 28 years, the censorship career of John M. Casey, who was known throughout the country for his strictness in labeling plays and movies "banned in Boston" has entered its last stages. He will retire at the age of 70 on a pension, November 1.

In announcing his retirement, Casey expressed regret over having to leave his post as head of the licensing bureau which was his own invention. He said:

"Boston does not like sex. Furthermore, Boston won't pay money to see filth. By discouraging the performance of questionable plays and pictures, I save producers from a financial loss."

He deplored the "tremendous drop in standards" of the stage in recent years."

Today I know of another girl who's going to wear something old, and something new, something borrowed and something blue.

She's attractive Catherine Baton, daughter of the Henry E. Batons, of Wissahickon avenue, Germantown, Philadelphia, and a niece of our George S. Batons.

Catherine has scores and scores of friends here, having been frequently entertained by her cousin, Mrs. Edwin F. Scheetz, of St. James terrace.

At the wedding of Mrs. Scheetz, who was Mary Eleanor Baton, daughter of the George S. Batons, before she walked away from the altar with Mr. Scheetz, Catherine was one of the bridesmaids. Do you remember?

Well, to return to the news about her. Her father and mother are announcing her engagement to Frank Scott Sayers, son of the junior Henry S. Sayerses, of Waynesburg.

The wedding date I'll have to tell you later, when it is named.

Some time ago I heard that Jane Marshall, another daughter of the Charles Donnell Marshalls, and her fiance, whose name I didn't learn, were looking up real estate, favoring something near the Harry W. Rafferty's. Jane's married sister, Mrs. Rafferty, whose marriage in the spring in Calvary Episcopal Church was a decidedly smart event, didn't wish to confirm the news.

Hunting Homesite

So I've been waiting ever since for the betrothal to be made known. And the time has come.

Jane's father and mother, who are summering in Pottstown, Pa., where they have a farm, announce her engagement to Aiken W. Fisher, son of the Chester G. Fishers, of Beechwood boulevard. The betrothal first was revealed at a dinner the Marshalls gave Saturday at the farm, and the news has just been sent to town.

Announce Betrothal

Jane, who's the youngest daughter of the Marshalls, is a graduate of Westover, and her fiance is a Yale man.

Jane's three older sisters are Mrs. William W. Darsie, of Baltimore; Mrs. Lawrence E. Wilson, of Forest Hills, L. I., and Mrs. Rafferty, whose home in Pittsburgh is a rendezvous for their particular circle of friends.

Mrs. David Witherow and her daughter, Patricia, have left for New York to spend a few days before going on to Bay Head to be guests of Mrs. William McKinney.

Society Folk Making Their Reservations For Concerts

In these days of necessary economy, which has become fashionable, large parties are less and less frequent. Society folk are spending more time than ever before at small home entertainments, such as bridges and impromptu dances or small country club affairs.

And released from many social duties, they are supporting the arts more and more, though they have always been patrons.

Already they are anticipating the concerts of the winter season, and many have taken boxes for the Maria Jeritza concert, to open the Syria Mosque series early in November.

Lucrezia Bori will be another fall visitor, to whose concert society will flock. Just now the artist is in the Adirondacks. And the return of Sergei Koussevitzky and the Boston Symphony Orchestra in the fall will delight music lovers galore.

To Give Concerts

Stately Mrs. Horace Forbes Baker, Mrs. Frank B. Bell, Mrs. S. N. Benham, vivacious Mrs. Joseph H. Bialas, Mrs. James H. Beal, Mrs. Harry S. Bradley and Mrs. Arthur E. Braun have arranged for boxes or parquet circle seats.

Mrs. Henry Vaughan Blaxter is another patron of music who has arranged for her place for the concert series, and so have such faithful music patrons as Mrs. A. H. Burchfield, Mrs. Joel W. Burdick, Mrs. Harvey Childs, Mrs. George H. Clapp, Mrs. Charles W. Dahlinger and Mrs. Herbert DuPuy.

Although busy with the galeties at Watch Hill, R. I., where she always summers, Mrs. Harry Darlington, Jr., has seen that her seat reservations for the concerts have been made.

Reserves Places

Miss Katherine M. Edwards, interested in music as well as flying, is another patron, and so are Mrs. Frederick Edmondson, Mrs. Thomas Ewing, Howard N. Eavenson, Mrs. Nathaniel Spear, Mrs. A. C. Lehman, Mrs. William U. Follansbee, Miss Ida Allerton, Mrs. Thomas S. Anderson.

Mrs. George S. Baton, who is spending much of the summer at popular Ross Mountain Park, New Florence, Pa., is a patron, and, of course, so are such music enthusiasts as Mrs. C. D. Armstrong, Mrs. W. Eugene Garry, Mrs. Otto C. Gaub, Miss Mabel Lindsay Gillespie, Mrs. James Hardie, Jr., Mrs. Benjamin G. Wells, Mrs. James H. Hammond and Mrs. H. F. Hetzel.

Margaret McCain Betrothed to I. M. Appel

Mrs. Emma K. McCain, of Sheridan avenue, announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Margaret McCain, to Ira Miles Appel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Appel, of the King Edward Apartments.

Their marriage, for which the date has not yet been named, will take place in Calvary Protestant Episcopal Church.

Mrs. Levy to Hold Show Of American Antiques

Mrs. Leo A. Levy, who is perhaps better known as Elizabeth Spear Levy, will hold an exhibit of American antiques and a tea in her home, Northumberland street, Saturday, September 10, from 2 until 8 o'clock.

Miss Goldsworthy Names Sept. 24 For Wedding

Miss Catherine Corinne Goldsworthy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Walter Goldsworthy, has chosen Saturday, September 24, as the day for her marriage to Harry Andrew Olson.

Miss Goldsworthy has chosen as her attendants, Miss Nadine R. Meyer, of Chicago; Miss Margaret T. Blake and Miss Grace F. Goldsworthy. George W. Goldsworthy, Jr., brother of the bride-elect, will serve as best man, and ushers will include Henry Z. Vance Dr. William A. Messer and Ralph G. Montieth.

Miss Eleanor Jacobs, of Hampton avenue, entertained recently in her home at a bridge party for Miss Frances M. Summers, also of Hampton avenue, who will marry Ormond J. Drake, of Lansing, Mich., September 3 at 4:30 o'clock in the Second Presbyterian Church in Wilkinsburg.

STURDY WASHABLE FABRICS NOW INCLUDED IN WINTER WARDROBES

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Aug. 30. — Paris makes specific recommendations this year to the young woman who is planning her autumn clothes. For the first time in many years, cotton dresses are included in the wardrobes suggested for winter months. Pique, embroidered and printed linens and other sturdy washable fabrics are being used by Paris dressmakers for year-'round costumes.

LIGHTER TONES than usual are on this year's list of advisory colors. Light pinks, blues, yellows, rusts and vivid orange are among the colors prophesied for wear under autumn coats. Coats themselves are often of light colors, especially those mid-season coats that are designed to serve for days that may be rainy and cool, but not actually cold enough for heavy wraps.

VERA BOREA makes a stunning raincoat for just such purposes. It is fashioned of a new rainproof material which gives no rubbery appearance; its outer surface is of riboulding ue— the heavy crepey silk fabric that has been so popular for suits and hats during the summer, and its reverse side is of rubber.

* * *

THE BOREA coat is in white— effectively bright for dull, cloudy days. It is designed to wear over either light-weight cotton dresses in pale tints or over frocks of black or brown silk. There are raglan shoulders which fit easily over any type of dress without bulky lines, and a collar which may be worn tight around the throat.

* * *

THE FAUVETY dress in the sketch is of pale pink pique—collar, crushed belt, flowered necklace and all. There is an added flower of the pique finishing the cordle at the center-back.

3 Contests Added For Federation Convention

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

As if the convention plans were not sufficient to hold every State Federation woman's interest for every minute, they have added three contests, winners in which will be announced during the Philadelphia convention, October 10 to 14.

The county federation and club extension committee under Mrs. Charles Musser is sponsoring an essay contest on "Why a County Federation?" and "How Can We Keep Our Clubs and Federations Growing?" Both topics are open to all senior and junior club women in the federation; the essays are not to exceed 1,000 words and returns are to be made to Mrs. Musser, 25 Dudley avenue, Landsdowne, before October 1.

Then there's to be a prize for the most attractive Christmas wreath made of non-prohibitive evergreens and brought to the conservation booth at the convention. The preferred size is 11 to 14 inches in diameter, and the wreaths may be made wholly or in part of artificial material. The use of laurel, holly, ground pines or their fruit or toyon berry is to be avoided.

Wreath Contest

Another contest is that conducted by the poetry division of the literature department under Pittsburgh's own Mrs. Galen C. Hartman. The five winning poems will be read at the literature luncheon on October 12, and a money prize will be awarded the one selected as the best. The poems are to be written about Pennsylvania flowers, are not to exceed 14 lines and are to be in Mrs. Hartman's hands not later than September 10.

Council Bundle Party Open to Club Women

Mrs. Lillian Cohen is taking last-minute reservations for the bundle party to be held tomorrow at the Hotel Schenley by the Pittsburgh Council of Jewish Women. All club women, whether or not they are members of council, will be admitted to the party which is under the general chairmanship of Mrs. Charles L. Reizenstein. Mrs. Raymond Kaufmann, Mrs. Leo Winkler and Mrs. Irvin F. Lehman are Mrs. Reizenstein's co-chairmen.

Malta Officers to Hold Lawn Party Tomorrow

Officers of Allegheny Sisterhood, No. 8, Dames of Malta, will hold a lawn party at the home of Mrs. Annie McClelland, East street, North Side, tomorrow evening. Bridge, euchre, "500," old maid and bingo will be played. Mrs. Marie Wilson and Mrs. McClelland are co-chairmen for the affair.

Catholic Alumnae Urges Modesty In Dress

DENVER, Col., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—The International Federation of Catholic Alumnae in biennial session here yesterday reaffirmed its stand for modesty in dress. A resolution said:

Delegates pledged themselves by their example to "counteract this great evil."

Mrs. Philip A. Brennan, of Brooklyn, is unopposed for reelection as president. Three candidates are in the field for vice president, Mrs. Alfred C. Whitton, of Washington, at present second vice president; Mrs. W. H. Connell, Jr., of Pittsburgh, now treasurer, and Mrs. George T. McQuade, of Freeport, Long Island, N. Y., a trustee.

Delegates from Canada, led by Mrs. J. A. Thompson, of Toronto, started a movement for a national organization in the dominion, to be affiliated with the international organization.

WIDOW PLANS LAST ZIEGFELD RITES IN N.Y.

Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 30.—Billie Burke, widow of Florenz Ziegfeld, is going to New York to settle her husband's estate and affairs, and then will return to Los Angeles to make her permanent home while she seeks a new career in motion pictures.

She told of her plans in an exclusive interview with Universal Service, the first since Ziegfeld died July 22.

WILL TAKE BODY

Unless her plans are changed, she will leave for the East September 15. With her will go the body of the late producer, now temporarily reposing at the Forest Lawn Cemetery, Glendale. Final services will be held "on the Broadway he loved so much and to which he belonged," said Miss Burke.

She will assay a new type of roles in motion pictures—more serious characters than her past light comedy parts. She tried it in R.K.O.'s "Bill of Divorcement," with John Barrymore, and liked it.

PLANS BIOGRAPHY

She may write, too. It will probably be an authentic biography of her famed mate, as seen by one who knew him better than anyone else.

"I would like to portray the sweet gentle side of him so few really knew. I only hope that people now writing biographies of him know him as man, and not only as the showman whose eccentricities bent toward purple shirts and the like. I hope they do not submerge the man, Ziegfeld, for the outward portraits of him."

TO DISCUSS FOLLIES

In New York, she will discuss with A. C. Blumenthal, friend of Ziegfeld, future plans for the renowned Follies, for possible road shows of that production and of "Hot-Cha" and the future of "Show Boat," now running. Samuel Goldwyn will be her motion picture adviser.

Miss Burke revealed for the first time that Ziegfeld had never been on a New Mexico ranch in his last days, as announced, but that she had brought him to their Santa Monica home in secrecy to avoid disturbance.

Her daughter, Patricia, will enter an exclusive school here—"for it will be home for us, from now on," concluded Miss Burke.

EX-BAND HEAD NOW PREACHER

From jazz band leader to religious evangelist is the history of Paul A. Kenyon, of South Brownsville, who will be heard at two meetings sponsored by the Volunteers of America tonight.

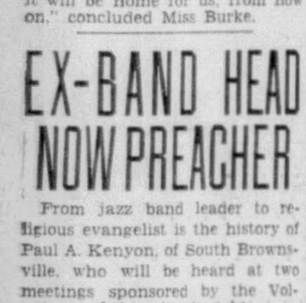
Kenyon led dance orchestras in New York and London before he became an evangelist four years ago. Now he and his sister, Dorothy, and a brother, Donald, compose the Kenyon Gospel Trio. They will appear at services of the Volunteers of America Church, North Side, and at an open air meeting at Federal street and Park way.

Burned Bucknell Hall Being Razed

LEWISBURG, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Workmen started late yesterday to level Old Main, Bucknell University's oldest and largest building. It was destroyed by fire Saturday and the State Board of Public Safety ordered its walls razed immediately.

East and west wings are standing temporarily, while insurance adjusters determine the loss, but college officials announced they, too, will have to be destroyed before construction of a new main hall can begin.

SHE FOUND THE WAY



REGULARLY—once a month—many a girl decides to do something about it. Surely there must be something to help such pain, such weakness . . . some way to get relief.

Then the period passes. She forgets. But next month she suffers again.

Now—today—is the time to do something. Buy a bottle of this Vegetable Compound. Keep it ready. It has been a godsend to thousands. 98 out of 100 women who try it report benefit. Through its tonic action it built them up and relieved the pain. They depend on it. You can depend on it too.

CURTIS TO OPEN STATE DRIVE

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Vice President Charles Ccurtis, here for a vacation at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Webster Knight II, said he will open his campaign in Pennsylvania on either September 15 or 17.

Mr. Curtis declared that his personal attitude of being opposed to repeal of the Eighteenth amendment would not react unfavorably toward President Hoover. He said:

"I have said all that I am going to say on the prohibition question in my acceptance speech and if people will read it thoroughly and not merely a few words of it they will see that I have answered this question clearly."

MILLIONAIRE'S YACHT SEIZED

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—(INS.)—Together with its valuable cargo of 281 bottles containing choice liquor, the luxurious $500,000 yacht belonging to Kenneth G. Smith, president of the Pepsodent Company, was today in the custody of the United States customs service.

The ship and cargo were seized last night in one of the most spectacular government raids ever conducted here.

The millionaire toothpaste magnate and Capt. Claude Newman, master of the vessel, were summoned to appear before Customs Collector Anthony Czarnecki for an examination. No arrests were made at the time of the raid and plans for legal steps were held in abeyance, pending the examination of the ship's owner and captain.

Customs officials said it was possible the government might seek to confiscate the yacht, one of the finest pleasure vessels on the Great Lakes.

Ritz Tower Blast Held Unavoidable

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(INS.)—There was no act of culpable negligence in the explosion and fire in the basement of the Ritz tower, Park avenue and Fifty-seventh street, Assistant District Attorney James T. Neary had reported in making his findings. The explosion, which cost the lives of eight firemen, was due, according to a consensus of opinion, to oxygen coming in contact with fumes when the hoistway was opened.

Plays Given On WCAE, KDKA

Radio dramas featuring Pittsburgh artists are presented from two studios here tonight.

The first episode in a local mystery program is broadcast from WCAE at 8:30, with the second and concluding episode scheduled for tomorrow night at the same hour. The thrilling story has to do with the race of a young man against his stepfather to regain hidden treasures in the South Sea Islands. It culminates in victory for the youth when, with the help of an American chum, he brings the treasures back to Pittsburgh. Included in the cast are Sandra Kostner, well-known here in dramatic circles; Ed Harvey, new program director of WCAE; David Olson, Billy Hinds and L. M. Sandstrom. The program is sponsored by Frank and Seder.

Miss Kostner

The second episode in the radio dramatization of "Blondie of the Follies" is presented from WCAE at 9:15. The third and concluding installment goes on the air Thursday at the same hour. The story is based on the film of the same name starring Miss Marion Davies.

The dramatized story of the founder of the Salvation Army, Gen. William Booth, and his wife, Catherine Mumford Booth, known world over as the "father and mother" of the Salvation Army, is sent out from KDKA at 6:30 over the NBC's Blue network. Elbert R. Moses, Pittsburgh lecturer, appears in the role of Gen. Booth; Alma Lynd portrays Mrs. Booth; Leon Churcheon is the reporter and Frederick G. Rodgers narrator. The Salvation Army Band assists the KDKA Concert Orchestra and Mixed Quartet in the musical setting.

All arrangements have been perfected by NBC and CBS engineers for broadcasting vivid-word-picturers of the eclipse of the sun tomorrow afternoon. The accounts of the phenomenon will come from airplane, mountain top and autogyro in Canada and New England in the path of totality, and will be given by noted scientists and ace announcers. The programs will be heard here through WCAE, KDKA and WJAS at appoximately 4:15 p. m.

Program Pointers

Department stores and their place in our economic system, especially relating to the Pittsburgh district, are discussed by A. H. Burchfield, Jr., tonight from KDKA. Mr. Burchfield, representing the Joseph Horne Company, speaks for department stores as a whole. The talk is one of a series entitled "Pittsburgh Industries," devoted to an analysis of actual conditions in Pittsburgh's industrial life . . . Alderman George A. Young, of Woods Run, who has accepted chairmanship of a committee to study the problem of vagabond youths, is guest speaker in KQV's "Pittsburgh Today" program at 8.

Mr. Burchfield

"The Goldman Extortion Case" is the police dramatization during the "magic carpet" flight on WCAE tonight at 10. Joe Moss and his orchestra furnish the syncopation with Walter O'Keefe in his accustomed master of ceremonies role.

Miss Cessna, pianist, replaces Jane Weisel as Dona Errol's partner in the "Pirates Two" program from KDKA at 10:45.

The late Bert Williams is impersonated by Georgie Price on WJAS at 7:45.

A violin solo by George Bass, former concertmaster of the Chicago Symphony, is a brilliant contribution to the Household program heard over KDKA at 8. Alice Mock, of the Chicago Civic Opera, also is featured.

BLONDIE AND LOTTIE DISAGREE

Miss Polly Rowles (left), as Lottie, and Mary Dingfelder, as Blondie, during a tense moment in the radio dramatization of "Blondie of the Follies," the second episode of which is broadcast from Station WCAE tonight from 9:15 to 9:30. The first episode was given last night, and the third and concluding installment will go on the air Thursday night. The script is based on the motion picture starring Miss Marion Davies. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

Listening In

Reisman Fiddle Lured by Stage; The Singing Lady

Although it's supposed to be a big secret, the Singing Lady's name is Irene Wicker . . . George Olsen, Ethel Shutta and Jack Benny will go vaudeville, according to present plans . . . Joe Schuster and Johnny Tucker of vaudeville will be on the air this fall for a candy maker . . . Leo Reisman carries a $2 fiddle in and out of the studios. An assistant carries the very expensive Stradivarius . . . The fifth season of Walter Damrosch's music appreciation hour starts October 14 . . . Easy Aces returns September 26.

Miss Wicker

Embarrassing moment . . . At the end of one of his "Seth Parker" broadcasts, Phillips Lord was approached by a blushing young girl. "Will you marry me?" she stammered. Lord, a bit jolted, said he'd have to take it up with his wife and children, whereupon she explained that she wanted Lord, whom she thought was a minister, to tie the knot that would bind her to her sweetheart.

Norman Brokenshire likes to tell about his grandfather who chinned himself 15 times at the age of 80 . . . Jimmy Melton, the singer, can play a saxophone, too . . . A collection of Frank Crumit's favorite songs has been published . . . They say Eddie Cantor will be back on the air this fall . . .

A network publicity release reveals the fact that a highway in the Carolinas has been named for a radio station, WBT. Wonder if they know about our KDKA boulevard . . .

Three years ago a listener phoned the Columbia headquarters complaining that something must have been wrong and that engineers had better attend to it, so a technician was sent to his house and a minor repair was made on the receiving set. The courtesy has often been repaid—every three or four months the man appears at the studios heavily laden with gifts ranging from cigaret holders to neckties. The other day he made another of his unscheduled appearances, carrying a large box containing more than 50 containers of ice cream.

Seibel Discusses Mansfield Tonight

George Seibel, literary and dramatic critic of the Sun-Telegraph, gives another of his popular talks on "Plays and Players" from the studios of WCAE tonight at 7 o'clock. His topic is "Richard Mansfield as I Knew Him."

Another 15 minutes of sheer fun is in store for young and old alike when Uncle Bob and Betty once more read the Sun-Telegraph comics from WCAE at 6.

Four times daily, at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m., 2:30 p. m. and 6:30 p. m., latest news flashes are sent to WCAE listeners by Louis L. Kaufmann, Globe-Trotterof the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News.

ALICE, WHAT HAS COME BETWEEN US? YOU'RE NOT A BIT LIKE YOUR OLD SELF. HAVE I DONE ANYTHING TO OFFEND YOU?

I SHOULD HAVE BEEN FRANK. I MEANT TO BE. BUT IT'S SUCH A PERSONAL MATTER THAT I SHRINK FROM DISCUSSING IT
NEXT DAY AT THE CLUB
WELL, MY BOY, HOW GOES MARRIED LIFE?
I'M BADLY WORRIED, UNCLE NED. ALICE IS SO CHANGED—SO COLD AND DISTANT. SOMETIMES I WONDER IF SHE STILL LOVES ME
I'M CERTAIN SHE DOES. BUT ALICE IS FASTIDIOUS. ALL WOMEN ARE. YOU'VE GROWN A BIT CARELESS ABOUT "B.O." I'VE NOTICED IT MYSELF
CHEER UP. YOUR FAULT IS EASILY CORRECTED. JUST BATHE REGULARLY WITH LIFEBUOY AND YOU'LL HAVE NO MORE "B.O." WORRIES
Lifebuoy HEALTH SOAP
ONE MONTH LATER
NOTHING COLD OR DISTANT ABOUT THIS LITTLE SCENE! EVIDENTLY, LIFEBUOY'S DONE THE TRICK. NO "B.O." NOW TO SPOIL THEIR HAPPINESS

A PRODUCT OF LEVER BROTHERS CO.

Seeing is believing on washday — by C.A.Voight

HELLO THERE, KATHERINE! YOU'RE THROUGH WITH YOUR WASH EARLY
OH, GOOD MORNING RUTH! COME ON IN FOR A FEW MINUTES
I CAN'T STAY LONG—I JUST RAN OUT TO BUY SOME SOAP
WELL, BE SURE YOU GET RINSO—IT'S THE SOAP THAT SAVES ME HOURS OF SCRUBBING EVERY WASHDAY
SO THAT'S WHY YOU'RE ALWAYS THROUGH SO MANY HOURS AHEAD OF ME! AND IS IT RINSO THAT GETS YOUR CLOTHES SO SNOWY?
YES—I DON'T EVEN BOIL MY LINENS ANYMORE, RINSO GETS THEM SO WHITE
NEXT WASHDAY
WHAT RICH LIVELY SUDS—FROM JUST A LITTLE RINSO! I MUST TRY IT FOR THE DISHES, TOO. IT'S SO EASY ON THE HANDS
THROUGH HOURS EARLIER—AND A WHITER WASH THAN EVER—I WISH I HAD CHANGED TO RINSO LONG AGO!

One box did this big wash for Mrs. E. E. Bucks of Bluefield, W. Va.

"WHILE I've used Rinso regularly for some time, I never knew until I kept a list just how much could be done with one big box. I am really proud of the things I accomplished. Here's my washing:

4 bureau scarfs	36 towels	6 shirts
12 doilies	18 dish towels	4 pairs socks
2 face cloths	150 handkerchiefs	18 pieces underwear
12 napkins	6 children's nightclothes	6 aprons
8 pillow cases	18 pairs children's stockings	4 house-dresses
6 sheets	1 pair overalls
5 table-cloths	1 cap

"It seems almost impossible, but with what was left in the same box I did the dishes 39 times. Rinso is certainly economical!"

Rinso gives thick suds even in hardest water. Soaks out dirt—saves scrubbing and boiling. That saves the clothes—saves your hands. Get the BIG box.

Rinso

Millions use Rinso—it's so easy on the hands

PARKS TO OPEN FOR HOLDERS OF 'BUCKS'

Save your Lucky Bucks! Owing to the unexpected crowd at Kennywood last Friday, hundreds of children were unable to spend their Lucky Bucks. It was a condition that was never anticipated. A crowd such as Pittsburgh has never before experienced. Hundreds of youngsters were, of course, disappointed.

The Sun-Telegraph wants to give these youngsters another chance to really spend their Lucky Bucks. Kennywood was not scheduled to open again until next Sunday, but Manager McSwigan has consented to specially open the big park for an overflow of Lucky Buck Day next Saturday. Manager Frank L. Danahey, of West View Park, wants to help out, and will open his beautiful park the same day for an overflow of Lucky Buck Day.

This time there will absolutely be no overcrowding. The youngsters will get their tickets in strips before they go to the park. There will be just enough printed for a normal day's business at each park and they will be exchanged for Lucky Bucks at neighborhood exchange stations in advance on Thursday or Friday. There will be a liberal supply, but not an oversupply, and it is hoped that this plan will take care of nearly all of the boys and girls who were disappointed last Friday.

It is costing the Sun-Telegraph no little money for these overflow of Lucky Bucks at West View and Kennywood. In the meantime there will be no Lucky Bucks printed in the Sun-Telegraph before next Sunday. Only the old Lucky Bucks the youngsters clipped for Kennywood will be good for next Saturday.

The Pittsburgh Railways Company has again consented to issue a 15-cent round trip pass. They will be on sale at exchange stations to be announced in the Sun-Telegraph on Thursday. In the meantime, watch the Sun-Telegraph for interesting announcements about overflow of Lucky Buck Day at Pittsburgh's two great amusement parks.

HARRIS, M'GOVERN TAKE AID PROBLEM TO PINCHOT

POLITICS

Pinchot Aid Sought For New Party

—By MARK SHIELDS—

Efforts to form a statewide "Public Ownership Party" to enter candidates in the general election in November have reached the point where the support of Gov. Pinchot for the movement is being actively solicited. It was the hope of those backing the movement that the Governor himself would become a candidate this year for the United States Senate, but that dream was blasted yesterday by the Governor's statement that he would not enter the fight against Senator James J. Davis, Republican, or Lawrence Rupp, Democrat.

Mr. Shields

The expectation of those attempting to launch the new party is that some assistance will be received from the Governor because of his fight on the Public Service Commission and some utilities of the state. In the past the Governor has never championed public ownership direct. He has, however, held it up as the inevitable alternative to the refusal of the utilities to abide by reasonable regulatory legislation and commission rules.

Through the charges against Chairman W. D. B. Ainey, of the Public Service Commission, who resigned under fire, and his demand for investigation of the finances of former Commissioner James S. Benn, who also resigned while under attack by Pinchot, the Governor has, at least, intimated that utilities have sought special favors, and have presented gratuities to Ainey, at least.

Dissociated From Fair Rate Association

It is this attitude which the public ownership group hopes will lead Mr. Pinchot to lend his indorsement to the movement for the coming campaign, extending into legislative districts. The scope of the campaign is largely dependent upon the reaction to be secured from the Governor this week. If he is sympathetic papers to pre-empt a party name probably will be filed at once.

Should he prove cold there may be necessary a new consideration of plans which have reached the point where papers have been prepared to adopt the party name.

This movement is dissociated from the Fair Rate Association movement which did not make much headway in the recent primary in nominating candidates to the Legislature. It is being promoted, however, by some men who were active in the Fair Rate Association activity.

Opportunism is the keynote of the campaign. It is figured that the utility issue will be a live one all fall through the Senate investigation and the additional publicity Gov. Pinchot is expected to give to the subject during that inquiry.

Gov. Pinchot, it is figured, will try to make captal out of the expected revelations in an endeavor to elect sympathetic legislators. This would have to be done through the candidacy of entries of some third party in most districts, and the public ownership group is anticipaating co-opertion with independents.

So far the public ownership agitation has been noted principally in Pittsburgh among individuals and groups which have supported Pinchot in his anti-utility campaigns, notably in 1930.

Doing the Right Thing Puzzler in Politics

Ben Eynon, who lost his job in the Department of Revenue because the recently and violently deceased Volpe brothers received special automobile license numbers, must now wonder at the perplexing whirl of politics. It is on record that the numbers were requested by Charles Pearson, once publicity man for the Highway Department, and an active aide of the late County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong in the campaign against Pinchot for Governor in the primary of 1930.

In a Pinchot administration that would have been enough to cancel any recommendation of Pearson. But—

Eynon, when the request for special numbers for this year came, must have remembered that Pearson had been a vigorous worker for McGovern in the primary of 1931, and had exerted himself perspiringly in the general election which resulted in victory for McGovern and his running mate, C. M. Barr, as independent County Commissioners.

Thereafter Pearson was much in evidence about the commissioners' office and it was only because McGovern happened to find a letter in his mail that John Volpe did not this year have the JV to which he had been accustomed, and which was subsequently transferred to John Vickerman, churchman and director of the Bureau of Elections.

Knowing that McGovern is the last word in Pinchot patronage and preference here, Eynon was within the bounds of political reasoning in giving Pearson anything he wanted during an independent state administration—though he may have wondered at the success Pearson seemed to have in always landing with the right people.

Indeed, had the licenses been issued after the spring primary campaign in which Gov. Pinchot unsuccessfully backed Gen. Smedley D. Butler for the Republican senatorial nomination, he might have noted further that Pearson was "office manager" of local Butler headquarters, and appeared on extremely friendly terms with the Governor on his visits here. Further, Pearson was a Pinchot candidate for the state committee.

It must be all very puzzling to Ben, and shows you never know what is the right thing to do in politics, and can only hope to have satisfied the right people.

NEW U. S. BANK TO RELEASE $7,000,000

Depositors and B.-L. Investors of County To Share Benefits

The establishment of the Federal Home Loan Bank system will release between $7,000,000 and $8,000,000 to the banks of Allegheny County in payments of notes of building and loan associations.

This cash is expected to speed up the liquidation of closed banks making possible additional dividends to depositors.

BUILDING AND LOAN AID

Large amounts of the money borrowed from the government will also be used in paying off persons on the withdrawal lists of the building and loan associations, which contain many urgently in need of their money.

These purposes rather than the financing of great real estate activity are the objectives of the Federal Home Loan Bank, according to Claude P. Rhen, president of the Allegheny County League of Building and Loan Associations.

The building and loan associations are protected by law against runs by their depositors. The associations need pay out only to the extent of one-half of their receipts. As a result, there have been few failures among the associations, but many depositors who have needed money have not been able to obtain it.

Allegheny County represents a large center of home-owning population, one of the strongest reasons for obtaining the home loan bank for Pittsburgh, Mr. Rhen believes. There are approximately $160,000,000 in building and loan mortgages in the county.

HEAVY BANK LOANS

Banks here during good times loaned heavily to building and loans. In the depression these loans became frozen. The government's new bank which will rediscount mortgages, will pay off about $7,000,000 in these loans in the county, Mr. Rhen believes.

The new bank in Pittsburgh will be the headquarters for Pennsylvania, Delaware and West Virginia. Its location has not been definitely determined. According to a statement by William E. Best, director, it will not have elaborate offices nor employ a large force. It will open about October 15.

POLICE REVIVE GAS VICTIM

Nathan Greenberg, 60, of 1701 Center avenue, revived by police after being found overcome by gas in the bathroom of his home last night, was reported recovering in Passavant Hospital today.

Greenberg was found unconscious by members of the household, who summoned a physician and police from Center Avenue Station. Wagomen Patrick Barry and John Connors revived him with inhalators, administering two tanks of oxygen.

Greenberg refused to talk when questioned by police and will face a disorderly conduct charge upon his release from the hospital, according to police report.

'Skinner' Knows His Skin Game Under 2 Names

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Mr. Norman, meet Prof. Skinner.

That's like introducing the Siamese twins to each other in a bathtub.

For Mr. Norman is Prof. Skinner. He picked that name from under one of three shells. It's the old army game, boys.

In England he is top sergeant for the Old Lady of Threadneedle Street. Yessir, head man for the Bank of England.

Over here he tiptoes through the tulips as Prof. Skinner. An expert on inflating prices of raw materials, knocking down American tariff barriers and skipping the light fantastic war debt.

Clip that chinstrap, Prof. Skinner, we know you. And when you selected that name of Skinner, brother, you smacked the thumb right on the nail.

We don't know why you're over here. But we're afraid it's true.

You're going to tell us that Europe can't pay its battle fees, its skirmish instalments and its war endowments.

So, shove off, old bean. Scramm. Mr. Norman and Prof. Skinner, we spurn you two at a time.

HELD FOR COURT IN DOG THEFT

Coon hunters and hunting dog owners jammed the courtroom of Justice of the Peace Charles Bamberger, of Penn Township, last night during the hearing of Asher Moucheron, 55, of Finance street, Homewood, accused of stealing a coon-hunting dog valued at $150.

Moucheron was held for court on a charge of larceny after Charles Warren, of Saltsburg road, Penn Township, identified a dog recovered in Baden, Pa., as the one stolen from his yard, June 5, according to Bamberger.

Two men who traded their dog for the stolen one were discharged. They had been charged with receiving stolen goods. They identified Moucheron as the man who "swapped" dogs with them, but the prisoner denied the dog he gave the men was the stolen one.

SHERIFF'S SALE LISTS ASKED

An appeal to tax collectors and solicitors of boroughs and townships to send in statements of property to be sold next month at sheriff's sale was made today by Thomas Drew, deputy sheriff in charge of real estate.

Drew estimated there would be about 460 sales of real estate for non-payment of taxes. On some properties taxes have not been paid for years. All data must be at hand before the sales list can be made up.

Hurt as Box Falls In Park, Sues City

For a slight fracture of the skull, the result of a bird or squirrel box falling on his head, William H. G. Ritter has brought suit against the City of Pittsburgh for $25,000 damages.

The plaintiff says he was strolling through the East Park, July 10, when the box, containing rusty nails, fell and struck him on the head.

'NEWSIE' HERO RESCUES CAT

A Sun-Telegraph carrier today was being praised by Beechview residents for rescuing a black cat from atop a pole in Broadway, Beechview, yesterday afternoon.

He is Victor Perry, 13, of 1630 Methyl street, Beechview. Perry, delivering the Sun-Telegraph on his route, noted the precarious position of the cat on the pole. He dropped his papers and began climbing the pole as a crowd looked on. He reached the frightened animal, which had been "stranded" several hours, and carried it down to safety.

Then he resumed his deliveries.

BISHOP, Cal., Aug. 30.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Well, sir, away up here in the mountains working on the movies, the latest papers tell me of the struggle in Texas of two of my good friends, Gov. Sterling and "Ma" Sterling has made a good Governor, but this is a year that, as the black crows used to say, "even if you are good we don't want any more of you." This is a year when we all are just looking for sombody to lay our ills onto.

Texas is a great state. It's the "Old Man River" of states. No matter who runs it, or what happened to it politically, "it just keeps rolling along." Yours,

INDIAN BOY, 10, PARK'S GUEST

District Attorney Andrew T. Park is entertaining at his home a 10-year-old Indian boy, son of a Chippewa chief, from Ontario, Canada. The district attorney spent the last few weeks on a fishing trip 125 miles north of Toronto, the home of the boy.

The boy, Murray Whetung, is seeing for the first time a large city and street cars and movies. His home is on the Curve Lake Reservation, near Peterboro, Ontario. His father is chief of the Mudlake Band of Chippewas. The boy will remain here for about 10 days and will be taken back home by a relative.

The Indian boy is staying at the district attorney's home near Glenshaw.

COUNTY NEEDS SPECIAL AID OF STATE

Short Rations for Poor Loom Again Because Of Lack of Funds

State Senator Frank J. Harris and Chairman Charles C. McGovern of County Commissioners will leave for Harrisburg tonight to confer with Gov. Gifford Pinchot and lay before him Pittsburgh's and Allegheny County's needs for state aid in relief work.

Harris, chairman of the Allegheny County Emergency Relief Committee, set up by the Governor to supervise the county's use of state funds, and McGovern, a member of the committee, were designated as a sub-committee to represent the group in Harrisburg, following its initial meeting yesterday.

NEEDS OF DISTRICT

They will leave Pittsburgh, Harris says, with all the information necessary in applying for relief for the district. The Senator said:

"We will be able to give Gov. Pinchot a complete picture of our needs. Our end of the application can be completed as soon as we see the Governor.

"We are doing everything in our power to see that city and county get their share of state funds at the earliest possible moment.

"The committee yesterday decided to ask the Governor to amend some of the rules he set down for securing help from the state, in order that the county's peculiar needs may be filled."

SHORT RATIONS LOOM

City and county share of state money, in September, will be about $225,000, the Governor announced. This will not be enough, if other funds are not obtained to supplement those of the state to provide full relief orders to destitute here for two weeks.

The city, by virtue of its recent sale of $800,000 in relief bonds, has funds to supplement those of the state. Because the county has not and because dissatisfaction would occur, relief workers say, if the needy of the city received more than the county destitute, insufficient food orders must be issued, even with state aid on hand, until the county can raise funds to swell its budget.

State money, the Governor has announced, can only be used for food orders. Coal, rent, clothing must come from other sources.

15-FOOT FALL HURTS BOY, 3

Three-year-old James W. "Sonny" Burnett, of 113 Moultrie street, today is suffering from a bump on his head as a result of falling 15 feet from the second floor window of his home yesterday.

Sonny, son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Burnett, Jr., was put to bed by his mother for his afternoon nap. A short time later a neighbor screamed and ran to the Burnett home to tell the mother her child had fallen to the brick walk in front of the house.

A physician was summoned and said further examination was necessary to determine if the boy's skull had been fractured.

The boy climbed to the window and pushed out a screen nailed to the woodwork, the parents said.

Battling Motorists Draw Street Crowd

Wilbert E. Crooks, 31, of 2803 Fitzhugh street, North Side, got into an argument with W. L. Zimmar, 35, of 141 Oak Park road, early today while they were stopped by a traffic light at Western and Irwin avenues, North Side. Crooks left his machine, police said, and hit Zimmar. Crooks was lodged in North Side Police Station by detectives, who said a crowd of 200 persons was attracted to the street intersection by the argument.

Japanese Beetle Proves Pest to Farm Head

Japanese beetles may be a pest to farmers and gardeners, but they have become an even greater one to the office of Henry R. Eby, director of the Allegheny County Agricultural Extension Association.

Since the destructive bugs were first found in Sharpsburg last week and identified as such by Eby, his office in the courthouse has been a veritable bug information bureau. His secretary has answered scores of telephone calls daily and he has answered not only an unusual number at his office, but at his home as well.

Explaining what he called a run on his office, Eby said today:

"The people think that any bug with legs is the Japanese beetle. The bugs that they call about are the Mexican bean beetle and the blister beetle."

Not only telephone calls alone have kept Eby busy. He also has received many bug specimens at his office. Specimens and telephone calls have come from all parts of the city.

2 MEN HURT IN 3 TRUCK MISHAPS

Three accidents damaged trucks of the Otto Milk Company and injured two drivers.

One truck skidded and struck a pole at Termon and Massachusetts avenues, North Side, yesterday. The driver, Samuel Bansdale, 51, of 226 Fifteenth street, Sharpsburg, was taken to St. John's General Hospital. Another truck, parked to remove the load from the damaged machine, was struck by an automobile.

Firemen were called to Fifth avenue and Graeme street to extinguish a blaze that damaged another of the company's trucks this morning.

Michael Restolia, 39, of 7307 Susquehanna street, sustained an injured right leg in jumping from the truck.

FORMER SCREEN STAR MOTHER

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Announcement was made today that a son was born here last week to Virginia Lee Corbin, former film star, and Ted Krol, New York.

Shortly afterward Richard Dix, motion picture luminary, said he and his wife, the former Winifred Coe, of San Francisco, expected to become parents next March. He declared:

"I am the happiest man in the world."

He and Miss Coe were married last year at Yuma, Ariz.

Krol and Miss Corbin were married late in 1929. She retired from the screen several years ago at the height of her career.

FIRED OFFICERS MAY APPEAL

MONESSEN, Pa., Aug. 30.—An appeal to Council for a hearing, was expected to be made today by four patrolmen suspended indefinitely by Mayor Carl Woodward, after he had received allegations of the theft of gasoline from a service station. Thomas Feehan, one of the suspended officers, through Attorney Milton Safier, today said he would seek a vindication when Council meets on September 14.

According to Mayor Woodward, the four suspended policemen, Charles Keller, Thomas Feehan, David Canova and Frank Hopton confessed taking gas from the station of J. E. Cook. Feehan today denied making a confession. Cook has not yet taken any action on the alleged theft.

MENJOU TO FACE ANOTHER TRIAL

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 30.—(Universal.)—In an odd mixup, caused by the inability of certain jurors to understand legal instructions, the case of Harold Menjou, accused of drunken driving and murder, ended yesterday in his acquittal on the drunken driving charge and in an apparent mistrial on the other count.

The jury returned to Judge C. S. Burnell's courtroom late yesterday and returned a verdict finding the youth was not driving under the influence of liquor when his car overturned and killed his companion, Majorie Gauthier, 16, last June 18.

The jurors also announced they had decided Menjou was not guilty of second degree murder, but said they had disagreed, 8 to 4, as to his guilt on manslaughter.

Menjou, 20-year-old former adopted son of Adolphe Menjou, screen actor, was then ordered to reappear September 26 for retrial on manslaughter charges.

FLINN HIGHWAY WORK URGED

Improvement of the William Flinn Highway, Route 8, from Pittsburgh to Butler, was urged in a letter of the H. J. Heinz Company, through E. D. McCafferty, secretary to Gov. Pinchot. The letter read in part:

"Some sections of this route have been widened and repaved to a point near Wildwood. From that point to Butler the road is narrow, with many curves and the paving is in poor condition, as it is one of the oldest paved roads in this section. As it is one of the main routes of travel between Pittsburgh and the north, it carries a very heavy traffic and we desire to indorse heartily the movement for its improvement."

Commenting on the improvement, Eugene L. Connelly, secretary of the association, said there are now 65 miles of the Federal Aid Road System in the state which are not improved, and about 35 miles which can be added to take up the full mileage permitted by the 7 per cent clause in the Federal Highway Act.

Some People Stall Through Periods of Indecision

He "cares for her too much" to step out of her life—but neither will he give up the other gal!

So what'll Gloriette do? Shall she keep on letting him hang around, in the hope that some day, when he gets good and ready, he'll choose between them?

Dear Sally Martin:

I have been reading your column every day, but I have never written you before. I have always managed to straighten out my own affairs alone, or with the help of my mother; but this time I can't go to her, and I seem to get myself deeper and deeper into this trouble. Will you please help me?

When I was 15 I thought I was in love with a lad six years older than I. We went together five years, and during that time we became engaged. Then I met Jack. He is four years older than I. He had been going with another girl for two years, but he broke up with her, and I broke my engagement.

We have been going together for six months now. During this time he has been seeing the other girl, too. We have both been patient, waiting for him to make his choice. He is really a very honest and upright young man, and feels dreadful about this whole affair.

I have made him understand that he could feel free to go to this other girl if he felt he would be happier with her. I wanted him to be happy, even if I had to sacrifice my own happiness. He said HE CARED FOR ME TOO MUCH, BUT NO MATTER HOW MUCH HE LOVED ME, HE DIDN'T HAVE THE RIGHT TO SAY IT.

WILLING TO FORGIVE

There is another thing, too. He had an affair once with another girl. It wasn't the girl I have mentioned. I don't know her, but it did hurt dreadfully when he confessed it to me. However, that makes no difference now; it is past. But he says that if we were to marry, I would continue to think about it and distrust him. When he made this confession he said "Goodbye," telling me that he wasn't good enough for me. Now I am willing to forget and forgive anything, just to have his love, but I cannot convince him of that.

Please tell me how I can make him understand. He thinks that I am too young to understand and is very much afraid that I will change my mind, just as I did when I broke my engagement. But I know I wouldn't. How can I make him believe it?

GLORIETTE.

JUST STALLING

How'll you convince him?

Don't try, Gloriette. That lad knows plenty well what he is doing. He's just stalling around with very little intention of ever tying himself down seriously with any one, and all his heavy sighs and hand wringings are just a slick act, whereby he keeps you from calling his bluff.

What'll you do?

A little period of indecision is natural to even the smartest of us, but this chronic fluttering is something else again. And if you put any value on either your time or your heart, kid, you should make him cut it out.

Put it up to him straight. If he knows that he may lose you permanently, it may jar him into action. IF HE DOES CARE FOR YOU, HE'LL SAY SO.

And if he doesn't—or can't yet make up his mind—what good is he to you? And why let him continue to clutter up your doorsill?

We Can Never Quite Feel the Emotion of Another, Says Fay King

HOW DREADFUL! SHE HAD SO MUCH TO LIVE FOR!
SUICIDE
COULDN'T SHE SEE IT WOULD END LIKE THIS?
FAY KING

By FAY KING

Nothing is really quite as much so as we imagine it to be. As we look backward upon the years, how few things we really remember, good or bad.

When we see another carried to the extreme of emotion in sorrow or joy, we cannot feel even a small part of what he feels in the matter.

It seems to us so much less important, because we view it calmly, critically and impersonally.

We see so plainly how the quarrel might have been avoided. Why the suicide should have preferred to live. That the chance another took was foolish and hopeless and not worth the consequences.

If we could only view our own lives as wisely, our sense of values would be so much truer!

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Clean Hands Safeguard Against Infection

Dr. Copeland

The sleeves are rolled up and the nails are cleaned and filed. The arms and hands are immersed in an ample amount of soap and water. The soap is then scrubbed in with a stiff bristle brush. In scrubbing, all the surfaces of the fingers and the palms of the hands are thoroughly treated. The soap is removed by rinsing in quantities of warm water. When the soap is removed the hands and arms are immersed in 70 per cent alcohol, carefully rubbed and then dried with a sterile towel.

Cleanliness of the hands is an essential part of every surgical procedure regardless of whether it be a major or a minor operation. If everyone realized the significance and importance of clean hands and a clean body, I am sure there would be fewer germs and less disease. Cleanliness is essential, not only when handling infectious diseases, but it is an important part of the every-day routine.

I do not advocate such an elaborate performance for every day folks, of course. But care of the hands is really important and should never be neglected. Scrupulous cleanliness will prevent many an infection from disease germs. Remember that soiled hands and fingernails carry germs and disease. These germs are capable of being carried to others or of breaking into your own tissues, producing serious ailments.

Long before our present knowledge of germs was known, cleanliness was recognized as essential to a healthy and safe existence. It is too bad that the practice of washing the hands before handling food is not followed. The hands should be washed with soap and water before each meal. They should be washed whenever soiled objects have been handled.

Children should be taught the importance of clean hands. Prizes may be awarded to the child who is careful about his fingernails and hands. This will encourage a practice which will become a habit.

It is said that more than 90 per cent of infectious diseases can be traced to soiled hands. Dirty hands carry germs, which are transmitted to the nose, mouth and food. In this way such diseases as scarlet fever, measles, infantile paralysis, typhoid fever, influenza, diphtheria and the common cold are easily carried from one person to another. The germs are transmitted from one individual to another by handshaking, the use of toilet articles, handling of food and other methods of contact.

Many persons are careless in the care of their hands. They frequently hold their hands under running water and consider that sufficient to produce cleanliness and give protection against danger. The germs can only be removed by vigorous scrubbing with warm water, soap and a stiff brush.

I am frequently asked what I consider the best antiseptic. Why ask? Antiseptics are not necessary for keeping the hands free from germs. There is no better method of keeping the hands clean than the vigorous use of soap and water. Warm water should be used in preference to cold water. Use plenty of soap and "elbow grease."

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

The undersized girl in her teens who is worrying about not reaching normal height will have a good chance to take on more inches if she keeps to a nourishing diet, gets nine hours of sleep every night, takes regular exercise in the open air, avoids over-activity and hurry.

Wouldst have a rosebud mouth, fashioned like a Cupid's bow? Place the first finger in the center of the upper lip, thumb at one end, second finger at the other. Hold first finger stationary, bring thumb and second finger toward it, repeat. Do frown lines bother you? Anoint with cream, place the first fingers of each hand across the lines, rub one to right, one to left, keeping the eyebrows lifted so the flesh is smooth.

Silver With Fruit Compote

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Is it proper to have a bell on the dinner table?

2. What are the correct silver utensils to place with fruit compote or stewed fruit of any other kind? Our family is especially fond of this dessert, and since I am eager to have our service as correct as I can with what I have, I would like to have you answer this question. And the family is willing, Mrs. Beeckman, to take your word on this.

3. Is is correct to use candles on the table for luncheon?

4. May cream soup cups be used at informal dinners? What is the correct silver utensil to use with cream soup cups?

5. Should my young daughter, aged 17, have the MISS before her name on her cards?

MOTHER.

1. Yes, if you do not have the usual push button under the table, it is quite correct to use the bell on the table, for family or any other informal meal.

2. The correct, because most convenient, silverpieces to place with fruit compote is the dessert spoon on the right, and the fork of the same general size, the luncheon fork, on the left. This one example of the double silver service now so popular here, as it has always been in other countries. With the spoon we eat the delicious juice that accompanies the fruits. And if the fruits are cooked with their pits left in, it is easy to use the spoon and the fork to separate the pits from the fruits.

3. It is best not to use candles on the luncheon table, and we don't use them unless the dining room is so dark that it requires them. Candles are customarily not used before the time to use them on the tea-table.

4. Yes, cream soup cups are very often, and correctly, used at informal dinners. As a matter of fact their use is greatly increasing, and many people now use them on all occasions, for luncheon and dinner, except for the strictly formal dinner.

With the soup cup, we use either the cream soup spoon (now very popular), or the tea spoon.

5. Yes.

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

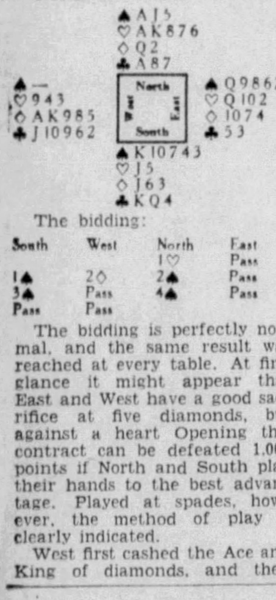
Methods of Play

Obtaining an accurate and immediate count upon the suit distribution in the hands of the adversaries is, of course, a tremendous advantage to the Declarer in the game of Contract Bridge. Some hands do not lend themselves readily to such accurate count until too late to be of benefit to the Declarer. There are others, however, in which the location of the essential cards is made crystal clear so early in the play of the hand that the correct method of play would appear to be absolutely marked, and yet when the scores are studied in important Duplicate games, outstanding players fail to find a correct continuation.

One such hand occurred in the recent national congress of the American Whist League in Cleveland. On South's fourth turn to play, West having captured the first 2 tricks and South the third, the Declarer had all the information necessary to make his contract, provided only he understood the technique of end-plays.

North—Dealer.

North and South vulnerable.

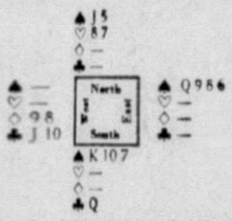


The bidding:

South	West	North	East
		1♡	Pass
1♠	2◇	2♠	Pass
3♠	Pass	4♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

The bidding is perfectly normal, and the same result was reached at every table. At first glance it might appear that East and West have a good sacrifice at five diamonds, but against a heart Opening this contract can be defeated 1,000 points if North and South play their hands to the best advantage. Played at spades, however, the method of play is clearly indicated.

West first cashed the Ace and King of diamonds, and then shifted to a club, South winning with the King. A small spade was led, and when West failed to follow, the Ace in Dummy won the trick. Two rounds of hearts were won with the Ace and King, and the Declarer won the third round with a trump, then cashed the established diamond Knave. A small club was then led to the Ace in Dummy, and the hands around the table now were:



The 8 of hearts was led from Dummy, and East had to trump, and regardless of the card which he selected for trumping, South had to win 3 of the 4 remaining tricks. In actual play, East trumped with the 9, South overtrumped with the 10, and then led the club Queen, discarding Dummy's last heart, Dummy's third club having been discarded on the diamond Knave. East was forced to trump and then lead to the trump tenace in the Declaring and Dummy hands.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Mrs. Culbertson will be glad to answer any specific question on bidding or play sent in by readers. Address her in care of this newspaper, inclosing a three-cent stamped self-addressed envelope.

TODAY'S QUESTION:

Does a hand holding:

♠ A J 9 6 5 ♡ Q J ◇ A 7 5 3 ♣ 8 4

constitute a sound Opening bid?

Answer—The hand is on the exact border-line. Combining the Spade Knave with the Heart Queen, 2½ honor-tricks can be counted, and it would be a sound bid of one.

Child Training

By CONSTANCE CAMERON

Rich Experiences

We all learn something during trying times. Even children learn things. To some the experience is a rich one, the means of proving that a stout heart and an ingenious, courageous brain are, after all, the important things in life. But unhappily many children learn fear, because the parents show a lack of faith and a spineless lack of stamina.

Two examples come to mind, the first a lovely one indeed. The little family of three was practically destitute except for a rattling old car. "Well, we can be gypsies," stoutly declared the brave, gay young mother. "Let's go."

And they went. Dad sold a line of novelties, while mother and son did lessons under trees beside the second-hand trailer. They traveled through a part of the country rich in historic landmarks. The mother switched son's history to the places they were seeing, to study and actual sight of the buildings and battlefields where history was made.

Good fellowship, good sportsmanship, a laugh at so-called "hard times." Will that boy ever be afraid of poverty? Will anything ever be able to deprive him of the rich experiences of this past year? Of course not.

Yet, in the other example, I see a little lad with a tense, strained expression. I hear him asking me about business, about sales, about commissions and orders. All he heard at home was failure—meaning in this case merely a curtailing of income; for had the very worst happened to the father's business, the lad never would have known hunger, or the feel of cast-off garments, or the necessity of work until he'd been through college.

Richness and poverty are relative. If you've taught your child that love and faith and a brave heart are more real than currency, you've given him something he can never lose, something of infinite value to him. If you taught him, on the contrary, that loss of money brings unhappiness, worry and fright, that is a pity, and it is time you began to correct such a mistaken sense of values.

Household Hints

If you have difficulty with salt and pepper shakers that are filled from the bottom losing their corks, seal the cork in with a piece of adhesive tape. The tape can be removed and renewed when the shakers are washed, as a very small piece will do the trick.

A wire dish drainer is a source of great pleasure to the business woman who is in a hurry to get away in the morning. Her breakfast dishes are washed, placed in the drainer, and boiling water poured over them. They are left until she returns, when all that needs to be done is to put them away.

A long time can go between the cleanings of table silver if it is properly rinsed after each washing. Put it into a colander as you take it from the hot suds. Pour boiling water over it and dry while hot with a clean towel. It can be dried quite hot with no danger to the fingers, as all the water will be drained off.

Things I Never Knew Till Now

(And which is just as well!)

That liquid gas leaves no permanent injury.

That a speed of 60 miles an hour gives an automobile three times as much wear and tear as a speed of 45 miles an hour.

That no two people have ever been known to agree what color hair Mary, Queen of Scots, had. The verdicts ranged from platinum to dark brown, with George Sand insisting it was fiery red.

(That's nothing! I know a little chorine in the Scandals who gives all her friends the same trouble.)

That Gen. Lafayette ordered his servants to leave the room for five minutes daily while he kissed and conversed with a locket picture of his dead mother...He always carried it on his person.

That certain orchids have been known to sell as high as $5,000.

(I know a fellow who once gave a lady an orchid and it cost him his wife.)

That Stonewall Jackson, after six months of four-hour-a-day practice, gave up his flute lessons when he found that he still couldn't blow worth a darn.

(Ocean, stay away from my door!)

That a child who was born in Jersey with two sets of upper and two sets of lower teeth six years ago, now has to resort to a complete set of false teeth.

That in Java a bride does not attend her own wedding ceremony.

(Very frequently she also wishes the groom hadn't).

That Prof. Einstein gave the simplest explanation of his theory of relativity as follows: "When you sit with a nice girl your car is between 6 and 7 on a minute, but when you sit on a hot stove for a minute, you think it's two hours. That's relativity!"

That according to official figures, the safest hour to drive has been so badly nagged the Tuesday morning and the most dangerous hour is between 5 and 6 on Sunday afternoon.

(There's no question about the most dangerous hour. It's the time when a Sunday driver tion and Chinese how he was, turns the car into the nearest lamp-post).

That while we all know about Nero fiddling as Rome burned, we do not generally know that Henry Clay refused to leave the Exchange Coffee House in Boston, although it was in flames, until he had finished an exciting game of whist.

That Talleyrand once refused to see his doctor, Boudois, telling his servant to relay his apology, "Because I am too ill."

That Louis Pasteur, who developed the process of pasteurizing milk, is said to have saved more lives than any other single individual of the race.

That you can get rid of that funny sensation in your eardrums while subwaying under the water by holding your head up and swallowing.

That Sir Walter Raleigh issued verbal invitations to his executives, apologizing thusly: "I'm sorry, but I do not know what you will do for a place—for my part I am sure of one."

That Queen Charlotte of England was the homeliest woman in the kingdom until she fell from her carriage into a turnip field one day and broke her nose...This, she claimed, improved her beauty to a great degree.

(Turnip field owners, please write!)

That "We Won't go Home Until Morning" was first sung 800 years ago by the Crusaders near the gates of Jerusalem, but, naturally, different words were used. The tune was later incorporated in a Beethoven symphony.

That the equivalent for the American "How are you?" is in Egyptian, "How do you perspire?" and in Chinese, "How is your stomach? Have you eaten your rice?"

(I asked a half-breed Egyption and Chinese how he was, and he answered "I perspire too freely and I don't like rice!")

That in Borneo a native can change his personal name four times but it is considered bad luck to change it a fifth time.

That Countess Jeanne Du Barry spent $2,500,000 on clothes during her five years with Louis.

That the cars on the new Eighth Ave. subway are said to have a capacity for 280 passengers, but will seat only 80.

Madge Evans 'Sparkles' Back to Big Role With Haines

By HARRISON CARROLL

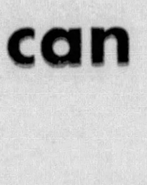
HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 30.

Admirers of the sparkling Madge Evans will warm to the practical certainty that she is to resume her interrupted career at M-G-M in a few days.

Miss Evans, who has been off the Culver City lot since her contract ran out four months ago, is virtually set for a big role in William Haines' new picture, "Let's Go," it is rumored from good sources.



Madge Evans

She has just completed a role with Al Jolson in "The New Yorker" at United Artists.

The picture which draws Madge back to the lot on which her gay personality sparkled in many fine pictures has William Haines all mixed up in speed boats. It looks like a reunion of M-G-M favorites, with Cliff Edwards also in the cast.

Harry Pollard, one of Hollywood's veteran regisseurs, will direct "Let's Go."

It's not new, but Eddie Cantor says it is the first time it has been sprung spontaneously!

Eddie was over at Fanchon and Marco helping them tabloid "Whoopee." An actor wanted $100 to play the Indian. When Eddie heard about it he said, "offer him $50 and make it a half-breed."

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

DURING THE one afternoon, I heard the same story exactly three times, Lou Holtz told it to me first. Then Peter Arno. And then a waiter who had heard somebody else unfold it at his table. From which I take it that the story is true. And if it could have happened anywhere but in such a city as this, I'm merely wrong again.

On a recent night, a writer and a press agent wandered over to one of the innumerable speakeasies in the lower Fifties. The writer said that he had been in this particular spot a number of times and that the food, the liquor and the crowd were all excellent. The publicity man trotted along immediately. As a matter of fact, he needed no mention of the crowd or the food. The drink was the only important angle.

They entered the place and were escorted to a corner table. The press agent ordered double drinks; the writer single ones—which is the reverse of the usual procedure. After an hour of this, the publicity man grew mellow. Very mellow.

"I gotta strange feeling," he announced. "I gotta feeling that I've been in this place before. Ever get a feeling like that? You could swear you've been in a place, even though you're fairly certain that you're wrong. Does that make sense?"

"Certainly not," replied the writer. "In the first place, you've never been here before. And in the second place, how can you swear you've been in a place when you, yourself, know you haven't? What sense does that make?"

The press agent shrugged his shoulders.

"I dunno," he returned. "I just have a hunch that I've been here before. But it's all getting too involved. Oh, waiter. Bring me another double brandy."

Twenty minutes more, and the latter gentleman again grew insistent. He arose from his chair and looked closely at the walls. He gazed into the fireplace with narrowed eyes. He pushed aside the heavy shade and looked out into the street. And all the while he kept muttering to himself.

Finally he returned to the table.

"Frank," he asserted, "I don't care what anybody saysh. I've been in this place before. I got it on my mind and I'm going to prove it. Hey, captain. Come over here a minute."

The captain walked over. The publicity man regarded him with a serious expression.

"Captain," he said, "I got somethin' on my mind and you gotta help me out. Have I ever been in thish place before?"

The other man shook his head.

"No, sir," was the reply. "I've been here since we opened four years ago. My memory for faces is considered excellent. And I'm fairly certain that I've never seen you before."

The press agent pounded the table.

"You mus' be wrong. I'm telling you that I've been in here. I know this place and nobody's gonna tell me different."

His writing friend leaned over.

"Billy," he said, "you're making a chump of yourself. I'm telling you that you haven't been here. The captain tells you so. The waiters don't know you. So what's all the shooting for?

"There are a hundred places exactly like this around here. You're probably thinking of one of them. And even if you were right, what difference does it make? You're making a mountain out of a Dunhill."

The insistent one finished his brandy.

"Can't help it," he muttered doggedly. "I got the queerest feeling 'bout it. Just can't help—"

He looked up suddenly.

"Say, captain," he cried. "Whas the exact address of this place?"

The captain told him. Whereupon the publicity man leaned back and smiled. He turned to the writer.

"Want a plot for a story?" he asked quietly. "Now I know why I remembered this place. I was born in this house and I lived in this very room for the first 12 years of my life."

And a further investigation proved that he was absolutely correct . . .

ONE OF the best dramatic agents in town is—at one and the same time—a gentleman who loves his golf and his sleep. When he works he drives his office and himself in a perfect fury. When he is resting, however, his office is as quiet as a graveyard.

With such a policy, it is necessary for him to be a bit of a falsifier. When he returns to his office after a week's absence, he looks at the various actors who are sitting around and hands them different stories. None of these stories, of course, has any truth in it.

He walked into his office the other afternoon after a vacation of four days. The place was crowded. He looked at the actors and handed each one of them a speedy line. Finally he reached the last one.

"And you," he cried briskly, "you're practically all set. I've talked to several important people about you and there's no chance that you'll miss. Get set for your opening and call me next Monday."

A minute later the agent discovered that he was talking to an insurance man who had come to solicit some business!

Chess Is New Film Vogue

Unless someone invents a new parlor game, Hollywood is in danger of becoming "chess-minded."

The backgammon boards and ping-pong tables are losing their hold, and screen stars are beginning to sit with head in hand and solemnly ponder the intricacies of moving kings and bishops and pawns across the checked squares.

BETHEL HEIGHTS BLAST PROBED

An explosion which shook Bethel Heights, Bethel Township, early this morning is being investigated by Fire Marshal Thomas L. Pfarr and Chief A. W. Devlin, of the Bethel Township volunteer fire department.

The blast was followed by fire which destroyed the two-story frame dwelling of Alex Kostuk, causing damage estimated at $5,000. The investigators are trying to determine whether the explosion was caused by dynamite or gas. Two unsolved explosions occurred in the same street in the past five months.

Kostuck, 55, a coal miner, fled with his wife, Julia, and four children, Michael, 19; Andrew, 16; Stephen, 12, and Anna, 11, who were jarred from their beds by the blast.

the fresher it is—the better it is!

GASOLINE won't "keep." The older it gets — the weaker it gets. And as staleness increases — power decreases.

The "light ends" of gas—important "easy starting" elements—evaporate and a chemical change takes place—so that the longer gas is stored, the less power it gives. Too, stale gas is stickier—more apt to foul valves and carbureter. More apt to knock and thump.

The whole petroleum industry has long known these facts—has searched for a way to halt the deterioration of gasoline.

During the past several years, Gulf has worked on the problem — has finally developed a refining and distributing system that assures the motorist of getting FRESH, full-powered gasoline.

First, by giving you the best gasoline that can be made — by so refining this gas as to take out certain complex elements that cause rapid deterioration. Hence, Gulf gas stays FRESH longer.

Second, by getting this FRESH-MADE, FULL-POWERED gas to you in a hurry. The whole vast Gulf organization has been geared up to handle gas almost as a dairy handles milk. Gulf has carefully located its huge refineries in many sections of the country, so that a stream of FRESH gas can be easily kept flowing into every one of the 45,000 Gulf filling stations. Gulf tank trucks speed FRESH gas to Gulf pumps every day in the year.

You pay for power. Get it—all of it. Get FRESH-MADE gas—delivered FRESH. Get Gulf. Use it exclusively. Your motor will be cleaner, quieter, faster.

get THAT GOOD GULF GASOLINE—it's fresh

LIFT LIMIT OF 23 AFTER TOMORROW

AFTER TOMORROW, NO major league ball club will have any cause to complain of being short-handed in the playing department. They'll all be privileged to load up again, either to bolster themselves in fights for positions or to look over a swarm of youngsters with a view to finding promising candidates for jobs in next year's lineups. For at midnight tomorrow the 23-player limit, in force since June 15, will be lifted, and starting Thursday baseball law will permit each club in the big leagues to carry a maximum of 40 pastimers.

W. E. Benswanger

That will make Hal Smith, the new pitcher purchased from Kansas City, available for Pirate slab duty. President W. E. Benswanger also will exercise his various options and probably add a few more purchases, though with the Rovers fighting for second place it is probable that few recruits will get an early chance to show their stuff, except in the crippled pitching department. In fact, none of the clubs may take advantage of the full 40 limit. There are too many position fights in progress to render much experimenting advisable, and it's a year in which the overhead is being kept as low as possible.

NOT ONLY DOES it appear that there will be no opening in the major leagues for Rogers Hornsby, either as manager or batting coach, but even in the big minors it looks as though the majority of the doors will be closed to him. Phil Ball has just spiked one rumor in that direction.

It was rumored that Hornsby had found a financial backer and would purchase and manage the Milwaukee club in the American Association in 1933. "I own the Milwaukee club," said Ball in denying the story. "It is not for sale and Hornsby will not be engaged as manager."

BY A STRANGE twist of fortune, the ball park that had been the scene of Hack Wilson's greatest triumphs turned out to be his Waterloo. It was at Wrigley Field in Chicago that Wilson made his sensational slugging records as a Cub, and it was there he fell down sadly when he went back as a Dodger.

Wilson's failure to hit on his former home field this year did much to ruin Brooklyn's pennant chance. His poor showing in the series last week was only a continuance of what he had been doing there all season. In 34 times at bat in Chicago this year, Hack made only five hits for an average of .147. And three of those hits were made in the final game. Prior to that he made only two hits in 30 times up at Wrigley Field for an average of .067.

RECALLING THE RECENT game in which Fred Marberry was hit safely by the first Indian at bat and then did not allow a safety during the remainder of the game, Eddie Morgan, Cleveland player, brings up the Tom Bridges case again to show that a pitcher can have even tougher luck. "Personally, if I had been in Walter Johnson's place," said Morgan, "I'd have let Burke, the pitcher, go up there and strike out nice and easily for the final out, rather than send up a pinch-hitter to spoil a no-hit game for Bridges. If it had been a close game it would have been different. But with the score 13 to 0 and two out in the ninth—not a chance. Probably Bridges will never have another chance like that to get his name in the book. I know how the fans feel about it. They booed Walter Johnson when he came to Cleveland."

ONE REASON WHY Guy Bush and other Cub hurlers are pitching better for Charley Grimm than they did for Rogers Hornsby, National League players believe, is to be found in Grimm's panning of the bean ball. They are giving more attention to scientific pitching.

Guy Bush

"The bean ball is out," was one of Grimm's first orders. "It isn't worth much. It gets the pitcher in a hole. It doesn't help a pitcher against a good hitter, and the pitcher could probably get a weak hitter out anyway." That change in system, too, is one of the items that will make a pennant victory for Grimm popular all around the circuit whereas every other club was pulling hard for Hornsby to fail.

JOHNSTOWN BASEBALL WRITERS report a freak play for the book as having cropped out during a recent game between Johnstown and Huntington in the Middle Atlantic League. A catcher was credited with an assist on a foul fly.

Both Catcher Arnolds and Third Baseman Mayo, of Huntington, started after a high foul fly lifted between home and third by Tutaj, of Johnstown. When Arnolds attempted to make the catch, the ball bounded off the edge of his glove and was caught by Mayo before it could strike the ground. Under the rules, Arnolds got an assist and Mayo a putout on the play.

TRYING A COMEBACK in the fight game is all the rage. Everybody's doing it. Benny Leonard's success brought a lot of other old-timers out of retirement, including Harry Wills, Johnny Dundee, Soldier Bartfield and little Jack Sharkey, of bantamweight memory, with more likely to follow. Dundee is the only one of the group who wasn't led to try a comeback because he needed money urgently. It is explained by Johnny's friends that he is bankrupt only in the excitement and the fame that he sees the youngsters of the day enjoying. Dundee was unsuccessful in his start last week against Al Dunbar, but he means to keep trying. He says that he's lost without something to do, and that fighting is the only thing he ever could do or wanted to do.

WITH GENE SARAZEN missing from the starting field, and losing a chance for a grand slam for 1932 as professional golf king, the P. G. A. title tournament starting today in St. Paul becomes a wide open affair. It may go to a dark horse again, as it did to Tommy Creavy last year.

Out on the Coast, the experts are confident that Olin Dutra will prove one of the outsiders having a good chance to take the crown. The California pro shot a practice round at home recently in 66, and they say it came close to being a 63, as three putts rolled in and out of the cup. The weather is his main fear. He can't go in the heat.

BEYOND QUESTION, THE outstanding rowing coach of the year is Ky Ebright, of the University of California. And yet he never pulled an oar himself, it is related by Harry Salsinger, who has followed his career from his college days.

Ky Ebright

Ebright learned his rowing under Hiram Connibear, one-time coach at the University of Washington, and the man who developed the rowing system now generally used throughout the country. But he was only a coxswain. In the same boat sat Ed Leader, coach at Yale for several years.

EBRIGHT'S RIGHT TO be ranked as the leading coach of the year cannot be disputed. His California varsity crew first won the championship of the Pacific Coast; next the intercollegiate title at Poughkeepsie; then the national championship at Worcester, and finally the Olympic championship at Long Beach. And not a man in the 1932 California shell that went from a local championship to a world conquest had ever rowed before he entered the Berkeley school. Ebright developed the best crew in the world today out of totally raw material. Coach Ky made certain alterations in the Connibear stroke which he studied while serving as coxswain under that famous coach. He shortened the stroke to take in less water, putting nearly all the power in the catch.

KELLER GOLF COURSE, ST. PAUL, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—A strong, hot wind ripped over the Keller course today as more than 100 pros opened the 36-hole qualifying battle for the professional golfers' championship.

Jock Hutchinson, veteran Chicago Scot, who won the title in 1920, failed to show up at tee time, but most of the other withdrawals were replaced by alternates.

Tom Creavy, of Albany, N. Y., the defending champion, did not have to fight for a qualifying berth, but he was out after the Alex Smith memorial medal and joined the skirmish.

PICKARD SETS PACE

Henry Pickard, of Charleston, S. C., carded 35, one under par, to lead early contestants in the first nine holes of qualifying play.

Charley Hall, of Birmingham, Ala., association president, and Jock Hendry, of St. Paul, shot 39's for the first nine. George Smith, of Lake Forest, Ill., shot a 38.

Clarence Hackney, of Northfield, N. J., swapped one bad hole with a birdie and joined the small crowd of par shooters at the bend with a 36.

Neil McIntyre, of Indianapolis, took an 8 on the third hole, but finished with three birdies and three pars for a par 36.

Reggie Myles, of Ashland, O., also had par. The other early arrivals at the turn were well above par.

Other nine-hole scores:

Al Watrous, Birmingham, Mich., 36.
Joe Martucci, Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., 38.
Ed Dudley, Concordville, Pa., 36.
Bob Cruickshank, Port Richmond, N. Y., 39.

BERTH TRANSFERS BANNED

Charles Hall, of Birmingham, Ala., president of the Professional Golfers' Association of America, today ruled that any golfer who sold or bought a qualifying berth in the association's annual tournament, should be expelled from membership for life.

President Hall made his ruling after an investigation of rumors that an attempt had been made to buy one of the qualifying positions in the Michigan district. He questioned the reported principals, but said the rumors had no foundation. No names were mentioned.

For several years many qualifiers have been heard to put their qualifying berth on the auction block to better advertised players, who failed to make the grade, but no definite investigation followed. The Michigan rumors, however, grew until they could no longer be overlooked, he said.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON: THE DESERTED VILLAGE—Deep in the heart of England, practically midway between the island's east and west coasts, is the little village of New Hampstead. This village, for all its attractive brick houses built along neatly paved streets, is like a bivouac of the dead. Not a human being ever has lived in any of its 110 dwellings since they were completed some years ago, and no one has inhabited the town except a watchman and the engineers, who are still trying to solve the problem that makes the place uninhabitable. This problem is one of sewage disposal. Modern sewers were laid through all the streets, and all the houses were connected with ample-sized pipes, but it was found that the sanitary laws of adjacent towns prevented them from disposing of sewage according to plans. An ultra-modern chemical sewage plant may save the village eventually, but as yet it has not been constructed.

JACK SCARRY WITH SEALS

The weekly radio program of the Trained Seals of the sports department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph over WCAE tomorrow evening will have a decided Homestead tinge.

Jack Scarry, coach of the famous Homestead Library swimmers, just back from a motor trip to the Olympic games, will give his impressions of the swimming end of the program. He is the mentor of Miss Lenore Kight, of Homestead, who gave Helene Madison a great fight for the 400-meter title, and also of Anna Mae Gorman, who was an alternate on the team.

Misses Kight and Gorman also will speak.

Joseph Pentek, former local swimmer, now a church and radio singer, will sing two numbers. He formerly swam for Homestead and was a candidate for the Olympic team in 1924. He has appeared on a previous program of the Seals.

Harry Keck, sports editor, and Herb McGee, announcer, back from vacations, will handle the program. Julius Levin and others will be among the participants.

Italian Olympic Boxers Sweep Bouts Here

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

If you read the book of Eddie Eagan, who started out as a student at Denver University and then went to Yale and Harvard and then to Oxford as a Rhodes scholar, and toured the world fighting as an amateur to win the world amateur heavyweight championship and spurned the entreaties of Tex Rickard and others to become a profesional, you would have enjoyed the international amateur boxing bouts at Greenlee Field last night. Eddie called his book "Fighting for Fun," and that's what those simonpures were doing with a vengeance last night.

A team of local stars was pitted against the Italian Olympic squad, with the Amerita Club, local Italian organization, sponsoring the show, and the visitors, en route to their homes, swept the eight bouts, few of them close, but all of them hard fought. It was a treat to sit in on the efforts of the amateurs after a steady diet of professional battles, to sniff the smoke of action as Eddie Eagan, friend of Gene Tunney and the Prince of Wales, sniffed it. It was for all the world like a page out of his romantic book.

It was quite a show that John T. Taylor and W. S. Haddock, veteran local amateur athletic chiefs, put on, and it was a pity the crowd wasn't larger. Ten bouts in all were offered, with the last eight the international clashes. Here is a running story of the evening's activities, tapped out on a portable typewriter as the battles were waged.

It is 8:30 o'clock. The members of both squads troop into the ring and line up facing the stands, where the red-coated Amerita Club band plays Marcie Reali, the Italian national anthem. A pause. The formation of boxers and officials backs up a few steps in the ring and stands at stiff attention as the band swings into the strains of the American national anthem, The Star Spangled Banner. Then the boxers depart to await their separate calls to the ring.

White-haired Bill Haddock, president of the Allegheny Mountain Association of the A. A. U., takes the center of the ring, serving as the announcer. The show gets under way with no undue delay. Joe Orsini, Pitt coach, and himself a former local amateur and professional boxer, is the referee for the first bout, between J. Burke, of the Linwood Club, and Young Molliner, of the Braddock Library, flyweights. This and one other bout between local talent is to precede the eight international contests. It is a swinging exhibition, with Molliner doing the forcing, but Burke gets the decision and the medal.

Slugging middleweights, J. Dalcherone, of Springdale, and Al Lamo, of the Braddock Library, are trotted out for the second bout. They start at a fast clip and shortly Lamo is down from a series of short right uppercuts delivered at close quarters. He takes a count of nine. He gets up and tries to make a fight of it, but the curly-haired Dalcherone sends him down again, the bell saving him at the count of four. Frank Klaus, former middleweight champion of the world, in Lamo's corner, readies him up for the second round, but it does no good. Dalcherone simply is too tough and hits too hard. He continues the bombardment and toward the end of the second round batters Lamo down again. This time Lamo tries to get away with a claim of foul, although only head punches have been used to floor him. The referee ignores the plea and counts. At eight, Lamo is up and carries on until the bell. The third round sees the slaughter

WOMEN IN BIG GOLF TOURNEY

Eighteen holes were scheduled for today and tomorrow, with the final 36 holes to be played Thursday.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Not a blow was struck, yet Tiger Walker, Zanesville Negro battler, emerged as the winner of a 60-second ring encounter with Ray Newton, of Mansfield, O., here last night. Newton started the first round leading and then suddenly dropped to the floor, crying that his arm was hurt. Physicians found he had loosened a nerve in his neck.

YOUNG INFIELD STARS SHOW PROMISE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Baseball men who have been studying the sport for many years predict big things in a team-play sense for Floyd Vaughan and Tony Piet, the two big recruits who have guarded the second-base zone for the Pirates through a grueling season.

Carleton Molesworth, Pirate scout and one of the judges of youngsters in the national pastime, is one who believes that Arky and Tony will reel off some great features next year.

It was Molesworth who plucked Piet out of the Texas League when other sleuths were overlooking the big speedboy. The fact that Piet has played in all of the Pirates' games speaks volumes for the youngster. There were occasions when he might have been rested for injuries, but he stayed on the job.

GOOD FIELDER

Molesworth feels it is only a question of time before Piet is pronounced the best second baseman in the National League, if not in the majors. Indeed, it can be said truthfully that Piet right now makes plays that are impossible in rivals on account of his size and speed. These assets enable him to get in front of balls that elude smaller and slower boys.

Piet's batting is the only element of his play that stands as doubtful, although Tony has been up around .290 and was over the .300 mark for a spell. Dopeball pitchers seem to have his number, but Tony has the persistence and in the end he may work out his own destiny as a batter.

POSSESSES POWER

Piet has shown tremendous power at times; he has clouted the rocket high and dry over the left-field wall, and ofttimes when brilliant pitchers performed he would punish the ball, only to fail when some freak artist heckled him.

On account of his great love for the game, Tony may develop a stance and a style which will correct his batting flaws. It should be remembered that this is his first full season in the majors and in view of the circumstances he is having a great season.

Field Club Cards Swim Exhibitions

Misses Lenore Kight and Anna Mae Gorman, of the Homestead Library, members of the United States Olympic squad, will headline a swimming program for members of the Pittsburgh Field Club and invited guests at the Field Club Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Johnny Schmeiler, of Carrick, University of Michigan intercollegiate champion, and his teammate, J. Drysdale, along with Derland Johnston, of the P. A. A., national junior diving champion, and others, also will be on the program.

Hunters to Protest Open Bear Season

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Aug. 30.—Centre County Sportsmen's Association will protest to the Senate Game Commission against the open season for bear hunting, set for November 10 to 20.

The Association claims that the deer in the Centre County sections has been scarce this summer and if the bear season is to be an open one, the hunters will drive the few deers left from the county before the deer hunt opens on December 1 to 15.

Nick Altrock Baseball's Humorist Says:

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Max Carey isn't even running for Miracle Man this year, but he'd make a swell dark horse for the job. What Max has done for those Brooklyns is something to write home about, even at increased postage.

Nick Altrock

The way the Dodgers started the season must have been funnier than a minstrel show to Wilbert Robinson. But in the after-part of the minstrel show, Carey stepped up with a magic wand, waved it over a bunch of eggs in a silk hat and presto! Out came a pennant contending team, 180 yards of the Star Spangled Banner and a couple of rabbits for good luck.

"I can't explain this metamorphosis any more than I can pronounce it. But it's certainly the best trick I've seen this year.

NATS' BELATED SPURT MAY SAVE JOHNSON'S JOB

YANKS DEFEAT SOX TWICE; A'S SPLIT

Associated Press.

Having gotten wind, perhaps, of the rumor that their manager is in active danger of losing his job at the close of the current race, the Washington Senators have started a belated drive that promises to do Walter Johnson a lot of good.

In winning 11 of their last 14 games, the Senators at least have gained a rehearing for the "Big Train," and if they sustain that clip up to the last day it is doubtful Owner Clark Griffith would give further thought to a change of pilots.

Up to the time they began their onslaught on the Western clubs, the Senators had made a disappointing race of it. Picked to finish at or near the top, they barely were clinging to the first division a fortnight ago. Those on the inside confidently predicted Bucky Harris would be back next season to manage the club he led to two flags and one world championship. Right now, however, it looks like Harris will remain at Detroit.

NATS CREEP UP

By defeating the St. Louis Browns yesterday, 7 to 6, in 13 innings, while Philadelphia was dividing a doubleheader with Detroit, the Senators climbed within five and a half games of second place. If they catch the A's and land the runner-up berth, Johnson will need to make no apologies when contract time rolls around.

Singles by West and Kerr and Maple's long fly gave the Senators the winning run in yesterday's long contest, their second 13-inning victory within a week. Walt Stewart went the route for the Browns, while three moundsmen worked for the winners with Bill McAfee eventually receiving credit for the triumph.

The Yankees stepped a little further ahead of the field by trimming Chicago twice, 10 to 3 and 4 to 3. Lefty Gomez breezed to his twenty-second victory in the first game, but Charley Ruffing had a close scrape before chalking up No. 6 in the nightcap. Red Kress' homer with one on in the eighth came within a run of tying the count.

A'S, TIGERS SPLIT

The Athletics staged a six-run rally in the eighth round to beat Detroit in the first, 8 to 3, but the Tigers came back to win the second game, 10 to 7, with a three-run outburst in the ninth. Ray Hayworth, Detroit catcher, made his first error of the season in the second game.

Although they made only five hits off Rhodes and McNaughton, the Cleveland Indians cashed in on 12 passes to defeat the Boston Red Sox, 6 to 3. Earl Averill drew five free trips.

National League turnstiles were idle for the day. Only one game was scheduled, between Boston and Pittsburgh, and that was erased by wet grounds.

Babe to Be Own Business Manager

DALLAS, Tex., Aug. 29.—(AP.)—Mildred (Babe) Didrikson, the world's most versatile woman athlete, was granted a court order today giving her the legal right to transact her own business affairs, although she is only 19 years old.

The Olympic champion said several opportunities had been offered her, through which she could benefit financially, and added she desired to have the disabilities of minority removed in order that she could sign contracts, or handle other legal matters, if she choose.

Carr Rules Pinckert To Boston Pro Team

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Ernie Pinckert is a member of the Boston Braves National pro grid team, and not the New York Giants, ruled Joe Carr, president of the National Professional League, at a meeting yesterday.

The hearing was brought about by Tom Mara, owner of the New York Giants, when the latter claimed that the former Southern California star had signed a contract to play for the Giants. President Carr upheld Boston's claim that Pinckert previously had agreed to play with the Braves.

Etna, Valley Tigers Play at Kennywood

A mushball game between the Etna Sycamores and the Valley Tigers, two of the leading clubs in the district, is part of the Labor Day celebration sport program at Kennywood Park on Monday.

Track and field events, along with the swimming competition, also are on the holiday schedule.

JONES BEATS LEONARD

DAVENPORT, Ia., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Gorilla Jones, Akron, O., defeated Kid Leonard, East Moline youngster, in a hard-fought 10-round bout here last night.

Leonard's jolting punches caused Jones to back away during the early rounds, but he came back near the finish to have Leonard on the verge of a knockout. Leonard suffered three broken ribs in the sixth round.

TROJANS CARD ST. MARY'S

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 30.—(INS.)—The University of Southern California today agreed to play St. Mary's, of Oakland, Cal., a football game in 1933, following inability to agree on a date this fall. St. Mary's was the only eleven to defeat the national champion Trojans in 1931.

Italy Cleans Up in Ring Battles Here

CINO ROSSI, ITALY (LEFT), DEFEATS WOODROW WHITE . . . THEY ARE LIGHT-HEAVIES

Comes then the first of the international contests, a flyweight affair between Edelveis Rodriquez, of Italy, and Frank Wingo, of the Willow Club. They have a tame first round, with Edelveis doing a lot of footwork and Wingo chasing him, but doing little leading. Edelveis scores best at close quarters. They warm up to their work better in the second round, with the Italian gaining the edge. He also forces the going against the cautious Wingo in the final round and wins the decision, giving the Italians first blood.

Eddie Katkish, of the Willow Club, younger brother of Johnny and Joe Katkish, who won their spurs as amateurs and then as professionals, and Gasparo Alessandri, of Italy, featherweights, are next. The boyish-looking Katkish is fast and makes his opponent miss a lot, but the Italian is the better fighter and harder hitter and wins each round, although it is interesting all the way. Katkish's best punch is a straight right to the jaw that jolts his foe in the third round, but fails to stop his advance. The Italians now are 2 up and 6 to go. Alessandri's tights are too loose and he has trouble keeping them up in the first round, so his seconds slip a tighter pair over them in his corner at the end of the session, and that solves the problem.

Light-heavies are next. Woodrow White, of Sagamore, Pa., is pitted against Cino Rossi, runnerup in the Olympic Games. Rossi proves himself a good two-fisted puncher and has all the better of the first round. Early in the second, he is going along beautifully with left hooks until White butts open a cut high on his left cheek bone. The sight of blood infuriates the Italian and he launches a vigorous attack in an effort to score a knockout. White weathers the storm in this round, but he is hanging on to save himself from a knockout throughout the final minute of the last round. The Italian lead, 3 to 0.

Ernie Sesto, Carnegie Tech coach, climbs into the ring to relieve Orsino as referee for the next bout, a batamweight shindy between Johnny Savillia, of the Linwood Club, and Vito Melio, of Italy. Savillia goes to work with a lot of vim and handily wins the opening round, staving off Vito's rushes and scoring at long range, and it appears as if we finally are going to win one of the bouts. However, Vito manages to get inside and force the going in the second round evens up matters. Vito also carries the third round, in which he batters Savillia about with considerable vigor, and it is Victory No. 4 for the invaders. The worst they can get now is a draw in the eight battles.

Bianchini Mario, of Italy, and Joe Severino, of the Twenty-seventh Ward A. C., lightweights, come on for the fifth international bout. They have a lively punching first round, with the honors going to Mario. The Italian loses his balance during a rush and falls partly out of the ring near his own corner just before the bell, but is not hurt. The second round is a repetition for lively action, with Mario again in front. It is the best bout of the night so far. The Italian puts on steam in the final round and walks in with the decision as his blows force the local man to cover. Victory for Italy now is assured, with five bouts tucked away and only three more to go.

Harry Zeig, of the Monon Valley A. C., and Luciano Fabroni, of Italy, are principals in the sixth international bout, a welterweight affair. The light-haired Zeig rushes from his corner and pins the Italian in the latter's corner and begins an attack that he keeps up throughout the session, punching heavily to the body to win the honors. Zeig continues the barrage in the early stages of the second round, but his opponent is pacing himself better and is hitting the mark in the late stages, with Zeig tiring. Luciano wins the bout with some hard fighting in the final round, a hurricane period. The winning punch is a right to the jaw midway in the round that buckles Zeig's knees and has him in trouble. Luciano spends nimself trying for a knockout and is missing badly at the bell. It is the most exciting fight thus far, and for the first time booing from the fans greets a decision.

Frank Kladdick, of the Cyclone A. C., of McKees Rocks, is pitted against Aldo Longinotti, of Italy, in the next to last international battle. They are middleweights. Aldo handily wins the first round, in which he scores at will with heavy rights to the head. He has Kladdick woozy in the second as he piles up a big margin of points. Kladdick lands one right to the jaw in the third round that hurts Aldo, but he fails to follow it up and we are down to the last bout without a single local victory.

Luigi Rovato, of Italy, runner-up in the heavyweight class in the Olympic Games, and Leonard Hawkins, West Virginia University football player, are opposed to each other. Luigi, a southpaw, has a slight scoring edge in the first round, with Hawkins making a good fight of it. Hawkins tires badly in the second, but continues to make matters interesting for Luigi, who becomes irked at his failure to stop the clean-cut young collegian. Hawkins draws a trickle of blood from the bridge of the Italian's nose during the round. Luigi's heft and better condition also give him the final round, and it is a clean sweep, 8 to 0, for the Italians. There has not been a knockdown in any of the eight battles, but the action has been intense.

VOIGT SHOOTS SUB-PAR 70

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—George Voigt, of New York, tossed a little consternation into the ranks of the British Walker Cup team here yesterday when he shot a sub-par 70 for his afternoon practice round over the historic Country Club course where the Walker Cup matches will be played on Thursday and Friday.

Jess Sweetser, another veteran internationalist, also displayed wonderful form, rounding the layout in 71, par for 18 holes.

Francis Ouimet, captain of the American team, just out of bed after a seige of a heavy cold, went over the course for a few holes late in the afternoon. His physicians decided that he was not strong enough to play the entire round. Harrison R. (Jimmy) Johnston, of St. Paul, also played a couple of holes and quit, claiming that he did not want to aggravate an ankle injury received last week in a tennis match.

Gus Moreland, new Western champion; Billy Howell, Maurice McCarthy, George Dunlap, Jr., Charley Seaver and Jack Westland, other members of the U. S. team, participated in a practice round.

Capt. Tony Torrance and Leonard Crawley, last year's British champion, spent most of their time on the links practicing for the Scotch foursome play. Most of the other invaders, including John Burke, Irish champion, and John De Forest, present English titlist, worked out on the practice tee and green.

FORMER GRID STAR DIES

ALCOMA CADDIES WIN TOURNEY

By TOM BIRKS

Tom Blaskovitch, shooting a 73, one over par, led a fast-stepping team of Alcoma Country Club caddies home in a torrential downpour of rain to win the low score medal and bring his team to victory in the Western Pennsylvania caddie team championship at the Alcoma Club yesterday.

Caddies from 18 of the leading country clubs in the district started in quest of the title, but Alcoma, represented by Blaskovitch's 73, Louis Kumer with a 79, Joe Nemic a 79 and Tom Barbovitch with an 83, totaled 311 points, to squeeze out the Castle Shannon bag toters by 12 points. Nemacolin was third with 335, South Hills, with 339, was fourth, and the defending champions from Edgewood came in fifth with 340.

Blaskovitch shot wonderful golf to annex the individual prize. The home boy was out in 33, three shots under par. He ran into trouble on the par four fourteenth hole, however, when someone in the gallery stepped on his ball and half buried it in the soft fairway, and he took seven strokes before sinking the pellet.

Two tournaments will be disposed of today, at Shannopin, the women will hold their annual fancy costume tourney, and this is going to attract some classy ideas in the way of dress.

At South Park the first-half of the County Parks-City Public Links team championship will be played. Quite a number of changes were made from the original lineup of players selected for the City team.

Carl Kaufmann and Marty Boschert will be unable to play, and two other players will be named to fill the City team. The matches start at 2 p. m. and 10 players will tee off in the make-up of each team.

Al McBride, genial professional at South Park, reports quite a big entry list for the women's tournament scheduled for September 6-7-8. The entries still are coming in, and will not be closed until September 1. A qualifying medal will be given, and the ultimate winner in match play will receive a silver trophy.

YAROSZ BOUT RESCHEDULED TONIGHT

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Ted Yarosz vs. Jimmy Belmont, 10 rounds, and Joey Speigal vs. Tom Malco, Sammy Asto vs. Andy Kosel and Hans Roberts vs. General Burr, 6 rounds each, Hickey Park, Millvale.

Amateur bouts, St. Peter's A. A. arena North Side.

Walter Cobb vs. Jack Sigmore, 10 rounds, 10 rounds, Fenway Field, Boston.

Speedy Dado vs. Pedro Villanueva and Young Peter Jackson vs. Ah Wing Lee, 4 rounds each, Los Angeles.

Postponed from last night because of the rain in the afternoon and a desire to give a clear field to the bouts of the Italian Olympic team at Greenlee Field, the weekly show at the Hickey Park arena in Millvale will be staged tonight.

Ted Yarosz, of Monaca, and Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, meet for the third time in the scheduled 10-round main bout.

Joey Speigal, of Uniontown, will be a principal in the six-round semi-final. His opponent was to be Jacquette Elverilla, but the latter showed up to be weighed yesterday with a boil on his face and was ruled out, so Tom Malco, of Soho, has been lined up to box Speigal.

Sammy Asto, of Uniontown, and Andy Kosel, of Turtle Creek, will box the second bout, and Hans Roberts, of Brookline, and General Burr, of Aliquippa, are in the opening bout, scheduled for 8:45 o'clock.

BOXERS TO RE-WEIGH

The boxers will have to weigh again this afternoon. They scaled as follows yesterday:

Belmont, 152½, and Yarosz, 153.
Speigal, 145¾.
Asto, 118¾, and Kosel, 119¾.
Roberts, 143, and Burr, 147¾.

Charley Baxter, local lightweight, and Johnny Datto, Cleveland Filipino, will box the main bout at Hickey Park next Monday night. Datto arrived in town yesterday and began training at the Pittsburgh Lyceum.

GREENLEE SHOW OFF

There will be no professional show at Greenlee Field this week, plans for a card of bouts Thursday night having been called off. Matchmaker Jules Beck is working on a Jimmy Thomas-Pete Sanstol bout for his windup next week. The pair recently fought in Canada, with Sanstol winning by a close margin after Thomas had been forced to weaken himself to make weight.

Between Rounds

Amateur boxing bouts will vie with track and field events for both men and women in connection with the fair at Burrettstown, October 5-6.

Sammy Slaughter, Terre Haute middleweight knockout king, meets Allen Matthews, of St. Louis, in a 10-round bout at St. Louis, Friday night. Slaughter recently stopped both Paul Pirrone and Angel Citrelle. Lou Terry and Pat Murphy box in another 10-rounder.

An amateur boxing tournament is scheduled in the Twenty-seventh Ward A. C. arena on the North Side tomorrow and Thursday nights.

Boxers from the Willow Club and Pittsburgh Lyceum will make up a bill of seven amateur bouts at the Chartiers Council K. of C., in Crafton, tomorrow night.

Marty Fox boxes Mike Sankovitch in the eight-round semi-final to the Isadore Gastanaga-Hans Birkie bout at the Queensboro Stadium, Long Island, Thursday night.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Aug. 30, (AP.)—Manchester became a "big league" baseball city today with 10,000 fans and the national pastime's notables prepared to witness a struggle between the East and the West in the American Legion Junior "little world series."

When Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis tosses out the first ball the New Orleans Papooses, champions of the West, and Springfield, Mass., titlists in the East, will be started on their quest for the 1932 junior pennant. Both teams expressed confidence.

NORTH SIDERS PLAY DALYMEN TONIGHT

Only one game is scheduled in the City League this evening, the North Siders, under the leadership of Art Rooney, clashing with Hank Daly's Homewood club at the East End playgrounds.

The J. L. Thomas club received quite a jolt last evening when the Reliance nine, with Dutch Spencer pitching a great game, defeated the Bloomfielders, 3 to 1, in the crucial game of the City League.

The game cost the Thomas club its leadership in the loop, and it marked the first time since the second half started that the Bloomfielders have been dislodged from the top. Should Book's win the game with Thomas tomorrow night, the league race will be over.

Dormont will meet Immaculate Heart at Dormont this evening. Manager George Falconer has changed the home night from Wednesday to Tuesday for the balance of the season.

The Cup Jenkins nine, of Homestead, traveled to Mayview last evening and defeated the team of that section, 7 to 1. Jim Drotar, of the winners, connected for a home run.

Hayworth Miscues, Spoils Fine Record

Earl Grace, the Pirate first string catcher, is the only backstop in either major league today without an error chalked up against him this season.

Up until yesterday, the honor was divided between Grace and Ray Hayworth, of Detroit, but a misplay on the latter's part against the A's ended the marathon. This was Hayworth's first slip in 98 games. He has handled 432 chances.

BANK MUSHBALLERS PLAY

The Mellon Bank All-Stars, a mushball team made up of the best players in the Mellon Bank Interdepartment League, will oppose the leaders of the Butler County Baseball League in a game at Washington Park at 6:15 this evening. The Mellon team has won 14 out of 17 games this season, and recently scored 37 runs in winning a game at Somerset.

OLD TIMERS TO PLAY

The Homestead Aces, West Penn League champions, and the Old Timers will meet in a game at West Field, Homestead, this evening. Johnny Person, Briggs Brown and other former stars, will lineup against the Aces.

W. & J. SQUAD BEGINS GRID TRAINING

By JESS CARVER

Hank Day, Leroy P. in the 'phone book, returns to his alma mater, old Wash-Jeff, today after an absence of 'lo these many moons as head coach of football. Instead of "came the dawn" its "comes the Day" for the Presidents.

The former Washington High School mentor, as cagy as a zoo, with a record of extreme brilliance back of him as a scholastic mentor, calls together his Red and Black candidates this morning to inaugurate fall training. Some two score stalwarts, 23 of 'em veterans, gamboled about College Field as Coach Hank sent them through their initial drill.

The new mentor has tacked up the old "secret practice" sign, and added the good word "positively" thereto. Secret practice at Wash-Jeff is nothing new—but Wash-Jeff secret practices in the past two years often have taken on the general appearance of a national political convention. The rule will be rigidly enforced by Day. Only newspaper men and managers will be admitted . . . beside, of course, the ball players and his majesty, Sparky Adams, Schenley High School's most famous son, who has been a fixture at Wash-Jeff since Andy Kerr first decided that the seasons you couldn't have win-'em-all elevens, you always could build for character.

FULLBACKS EARLY

Four fullback candidates, Demedowitz, Deacle, Earick and Ericus, the latter pair sophomores, have been working out since the middle of last week at the intricate maneuvers of the position that is considered the key of the Day offense. Demedowitz, a very clever ball handler, good passer and a hard runner, may be developed into a triple threat man for the Prexies.

One of the first tasks that will confront Coach Day will be the development of a punter. The two stars of last year's eleven, Wilson and Kaiser, have graduated. Coach Day hardly will find punters of the class of that pair easy to replace.

The Tipoff

Tomorrow, Howard Harpster, the old pal himself, assembles his Geneva College Covenanters for the first of some two weeks of two-a-day sessions at Beaver Falls. Harpster inaugurates his third season as head coach at the Covenanter institution, all of which have been attended by marked success.

The first thing Harpster plans to do is to line up a new football captain to take the place of Tommy Stauffer, who was elected at the completion of the 1931 season, but Tommy took a summer course, completed his work and graduated. Sam Soper, hefty lineman, may be accorded the honor.

Bob Waddell has ordered Carnegie Tech's varsity candidates to report in tip-top physical condition for the initial workout next Thursday, which means that the boys may find themselves scrimmaging the very first day. A year ago the boys trotted out on the field on opening day, expecting the usual so-so workout, when lo and behold, didn't Steffen and Waddell give them a nice, tasty scrimmage. Boy oh boy—was there moanin' and misery in the camp that night? There was!

It is reported that Johnny Luch, Pitt's fullback mystery man, has shed some 20 or 30 pounds of excess weight from his frame and will report at Camp Hamilton weighing under 190 pounds. Luch has been a puzzle from the first day he entered school. Big and fast, a hard hitter of the Saviold type, John never has seemed to click. His mental attitude has been all a sea-rooy. He has to get mad before he gets good and he's a tough hombre to get riled.

LOCAL NETTERS IN TOURNEYS

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

The Pittsburgh district netmen face a busy week-end as the Labor Day holiday period approaches.

Tournament competition listed for Ambridge and Morgantown makes up the highly promising bill, action in the former bailiwick carrying with it the historic championships of Beaver County, while hostilities in the latter area will bear honors of the Morgantown Country Club. Both conclaves will be confined to men's singles and doubles, no women's events being listed.

LOCALS IN BEAVER PLAY

Steel citians certain to be on hand for the Beaver milling include George Henderson, Stanton Heights star just returned from nearly two months of tourney battling in the British Isles, and Karl Wolfe, giant Stanton southpaw, who, with Henderson, will constitute serious doubles threat in the impending festivities. Johnny Hecker, 1930 winner of the Louis Ingram Cup, symbolic of Beaver County singles honors, will be on deck again and it is hoped that Carl Dennison, Youngstown ace, who bagged the flagon in 1931, will likewise return with aim to retain possession of the coveted silverware.

Howdy Campbell and his brother, Dick, College Hill contenders, also will be in the lists, while Stewart Snodgrass, Geneva College mainstay; Harold Mathieson, 1930 and 1931 Pittsburgh Center boys' premier; Alan Jack, former junior threat; Don Reader, driving New Brightonite, and numerous similarly proficient racqueteers, will grace the roster. Play gets under way Saturday morning. Entries must be in the hands of Secretary W. C. Jack, 1000 Fourth avenue, Freedom, Pa., not later than Thursday.

EVENT AT MORGANTOWN

The Morgantown Country Club invitation contesting begins on Friday. Men's singles entrants will file names with Charles E. Hodges, Box 813, Morgantown, W. Va., before 9 p. m., on Thursday. Doubles aspirants have until Friday to signify the intent to compete.

Pittsburghers already billed for Mountaineerville appearance are Dr. John O'Loughlin, P. A. A. flash and ranking performer of these parts; brother Billy O'Loughlin, who last Sunday snared the Southern Pennsylvania man-to-man crown at Westmont; Eddie Alcorn, Pitt captain; Frank Broida, Pittsburgh Parks champion; Bob Lampus and Bud Leyda, Shannopin satellites; Frank Smith and Andy Smeaton, Edgewood warriors; Howard Moore, College avenue leader; Russ Unger, Neal Rumsey and John Brown, Mount Lebanon hopes, and the present writer.

Nat Fans Pay Off With Lucky Bucks

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—(Universal.)—Bleachers and left-field stands at Griffith Stadium rocked yesterday as 10,000 yelling, jumping, waving kids cheered Washington to a 13-inning victory over St. Louis, 7 to 6, in a thrill-packed game.

It was young Washington's day at the ball park as thousands of youngsters swamped attendants at the gates long before game time.

And every youngster there saw the game free of charge. The admission fee was "lucky bucks," play money clipped from the Hearst Sunday comic sections. A high stack of "lucky bucks" collected by the gatemen attested the widespread popularity of this new form of currency for Washington's children.

Department Store Stocks Show Substantial Advances

While the appreciation in department store stocks has been wide, a number having achieved a recovery of 100 per cent or more from their lows, the seasonal pick-up in retail trade lines, noted in the weekly trade reviews, has brought further buying into the stocks. Among department store issues which have had a wide rally are R. H. Macy and Best & Co. The former is selling around 44, against the low of 17, and the latter at around 17, compared with the bottom price of 5¾. In the first half of 1932, Best did only a little better than break even, and Macy's earnings were reduced. Both companies are in excellent trade position, and both could come back strongly. J. C. Penney, which has stores covering a wide territory, should quickly reflect any pickup in purchasing.

Speculative demand for copper stocks apparently is based on the continued rise of metal prices here and in London. Although the industry still is burdened with a great surplus, the same can be said for rubber, cotton and other commodities which have been recovering rapidly of late. Sympathetic strength in metal prices, therefore, is justified and what that means to the producers is obvious. The actual advance in copper prices so far is too small to be of any great benefit in earning power but there is a feeling in the industry that the corner has been turned and that the trend is up in metal prices. Further advances in the domestic price, which is still only a half cent or so above the all-time low, are predicted in Wall street.

A definite quickening in certain of its lines, notably in the rayon division, is reported to have been felt by the du Pont Company. It is possible, of course, that the advance in price enjoyed by the textile group as a whole has resulted in the placing of more liberal orders for rayon, but business has a habit of spreading from one line of endeavor to another once an improving tendency gets under way and du Pont with its wide diversity would benefit long before more specialized concerns participated in the betterment.

Alone in the leading financial markets, bonds lagged at the outset of the new week. The continued hesitation of that market, which topped off early last week after a full recovery of the losses recorded between early March and June 1, caused some traders to move cautiously in the stock market yesterday, because bonds have furnished valuable cues to the stock market in the past year. Bond traders describing the market as "stabilizing" and expressed the belief the recovery there would be resumed after the recent gains have been consolidated and when the business news indicates actual improvement in activity is under way to bolster the earning power behind second-grade issues.

The increase in public participation in the securities markets and the feeling that greater trading will follow more definite indications of business recovery have found reflection not only in the very substantial increase in the price of stock exchange seats, but also in the growing expansion of commission house facilities. For the first time in over two years the trend has been reversed and instead of closing offices, many firms are reopening their branches. Three houses announced the opening of new offices yesterday, following similar announcements last week.

Coast packers and shipping organizations handling export tonnage for the United Kingdom report heavy movement of canned and dried fruits. Pacific shippers estimate the movement may reach 800,000 cases from the United States this months. The movement has been sharply accelerated by prospect of increase in British tariffs expected to be in effect to cover shipments arriving by November 15. Canned fruit tax is expected to be raised 5 per cent ad valorem in addition to duty on sugar content.

URGES GREATER U. S. CONTROL OF BUSINESS

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—The great merit in the agenda suggested by the Advertising Club of New York and by organized labor for the October conference in New York on restoration of prosperity lies in the emphasis that more manipulation of speculative markets is not enough.

Calvin B. Hoover, economist of Duke University at Durham, N. C., in a message to this column, not only stressed the limitation on mere palliatives, but further indicated that America was unlikely to go back to the old order of 1929. He thinks that economic security requires greater governmental supervision and coordination of business activities.

Mr. Rukeyser

Queried about the opportunities for relief through credit expansion, Mr. Hoover, who is an authority on Russian conditions, declared:

"I believe that up to the present time the possibilities of credit expansion along ordinary lines have been pretty thoroughly exploited. I do not see how it would be possible to go much further than the Federal Reserve banks and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation have gone in rendering money 'easy.' At it is, it is more than likely that members of banks and other corporations which have received credit will yet have to be liquidated. Further ventures along the lines of financing the speculative purchase of commodities are a positive invitation to extensive losses without a compensating restoration of business activity.

"If the present efforts of the administration to force credit expansion do not succeed (and I have no great hope that they will) we shall probably be under the necessity of credit expansion through the issuance of federal bonds to pay for unemployment relief. It is likely that credit expansion of this sort would have more positive results than that attempted thus far. Nevertheless it would be only mildly effective on a limited front in solving the crucial problem of inadequate purchasing power. Credit expansion of any type will fail of its objective if the purchasing power of our population is not restored."

In giving his conception of a fundamental remedy, Mr. Hoover added:

"I am constantly growing more skeptical of the permanent value of attempts to restore purchasing power by means of credit expansion alone. It is doubtful whether we are going to be able to satisfactorily restore purchasing power without authoritative supervision of wages, hours of labor, dividend policies of corporations and commodity prices. This would involve not only the supervision of credit expansion, but would amount to a fundamental reconstruction of our mechanism of production and distribution. Certainly I see no very immediate prospect of such construction."

STOCK MARKET AGAIN ACTS WEARY

NEW YORK, Aug. 30—(AP.)—The stock market again acted a bit weary today. While a fair assortment of coppers, rubbers, motors and oils moved forward, most of the traditional leaders were logy.

A rather pronounced decline in some of the commodities, notably cotton, in the early trading was not particularly disturbing to the share market, but bullish efforts failed to attract an important following, and trading was comparatively quiet.

Goodyear, reflecting the sharp upturn in rubber yesterday, advanced about 4 points to a new high for the year, and other issues up 1 to nearly 2 points to new peak levels since 1931 included Firestone, United States Rubber, Chrysler, American Woolen, National Cash Register, Anaconda Copper, Kennecott, Noranda, Granby, and Calumet and Arizona. Similar advances appeared in such issues as Nash, Bendix, Electric Autolight, Borg Warner, United Fruit, Westinghouse, Standards of New Jersey and California, and Atlantic Refining. Losses of a point or two in the first few minutes were largely regained, but by early afternoon Union Pacific, Case, American Can and International Harvester were down a point, and American Telephone and United States Steel were off fractionally.

Commission house advices indicated a feeling that the approach of the Labor Day holiday weekend might prompt considerable profit taking, and that evidently tended to make traders cautious. Another factor was the continued indifferent performance of bonds, which have been lagging for several sessions. In both stocks and bonds, the railroad issues appear to have been adversely affected by the July operating income statements. A tabulation of the first 62 reports for July shows that gross was off about 36½ per cent from last year, while June had been off 33 per cent. Nevertheless, friends of the carrier issues felt that the August reports would be somewhat more favorable, and hoped for marked improvement in the later months of the year.

In connection with the buying of the motor and accessory stocks some automobile concerns have reported a little pickup in sales in August, from the extremely low levels of July. Most Wall street observers, however, have not expected much of a revival in the motor industry before October, although the Ford plants are slated to resume September 6. Coppers were helped by a slight firming of the domestic metal price, up ⅛ cent to 5⅝. Lead prices were advanced 1-10 cent to 3 6-10, up about half a cent in a fortnight. Wool was a strong spot in the commodities, wool top futures rising about 5 cents a pound, the sharpest advance since trading was started in New York in May of last year.

COTTON BREAKS THEN RALLIES

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Cotton futures opened barely steady, 47 to 58 points lower on weak Liverpool cables and heavy liquidation. October, 8.75; December, 8.90; January, 8.88; March, 8.90; May, 9.00; July, 9.12.

The market was extremely active and excited on the break which carried the price of December off to 8.82c or 49 points below yesterday's closing quotation and 84 points below yesterday's high level. Later there were sharp rallies with December selling up to 9.07c or 25 points from the lowest.

After the extraordinary rapid and severe early fluctuations, the market quieted down somewhat and showed a generally steady tone later in the morning. December sold up to 9.16c or 34 points from the low level of the morning while March advanced to 9.33c or 48 points above the lowest.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 30.—Cotton, no receipts; spot quiet; prices 5 points lower; quotations in pence: American strict good middling, 7.28; good middling, 7.23.

GRAINS RALLY AFTER SLUMP

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Sharp setbacks in grain values today followed downturns in stocks and cotton at New York. A heavy rush of profit-taking was induced by weakness of commodities. Opening ⅝ to 1 cent lower, wheat later continued weak. Corn started steady to ⅞ down and held around the initial figures.

Profit taking sales at the start were heavy, but were readily absorbed and the market soon started upward again. Heavy new buying, said to be by a prominent Chicago professional operator, brought wheat to yesterday's closing level, but there the market rested.

Forbes

By B. C. FORBES

YESTERAY'S COLUMN was crammed with favorable facts and figures. Improvement in sentiment, an essential prelude to economic recovery, is becoming more notable daily.

It is especially marked in the highest financial circles — where the least is being said publicly about it.

Mr. Forbes

ANDREW W. ROBERTSON, head of Westinghouse, who last week was named chairman of the National Committee on Rehabilitation, said yesterday:

"Financial and credit affairs are clearly and positively better. In fact, it might well be said that whatever weaknesses there were in the financial situation have been corrected or are in the process of being cured.

"Men of affairs should ask themselves, have we arrived at the period where the country has been sufficiently deflated to make a concerted effort to start business in the other direction not only advisable but absolutely necessary? It seems very clear to me that the answer to this question should be 'Yes.' The work can be done to greater advantage now than later, because of the favorable prices of labor and material."

PRESIDENT JOYCE, of the Chicago Great Western, states:

"With a continuation of the present upturn in car loadings, we will show black figures for August. With the higher prices for cotton and wheat, the south and west are going to have greatly increased buying power this fall.

This will mean better times for farmers, manufacturers and the railroads. Last week I saw several carloads of tractors being shipped into Iowa, the first I have seen in some months. We are now employing extra section hands to lay more ties and ballast than we anticipated we would do this year. Work can be done cheaper and better now."

JAMES E. DAVIDSON, chairman of the Electric Refrigeration Bureau and head of Nebraska Power, after informing me that the bureau is about to discontinue activities are unfounded, and that there is every prospect that operations will continue next year, says:

"There seems to be a much better feeling about business conditions in this section. Corn crop conditions in all corn-raising states were never better."

HOMER GUCK, Chicago publisher, tells this column:

"Business is showing evidences of an upturn. The Herald and Examiner's paid advertising lineage in July exceeded a year ago, and we are doing a little better than that this month."

TIMKEN SILENT Automatic of Detroit has issued an extraordinarily impressive broadside to salesmen reproducing scores of cheerful headlines appearing in newspapers within recent weeks, along with a message from General Sales Manager Walsh, which says, in part:

"Business is getting better—don't let anyone tell you anything different—and it's going to get even better, from now on. That's as certain as the dawn that follows darkness. Stop asking your prospect, 'how's business?'

"Rather, make sure that he has noticed the recent optimistic trend of business news. There is no group in the world who can do more to restore confidence than salesmen."

PRESIDENT O'NEIL, of General Tire, made this thought-compelling observation to me:

"If all the dangerous tires were to come off automobiles today, every rubber manufacturer would be working overtime for the next six months."

GUARANTY TRUST Company of New York:

"It is certain that the change in mental attitude is a necessary prelude to any recovery. The cessation of hoarding, the will to buy, and the impulse to build follow in natural sequence."

CAN ALL THESE authorities and many thousands more who see better times dawning be wrong?

BRITAIN PLANS BOND CHANGE

LONDON, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Encouraged by the success of the 5 per cent loan conversion to a lower rate, the British government will announce tonight a scheme to convert treasury bonds totalling £153,222,376 in a similar manner.

The financing will involve the 4½ per cent treasuries, series 1932-34, and the 4½ war loans series 1925-49. The total is equivalent currently to $530,149,420.

The details of the plan, including the amount by which the interest will be scaled down, will be issued tonight.

It is believed the scheme will be along the same lines as the one converting the 5 per cent war loan bonds, which effected a saving of £1,500,000 in interest annually.

MEMBER BANK LOANS DROP

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—The statement of weekly reporting member banks as of August 24 shows decrease for the week of $81,000,000 in loans and investments, $29,000,000 in government deposits and $12,000,000 in borrowings from Reserve banks; increase of $43,000,000 in net demand deposits and $65,000,000 in reserve balances with Reserve banks.

Loans on securities totaled $4,548,000,000, a drop of $35,000,000. All other loans aggregated $6,280,000,000, off $46,000,000.

Ohio Standard Cuts Gas Price

VALENTINE

Captivating Story of a Shy Girl Rushed Into Love

By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

CHAPTER VIII.

Joe came in plenty of time, really.

He looked almost handsome, Val thought. His hair was slicked back beautifully, and he had on the tuxedo, and real black dancing pumps.

Marjorie couldn't conceal her surprise. She looked him all over and then she whispered in Val's ear:

"Why, he's awfully cute, hon!"

Even Mrs. Bemis was impressed.

Val floated on air. She felt light as thistledown, and tingled with happiness from head to heel. Every street light was a glittering, scintillating star. Every word Marjorie and Frank said were excruciatingly funny. She loved every second of the drive in Frank's ramshackle old roadster, sitting on Joe's lap, Marjorie's hand on her knee.

"I've never seen you so vivacious, hon!" Marjorie whispered.

But after they arrived in the ballroom (the auditorium, really, with the chairs taken out) and she knew that her program was full, thanks to Marjorie's Frank who had taken care of that in advance, it wasn't so exciting.

She had counted on it, dreamed of it for so long. Worried that she wouldn't have a boy to go with, trembled that she wouldn't get all her dances, that her hair wouldn't look right, that the blue taffeta would be too childish.

VAL UNEXCITED

And here she was, with her program all filled—not a single dance to sit out with the wallflowers, with her hair just right and strange boys asking "Who's the one with the eyelashes, in blue?"

It should have been exciting, but it wasn't, very. If this was all there was to dances, why they were not worth the effort. Millie used to tell about dances, dances where she met new, exciting men, where strange things happened, where she danced her slippers to ribbons, and limped home in the early morning tired, happy, full of singing secrets.

Val could feel the thrill of it yet, remembering how Millie told it, but somehow she couldn't be thrilled at her own dance. Was she queer? Was something wrong with her?

Marjorie was thrilled, kept pinching her, "Isn't it wonderful, hon? Oh, hon, aren't we having a KEEN time?"

On the way home, squeezed between Marjorie and Joe, she was happy for a little while, feeling the cool wind on her warm cheeks, conscious of Marjorie's approval and Joe's nearness.

Then they stopped at her house, on Cornish street. Joe jumped down, gave her a hand, Frank and Marjorie sped away.

UNHAPPY PARTING

Val fished in her purse for the key. The scent of the heliotrope came up in a rush of sweetness. She stood, smiling up at Joe, holding the key, waiting, she didn't know what for . . . something. . . .

Joe said, "Run along and get your beauty sleep."

He waved his hand, started across the street.

Something in Val seemed to die. It was a hope she'd had, a hope of Joe—this new Joe who wore a tuxedo and didn't mind going to a dance, the Joe who was going away, to be separated from the Careys, the impossible, shiftless Careys, forever.

"Good night, Joe," she said. She felt that it was goodbye.

He wasn't only separating himself from his family. From her, too. Joe, the only boy who had ever liked her.

She tiptoed into the house, heard the rumble of Aunt Julia's snores, thought of Frank and Marjorie, of her mother who never wrote any more.

Tears of self-pity stood in her eyes. She saw them, and was ashamed of herself. After all Aunt Julia had done for her, after her luck in actually getting to her senior class dance, and getting all her dances!

She went into the kitchen, buttered herself two slices of bread and scooped two big pieces of pickled cauliflower from the pickle jar. Then she picked up her book, a biography of Mary Queen of Scots that Aunt Julia had given her for a graduation present, under the impression that it would improve her mind, and went to bed.

AUNT IS GRUFF

The book wasn't just what Aunt Julia had intended, but it was thrilling. Val read avidly, putting herself in the heroine's place, as she always did, and fell asleep towards morning, happy again, in her world of dreams.

"Did you have a good time, Val?"

It was noon. The 12 o'clock whistles were blowing, bright sunlight streamed through the open windows, fell warmly on Val's bed. She sat up, blinking:

"My, but I'm lazy! Why didn't you call me sooner? I didn't intend to sleep all day. Oh! Aunt JULIA! You DIDN'T have to bring my breakfast to bed!"

"Thought you'd be half dead after that silly dance," Aunt Julia said, gruffly, and sat down the tray. She was afraid she was spoiling the girl, bringing her hot biscuits and ham omelet, letting her sleep till noon. And as usual, that fear made, her gruff.

"Oh, I'm not tired—just lazy," Val said easily, but a shadow flitted across her face . . . Joe . . . Joe had failed her . . .

"It was late enough when you got home. I dropped off about 12. You weren't home yet."

"The dance wasn't over until 12!"

"I hope you came straight home. There's no sense in staying out after 12. It doesn't look right. I hope that Joey Carey didn't try to act foolish."

"What's foolish?"

"You know what I mean, Valentine Macfarlane. I guess I know how they act nowadays. That's one reason why I go to the movies, to keep up with the times. Let me tell you, you can't trust them—not one!"

VAL GETS WARNING

The dark flush that had crept over Val's face at the mention of Joe, ebbed away. Her lips twitched. "Oh, Aunt Julia, you do say such funny things! You don't think Joe wanted to run away with me, do you?"

"Run off with you! Not this generation. They wouldn't take that much of a chance. Too selfish. I know them. Joe, too. He's as bad as the rest, or he will be, if he ever gets away from his mother long enough. No, they won't run away with you. All they do is paw you and slobber all over you. That's cheap—and safe!

"Val, if I thought you'd let Joe Carey, or any one of those gangly boys with vaseline all over their heads, carry on like that with you I'll—I don't know what I'd do!"

Val gulped her coffee. "You see too many flaming youth pictures!" she said, laughing.

To her surprise, Aunt Julia laughed, too. Laughed until her big yellow teeth stood out in a gleaming row, and she had to take her glasses off to wipe them. "Well, maybe I do. I just want to warn you, that's all. But I guess I don't have to worry. You're like me, Val—not the kind to get into trouble with boys."

"Yes, I'm like you. And you need not worry about Joe. He's safe."

Val was smiling. Aunt Julia looked at her sharply. She was unhappy about something. Maybe she didn't have a good time . . . Those silly high school kids . . . Glad when Val was through.

"At normal, you'll meet a different class altogether. Not so flighty," she said briskly, rising to take the tray.

OBJECTS TO TEACHING

Val didn't answer. This wasn't just the time to say that she wasn't going to normal. But she wasn't. That was one thing she wouldn't do. She wouldn't teach. Not if she died for it.

Now if her mother, if Millie, instead of Aunt Julia . . . Her mind went flying back to the old days. Back to the flat with the big high ceilinged rooms, and Jim Atkinson's rough blue overcoat hanging on a hook in the little square hall . . . No, Millie wouldn't want her to be a school teacher. Millie wouldn't stand for that. Perhaps Millie would know that she was about to graduate, would write for her . . . Perhaps she'd been waiting all these years, for her to finish her schooling and then . . .

She saw herself and Millie together . . . in big, studio rooms, with gay, interesting people gathered about, admiring them. Riding across the continent in a low-slung, powerful roadster. On a steamer bound for Europe . . . meeting people . . . real people . . . real men, men who aren't afraid to love, who want to marry . . .

When Aunt Julia came back to get the coffee pot Val was sitting on the edge of the bed, dreamily pulling on her stockings. Her young, lovely face was aglow with tender light.

She knew she was a fool to worry, but she couldn't help it. Mrs. Carey had lost no time in telling her about the episode in the Carey kitchen.

"Oh, what's a kiss? Don't be so blamed old fashioned!" she had snapped at her outraged informer.

It was probably done a lot, and didn't mean much . . . for other girls. . . . But for her Val . . . for Val, so soft and alluring, so like Millie . . . it was different. . . .

And that wasn't the worst of it. Val kept it from her. Val wasn't giving her her full confidence. Anything could happen and she would not know it.

With her square, plain face all puckered with worry she sat down on the rocker in the kitchen to read over Millie's last letter.

Then she folded it up and said a little prayer:

"Dear Lord, you keep Millie away from her for another year or two, until she gets past this silly age, and I won't ask for anything else. I'll handle the rest somehow. But keep Millie away another year—just one more year, Lord, please!"

Synopsis

Now Go On

"Did you have a good time?" asked Aunt Julia.

Lee Chow Asks to Examine Strong Box

It seemed to me that the echoes of Lillian's sardonically amused voice had not died away before Lee Chow appeared at the nursery door.

"Sit down," I said hospitably. "I shall be very glad to help you in any way I can."

He seated himself and went to the point promptly.

"I want to find out all I can about this lock box, the possession of which has caused so much trouble for you," he said. "Will you please tell me everything you can about it?"

"I can do that very quickly," I said. "You know, of course, that Mrs. Underwood was married before, and that Marion is the child of her first husband, Tom Morton?"

He inclined his head gravely and I went on.

"He was a thorough-paced scoundrel, but he tried to atone a little before he died. Not with property, however. He was supposed to have left none. His old mother, even, was left penniless, and Lillian took care of her until the poor old woman died. This, of course, was after her marriage to Mr. Underwood, and the unfortunate circumstances that separated them for so long."

Lee Chow nodded his understanding of that phase of my story and I hurried on.

"When Marion first went away to school, she brought to me an old-fashioned lock box that her grandmother had given to her. She showed me that beneath the apparent bottom there were three envelopes marked not to be opened until the child came of age. She had told Marion that she must not let anyone, especially her mother, see the box.

TAKEN TO BANK

"Marion had kept it hidden through the years, but she did not dare leave it in her room, or take it with her to the school. At that time she did not like her stepfather, so she brought the box to me for safe keeping. Not very long after there began a series of desperate attempts to get hold of the box. You probably know all about them."

"Yes, I have been told about them. Your father put the box in the bank for safe keeping, did he not?"

"Yes. It is there now."

"Those envelopes, when you saw them, had not been opened?"

"Oh, no."

"Did you have them in your hands?"

"At the time my father put the box in the bank, yes."

"What did you notice about them?"

"That they contained papers that rustled; also small, hard, knotty objects."

"Ah!" The exclamation was curiously like a prayer. Then he was silent for a little.

"How long before this child becomes of age?" he asked at last.

"About two months."

HAS SUSPICION

"Then," he decided, "I must wait the appointed time. It is not a good thing to flout the wishes of the dead. But—would the young girl be willing that I should take those envelopes in my hands, as you and your father did, and run my fingers over the outside of them?"

He put up his hands as I was about to answer, and his black eyes were so narrowed that I knew what was meant by the old simile of "pin points."

"Tell her I would not ask this if it were not necessary that I should be able to determine something I suspect about the contents of those envelopes; and upon that suspicion depends something so important that I cannot find words to explain how vital it is."

"She may wish to be present while you inspect the box," I said.

"She must be," he said quickly. "Otherwise I cannot touch it."

I looked at my wrist watch and rose abruptly.

"If you wish to get that box from the bank this afternoon and put it back again before closing hours, you will have to hurry," I said.

He had risen with me and now stood smiling at me gravely.

"I wish to hurry, but not on account of the bank," he said. "Your father has what you call over here 'pull.' The president himself will remain over to receive the box. But I should like to get the young girl's permission as soon as I can."

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

By WILLIAM ZEILOR

Saturday's Junior Komic Club meeting at the Enright Theater found a record attendance present, seeking fun at the club and thrills from "Doctor X," the weird mystery thriller now current at the Enright.

Just as soon as the doors were open the children got their first surprise in the form of a prize package for each of the early comers and then the meeting was called to order and the club pledge read by the Grand Jester, petite Miss Rita Behm, and repeated by all the club members in one great, loud voice.

Remembering last week's gay "tug o'war," and the challenge made at that time by the girls, the next event on the program was a "tug o'war" between the girls and the boys. Our hats are off to the girls. They sure can tug—not to mention their lusty yells of battle. It was a closely contested battle and after a brief skirmish and too many yells to mention, the boys got together in one grand "pull" and brought the girls across the line. Still not satisfied, the girls have warned the boys not to "crow" over their victory, for the struggle will be continued at a later date and the girls will then surely take the laurels.

DANCING CLASS

The "tug-of-war" seemed to have been a perfect unlimbering exercise for the girls as they immediately entered into the rigors of the dancing class. And if you are not familiar with the Enright dancing school, we wish to say that Ruthie Miller is a thorough and strenuous instructress. But she is a personable young lady and the kiddies like her strict classes and there is not one that ever drops out before the last step has been executed.

Having patiently observed the girls "showing off" their dancing talents, the boys were ready for some activity and immediately started a thrilling game called "Kelly Says." It is very much like a military drill and the many trick commands are a trying brain and physical test. The winner gave visible proof of his superiority and easily carried off the prize as one by one the contestants were tricked into executing a false command and thereby eliminated from the contest.

PLAY DODGE BALL

At the conclusion of the "drill" both the boys and girls were called into action to participate in a thrilling dodge ball contest. As the fair sex must always be favored the girls were the first to act as the "throwers." Did they take vengeance out upon the boys—we'll say they did and it took a lively boy to outstep the fast returns that the girls kept moving across the circle. When, at last, only one young lad remained and positions were reversed the boys became the "throwers." Fortunately for the girls the boys were beginning to tire from their active morning and they were not kept going at a pace equal to the one they had set for the boys.

After still more yells and many hops and pumps there remained but one girl and to the lucky lady went the spoils. Now that she has been a prize-winner she can go home and take-in "washing" with the minature laundry outfit which she was awarded for her activity in the contest.

READY FOR REST

Having gone through such a lively hour, your reporter thinks that all of the club members were ready for a bit of quiet relaxation, whey they scampered to the auditorium to witness the regular program.

The Home Loan Bank

Selection of Pittsburgh as Headquarters Shows Appreciation of the City's Importance.

Belated recognition of Pittsburgh's importance has at last come from the administration at Washington in the selection of this city as headquarters for one of the new Federal Home Loan Banks.

Political considerations have heretofore prevented the city from getting its just deserts. When Democrats were in power they gave their favors to Democratic cities; when Republicans were in power, influenced no doubt by the thought that Pittsburgh would remain staunchly Republican regardless of how badly it might be snubbed, they gave their favors to cities whose loyalty was not so unquestionable.

Perhaps the granting of this plum to Pittsburgh is due to some doubt as to whether the city will remain safely Republican this year.

Whatever the motive, the gift is a welcome one. Placing the bank here will improve our prestige as a financial center.

Pooh Bah, the character in Gilbert and Sullivan's comic opera, "The Mikado," who held such a ludicrously large number of public offices, is not without local counterparts.

There is Magistrate Thomas Jones, for example, who is also an alderman and also a ward chairman.

The latest addition to the number is John F. Kenna, who has just been placed on the state payroll at $2,500 a year as an investigator in the inheritance tax division of the office of the Register of Wills. He obtained the place through the influence of Senator Coyne. Another man had to be discharged to create the vacancy.

Kenna is also alderman of the Eighth Ward, a highly coveted position.

He is also Republican ward chairman, a job that requires no little time and attention.

It is a shame that Kenna should have been placed on the state payroll while already holding a lucrative public job. It is especially shameful at a time like this, when so many are out of work and it is so desirable that jobs should be widely distributed.

The public may well ask, too, how well its work is likely to be done when one man shoulders so much.

Choosing New Assessors

The Importance of Naming Incorruptible Men for the Jobs Cannot Be Overemphasized.

The County Commissioners held meetings Sunday and yesterday to choose more than 150 assessors.

Under the old regime some of the assessors were the tools and catspaws of crooked political leaders and engaged in wholesale dishonesty to aid their bosses in election frauds.

At this time last year, for example, such items as this were appearing in the Sun-Telegraph:

Investigators for the Registration Commission charged that 51 persons assessed as living at 330 Liberty avenue were "phantoms." Other "phantoms" were assessed as residents at addresses found, on investigation, to be the postoffice, warehouses, vacant lots, and the like.

Dishonest assessments made it possible for thousands of fraudulent votes to be cast. Dishonest assessments would have been next to impossible without dishonest assessors.

The County Commissioners are doing well in choosing the new assessors deliberately. If we are to have honest elections, the places must go to incorruptible men and women, who will see that no more "phantoms" are placed on the assessment lists, regardless of how hard pressed for votes their politician friends may be.

Another Murder Mystery

Pittsburgh Police Are Again Challenged to Show Their Detective Ability.

George Pannell, the Negro who was mysteriously murdered in the Hill district during the week-end, may or may not have been able to identify the slayers of the three Volpe brothers.

Whether he "talked too much" about the Volpe case, as the police suggest, or whether his tragic end was entirely free from any connection with the other affair, the fact remains that the police are once more challenged to show if they possess any detective skill.

It will not do to offer as an excuse for failing to catch the murderer or murderers that they are members of the powerful gang that assassinated the Volpes and John Bazzano.

The outstanding thing is that murder after murder is being committed in Pittsburgh with apparent impunity.

The Eclipse Tomorrow

Observe the Phenomenon, for It Will Be the Last Opportunity for 31 Years.

The moon will pass between the earth and the sun tomorrow afternoon. The eclipse will begin in Pittsburgh at 3:18 p. m. daylight saving time, will reach its maximum, 88 per cent of totality, at 4:30, and will be over at 5:38 p. m.

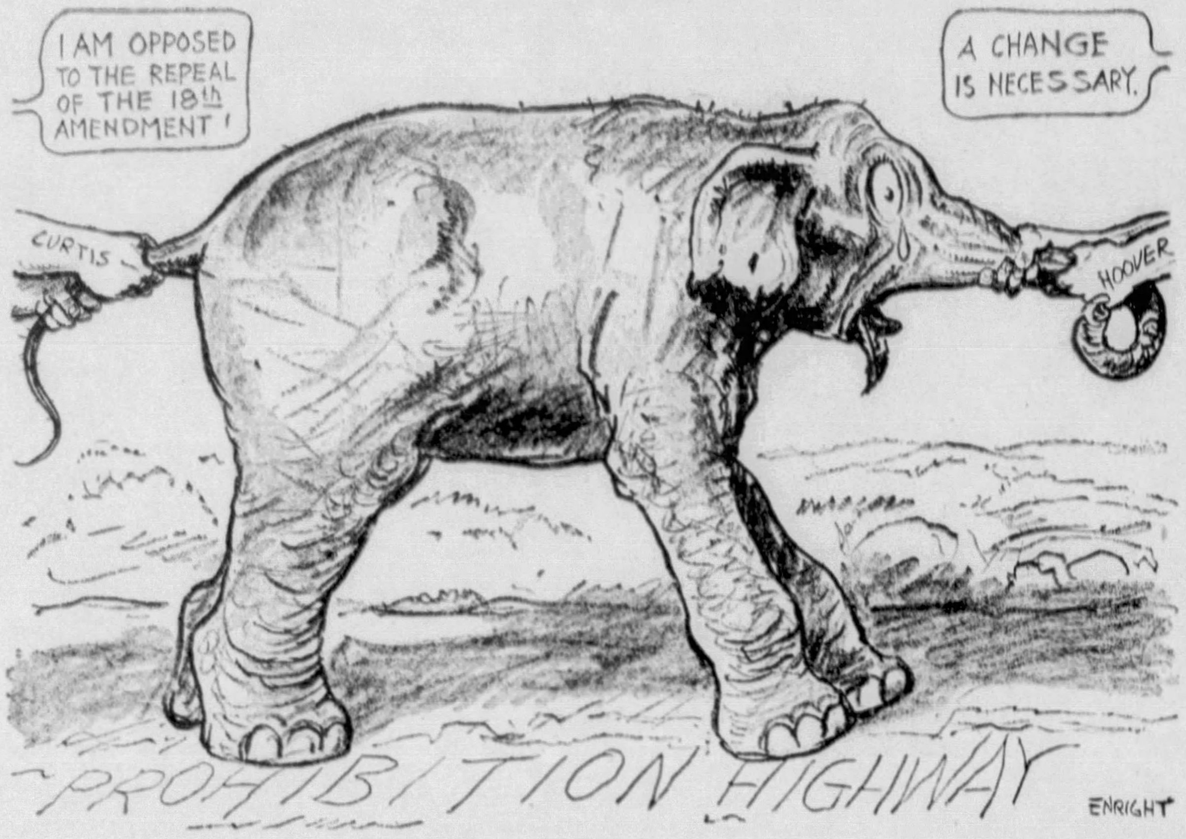
A total eclipse of the sun has been called "the most awe-inspiring of all celestial spectacles." Although it will not be total here, the phenomenon will be worth observing. The corona will not be visible, but the sunlight will be dimmed and will assume a slightly different color from that to which we are accustomed. Crescent images of the sun will be seen under trees.

An incentive for dropping work for a few minutes to look at the eclipse may be found in the fact that we shall not have another solar eclipse in this part of the country until July 20, 1963.

Watch the eclipse, but watch it through smoked glass or a processed photographic film or plate. To look at the sun with the eye unprotected is to run the risk of being blinded.

"Whither Goest Thou, Bolivar?"

(Copyright, 1932.)



Bolivar himself would like to be able to answer that very question.

One G. O. P. Standard bearer, Hoover by name, forced the Party to take a WET-DRY-MIDDLE OF THE ROAD stand on the Prohibition issue and the other Standard bearer, Curtis by name, definitely announced that the bone dry path was the Chosen Path for him.

Pity poor Bolivar! He'd like to get somewhere. But how can he with the rival Mahouts trying to pull him BOTH WAYS AT ONCE?

Originators of Our Party Methods

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

In the midst of the campaign it may be interesting to recall the men who, 100 years ago, introduced to American politics the methods which, with improvements, are used today. It was after Andrew Jackson had lost the presidency in 1828 in the congressional caucus that a few ardent worshipers of Old Hickory determined to take no chances in 1832. These men set to work four years before to make Jackson's selection inevitable. Today this is done by getting commitments from local politicians throughout the country. Then it was done in precisely the same way.

There were three or four outstanding men in the group. It would be absurd to overlook the part played by Martin Van Buren in that fight; but his work was confined largely to a few states and he dealt only with the political chieftains. After all, Jackson's strength was in having behind him in every community the local politician not known outside his own neighborhood.

In bringing these local politicians into line the principal work was done by four men who have come to be known as the Kitchen Cabinet.

Kendall Most Astute Politician

The most consummate politician of them all was Amos Kendall. He was the editor of a paper in Kentucky. Born in New England, he had migrated to Kentucky in search of fortune. He was a rather frail, slight man with a peculiar pallor. He was not a rough and tumble mixer. He was a master of management. But he loomed above most of the others who made common cause with him by virtue of his intellectual qualities. He understood political principles as well as tactics. He was a master psychologist in getting his ideas across to the people. At the height of his power in Washington during the Jackson regime he was a mystery. He seldom appeared in society. When he did he slipped in and out like a ghost, and Harriet Martineau thought he looked like one because he seemed so pale and wan.

Blair a Master Of Intrigue

Another outstanding figure in the group was Francis P. Blair, also a Kentucky editor. He had a genius for politics. Personally he was horribly ugly, entirely unprepossessing. But no man of his time had a more slashing pen and he was to become the editorial wizard of the Jacksonians.

Then, he was a fighter—one who did not back away from the contests of broken bones and bloody noses. He possessed the belligerent qualities of the Kentuckians of his time. Along with all this he was a master of intrigue. He could fight in the open or under cover. It depended entirely on the occasion.

There was still another editor, Ike Hill, of New Hampshire, a rough diamond with a genius for the pungent phrase. No one of the group was more thoroughly hated by the enemy. This was due in part to the fact that he did his fighting in New England, the enemy's country. No language was too foul with which to lambast him. But the fouler the language the greater the delight of Hill. He would smile after a particularly nasty attack and chortle: "I have hit them, for they flutter."

The fourth member was a Tennessee planter and personal friend of Jackson's—Major Lewis. He possessed none of the genius-like traits of the others. He had sound common sense, an appreciation of the value of organization.

First 'Practical Politicians'

Up until the time of these men there had been no adequate organization of ordinary men for political purposes. Jefferson had tried and measurably succeeded in mobilizing them in his campaign of 1800. But after that, government became largely a matter for the leaders. The masses merely registered the will of the big men. The Jacksonians proposed that the big men should register the will of the masses.

This could be accomplished only by making the masses politically articulate and powerful. So these practical politicians, the first of their kind, set to work to organize them in every nook and corner of the country. The local men were made to understand that they were to be held responsible for their tiny territory.

Formation of Party Machinery

Having mobilized the masses, the next step was to drill and discipline them to make them march all one way. This was done through leaders of importance in every state and section who were in direct and frequent touch with the master minds at the top. Within a year, orders could be sent out from the G. H. Q. with the certainty that they would be obeyed militantly in every precinct in the land.

But ammunition was an important thing, too, and arrangements were made to feed the army with abundant ammunition from Washington. A great newspaper was established in the capital with Kendall and Blair in charge. It was purely and frankly a party paper. The editorials were not only slashing but they dealt with facts and figures in an attractive way. Anyone could understand them. These were copied in newspapers throughout the land. The party paper itself had subscribers in every nook and corner.

But there were local slants to the political situation that could not be ignored. Where the local editor did not possess the qualities necessary to deal with this local slant, editorials were prepared in Washington for that particular community.

Jackson Campaign Perfectly Managed

Not all the general editorials appeared in the Washington papers. Many written in Washington were sent to papers in all sections—editorials on the same subject but couched in different ways. Then the national paper would publish these editorials from papers everywhere, all striking the same note, and thus create the impression of party solidarity.

Never has any campaign been managed so perfectly as those of Jackson under the direction of these men.

'Kitchen Cabinet' Scorned by Many

Among the intelligentsia there is a disposition to sneer at the Kitchen Cabinet. There are several reasons for this. One is that these men gave political power to the masses, and some of the intelligentsia resent democracy.

Another is that none of them rose to power through public office. They lacked the dignity of high public station.

But the chief reason is that they won victories, and the defeated party never admires the whips with which it is lashed.

Not one of them but was a real patriot in the highest sense. They all were devoted to principles; they had conviction; and two of them were of great service to their country after the Jacksonian period had passed.

Kendall became one of the most useful citizens of Washington and in later life was interested in philanthrophy.

These men set a standard for efficiency in party warfare that has seldom been approached. Little is done today they did not do before; and little they did ever was done before them.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

The Forgotten Woman

"What's the use of being a nice, decorus, sensible girl?" said the Office Philosopher, with an appraising glance at her vanity mirror.

"It may get you a reward in Paradise, but it certainly gets you no publicity and very little attention here on earth. You may make your mother or your husband or your family perfectly happy by doing the wise and proper thing—but you've got to do something foolish or wild or desperate to make the world sit up and take notice.

"Of course, occasionally, some 'nice girl' like Amelia Earhart or Helen Wills DOES get her picture in the newspapers. But the world is full of sensible, dutiful, nice-looking girls who will never get a line of public praise, except in their obituaries or on their tombstones.

"Any woman who has made two or three or four husbands miserable and helped keep up the traffic to Reno or has thrown a paperweight at her gigolo or helped herself to some other woman's husband, gets a big spread and lots of stage and screen offers. But did you ever hear of a woman being given a "scare-head" because she was devoted and true to her husband and could make good blueberry pie?

"That's not NEWS—but it ought to be, in these days when devoted wives and good cooks are so scarce and divorcees are so plentiful.

"It ought to be 'news,' when a girl goes home from the office and helps her mother with the dishes, instead of rushing out to a dance or a movie and spending all her money on mesh-stockings and taxicabs.

"It ought to be 'news,' when a girl refuses to be kissed or mauled in a taxicab, and never goes out with anybody except her steady sweetheart, whom she intends to marry, and never plays in any other woman's back-yard.

"It ought to be 'news,' when a woman marries a wild bachelor and makes him over into a useful citizen, and brings up his sons to be gentlemen. And when a man goes to the office every morning, comes home on time for dinner, every night, keeps his bills paid up, loves his own wife and never looks at any other woman.

"But, it's only when a society woman elopes with her chauffeur or a showgirl married a millionaire or some rich playboy throws his Cutie out of a window or gives his wife a black eye, that the public begins to take an interest in them.

"The Forgotten Man and The Forgotten Woman are the ones, who do their work conscientiously, keep to the straight and narrow path, never cut in on other people's love-affairs or marriages, never drive motor cars while intoxicated, and never shoot each other up.

* * *

"They aren't 'COLORFUL,' I suppose, or 'glamorous' enough. Still, they are getting to be almost as rare as the man who 'bites a dog.' So they OUGHT to be 'news.'"

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—I have formulated a set of rules for street begging which, such as they are, I pass along for what they are worth. No one these days can be indifferent. I try to give at least a small coin, always to the blind, the badly crippled and the very aged.

For able-bodied who seek alms, I have tickets providing either a bed or a night's lodging. Such types I do not give money. The most impertinent, and likely the least deserving, are mendicants who stick their heads in automobile windows at traffic stops in a scrambling clutch.

A charity worker informs me they are 100 per cent drifters, who spend their rewards for cheap booze and depend upon charities for food, lodging and clothes. Thousands of shiftless find living easier these days and thus intensify the burden of the deserving.

The professional moocher knows many tricks of his unworthy calling. A young man with a girl is considered an excellent target. Beggars rely on the embarrassment of youth to win their appeals. The "dummy chucker" pounces on a piece of planted bread in the gutter to excite a shower of change.

Crying is one of the certain clinchers, but it is rare; it is not the faked effort of the expert. Lacking a nickel for fare to some imaginary suburb is another sure fire. Finally, the best way to help is to lump as much as possible and turn over to a worthy charity.

The futility of writing frequently assails every member of the craft. Some one once dismally expressed it: "A pen is but a feather lifted on the wind." A disconsolate scrivener at breakfast today was stressing the theme. The finest writing, he averred, invariably is a pose, an appeal to maudlin instincts. The most delicious moment he ever experienced was when, taunted in a Liverpool groggery, he felled a giant sailor and stamped out his teeth. "Yet," he complained, "I seek to thrill my customers with murmured nothings of nobodies on moonlight decks of yachts. I'm a colossal faker."

* * *

Many scholars declare Shakespeare must have felt the same way about his calling. In the last bit of writing he ever did, he said:

My project fails,
Which was to please—
My ending is despair.

If I were asked to point out the greatest weakness of all writers, it would be their perpetual efforts at impersonations, as the gentlemen at breakfast said. We fly into affectations of pugnacity in print, when we really don't give a hoot. Or we assume a role as smart-alecy or, perhaps, an imitation of Mr. Shaw. Writing is precisely like the stage, and being natural is its supremest asset.

* * *

Not so far back in the hollow of time, Queen Marie was constantly in the headlines and the newsreel shots. Then, in the manner of snapping off an electric light—oblivion. An authentic biography is reputedly knocking around magazine shops, with no takers. No one knows why, but perhaps Charles Hanson Towne's reason for the eclipse of another headliner fits. He said: "Too many people do things these days."

* * *

Charlie Towne, widely publicized as Manhattan's most confirmed celibate, is reported to have settled down to a country gentleman's life, dividing time between a carat-like farm in Connecticut and a bachelor flat in town. Recently he actually has been dining at home. For a stretch of 15 years, he was a dinner guest without a single night's exception at some home, club or cafe. His conversational charm made him that desirable. His enthusiasm for the bizarre of daily life never wanes. With one eye narrowed and an index finger lifted, he may tell you that he had a soda at Hick's today, and so fantastic is his treatment of the commonplace, his listener will be absorbed.

* * *

Another prestidigitator with the mediocre is the glum looking humorist, Frank Sullivan. He can write an essay on broccoli or pretzels that makes his readers roll on the floor. His wit never deserts him. During a siege of pneumonia, his nurse praised his gargling of a solution. "Gargiers," he whispered in wan braggadocio, "are born, not made."

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

I say to you—How much beauty have you in your life?

You start to make a list. You think of the beautiful things you own . . . the beautiful things you have done.

A ring. A few fine books. A picture. Your new car. That fine tennis racquet. The trip you took to Florida. The time you saw Pavlova dance. The music lessons you're going to take this winter.

Beautiful things you own or have seen or have done—you name them over.

"There's the beauty I have in my life," you say.

But you're wrong. You may have all these possessions and experiences in your life, yet have no beauty. You may have none of these things and yet walk with beauty every hour.

Once I read a verse by Norman Strand which defined beauty. Here it is—

BEAUTY

"Beauty is not in the bush
Nor in the tree,
Nor in the sky,
Nor in the sea,
But something bound in the blood of me."

There is truth about beauty.

BEAUTY IS NOT OUTSIDE US . . . IT IS IN US.

BEAUTY CANNOT BE BOUGHT OR TAUGHT . . . IT MUST BE LIVED.

AND BEAUTY IS THE ONE THING WHICH ANY MAN MAY POSSESS TO ANY MEASURE . . . AND WHICH ANY MAN MAY EXPERIENCE IN ANY PLACE . . . PROVIDED HE HAS THE UNDERSTANDING OF BEAUTY "BOUND IN HIS BLOOD."

How much of your life have you spent envying "people who have lovely things?" And yet you can only have as much loveliness as there is within you, yourself.

A picture hangs on a wall. Twelve men see that picture. Eleven of them can see nothing in it. A few lines scrawled on white paper. But to the twelfth man that picture is a revelation of pure beauty.

Seeing it, he is lifted out of his tired body—and his shabby clothes. He is carried away from pain and shame and worry. And once again he sees the salt tides rolling in over the pale marshes in the wide, still light of dawn . . . and hears the plover's skirling cry . . . and smells the sour richness of the wild, black soil.

Eleven men see nothing, feel nothing but a scrap of paper and a few scrawled lines. They would still see nothing, feel nothing but a little foolish pride even if they were told that that picture was worth $2,000 and they could buy it and hang it in their rooms.

But the twelfth man, shabby, harassed, half fed, finds wonder and ecstasy and release in that picture. He, alone, really OWNS it and makes it part of his life.

You can have beauty. You can have all the beauty you want. And nothing can take it from you. It will stand by you through all loss and distress. It will comfort you even by the grave.

BUT YOU ARE THE ONLY ONE WHO CAN FIND THAT BEAUTY FOR YOURSELF, AND YOU CAN FIND IT ONLY THROUGH THE GROWTH OF YOUR SPIRIT

Begin to look for beauty. It is all around you. It is waiting in the commonest objects, the simplest experiences.

In the afternoon sunlight, spilling through your kitchen window, lying in a pool on your freshly scrubbed floor—

In the heave and sway of a man, driving a plough through crumpling furrows of red sod—

In all these simple sights. Beauty waits. It is yours—IF YOU CAN FIND IT.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Mr. Husband, you may think that the mere fact that you remain at home evenings is all that should be expected of you.

You can see no reason why you should make any effort to entertain others in the home.

You have seen and heard interesting things while at work but you don't realize that your family might enjoy hearing about them.

What a waste of time it is, just to visit with your wife, you think.

She should be satisfied that you are home, though you sleep all the evening, read or do something else that you individually enjoy—so you argue.

You know many men who seldom spend an evening at home.

If your wife had such a husband she might have grounds for complaint.

So you pat yourself on the back because you remain at home and do it because you prefer that to anything else.

Therefore you stay at home for selfish reasons.

Your wife, who has taken care of children all day, would like to speak adult language for a change.

Don't be a dead one when you get home, but make the home folk happy.

You can do a lot toward making them happier and home a more enjoyable place.

ISN'T IT SO?

A good word is as soon said as an ill one.

Whenever liberty is limited, it is just that much nearer to being lost altogether.
